DOGS, HORSES & RODEO

As I'm writing this, our little miniature dachshund (Ruby the tension tamer on page 2) is recovering from a massive infection that included teeth and eyes ... the horse threw her shoe for the second time in two weeks ... and we are supposed to be in Cheyenne passing out magazines.

Life happens and it's up to us to make it work. I have put lots of tears in the jar over this little dog – what I could have done different and how I can help her ease the pain. Psalm 56:8 You keep track of all my sorrows. You have collected all my tears in your bottle. You have recorded each one in your book.

It's hard when you don't sleep at night and wonder what you could have done better. All we can do is wake up and be better – take care of what's at hand and keep moving forward. I have a real soft spot for dogs in my life and this one got me good.

The bright spot in this is Jaicee Williams – an intern that came down in the thick of all my sorrow and is so eager to learn and “be in the pit” at Cheyenne. She came from Wall, South Dakota, and she has been writing for Rodeo News for a few months now. To see her excitement to experience Cheyenne has rubbed off. See her article on page 111.

I think we take each day as new and see it from a child's eye – or Jaicee's eye ... take everything in and make it a great day to celebrate our Great God.

The other blessing is having my good friend Wilma Fulgham as the Back When They Bucked. She was my mentor and great friend in the media room for decades at the WNFR.

May the Lord give you peace at all times.

The Rodeo Clown Reunion

WHERE LAUGH-GETTERS & COWBOY SAVERS RELIVE THE PAST

The ProRodeo Hall of Fame and the Douglas County Fair & Rodeo is the destination for the 23rd Rodeo Clown Reunion. It is a time for retired bullfighters, funny-men and barrelmen to gather and reminisce, don their only familiar baggy britches and personal make-up, and spend time doing what they did “back in the good old days”. They sign autographs, perform old acts and kibbitz with the fans. When they have a few minutes to catch their breath in between gigs, they visit with other honorees and tell stories of earlier arena days and things that happened they well remember and other rodeo clowns who are no longer with us.

The purpose of the Rodeo Clown Reunion is to show these seniors that we are grateful for what they did in the rodeo arena entertaining the audience and saving the bull riders from serious harm and more. Their abilities to promote a rodeo and put a smile on the spectators faces is so important to the success of an event and we are grateful for their years in this profession and their willingness to entertain.

On August 6th, the honorees will be at the ProRodeo Hall of Fame with programs, acts, and autographs. It will be a day which anyone can spend with these characters and cowboy heroes, asking questions and learning about the life of a rodeo clown. How did they happen to choose this profession? How dangerous is it to stand in front

MAD. MEAN. MISERABLE.

article by Mark Eaton

Mad is often our response when hard words are spoken by someone we love. We get bruised and getting mad offers us an illusion of control.

We choose a mad response, in some cases, because we know no other way. In other cases, it is the appearance of control that has appeal. Or maybe it's because we are scared and want to feel big. Regardless, the pattern is that something happens and the mad gets triggered. The mad might present as a snide smile, a mocking laugh, a look of disgust, an eye roll, an arrogant sigh, a sudden silence or an outright yelling session. Mad often smiles easier than it shouts.

Mad folks tend to be mean folks. In an overt or covert way. Doesn't matter. Mean is mean and intends to right the "wrong" by wronging the wrong doer. Or the universe. Or the dog or the idiots on the road that day. Or everyday. It can be passive-aggressive, the silent treatment, sabotage, gas-lighting, contentiousness, pouting, punishing, plotting revenge or outright yelling hurtful words.

We're not sure why he was mad or what triggered his meanness. However, yet another, in this case a retired Federal Marshal was not mourning his father's passing. I told him I was sorry for the loss of his dad. He said: "...don't be. I don't feel any loss. Dad made sure of that by the time I was 10 (yrs old)." After years of making repair attempts with his father he simply quit trying. His dad was mad and mean.

Miserable. Being mad and mean causes a terrible unrelenting tension. Tightness. Locked up. Can't laugh freely and sure can't cry freely. It's a state of dull miserableness. Isolated and lonely in the rusted tower of self-righteous and self-justified anger. All the while missing out on the best of life. It is self-fulfilling and self-sabotage in its classic predictable form.

His whole life was a "chosen miserableness of his own making and he spread misery to everyone around him". Obviously then, his misery grew deeper. Everyone saw it except him. The loneliness ate away his insides. He blamed the cos-mos. He doubled-down and re-justified his anger. His misery darkened. Repeat over a lifetime. Failed strategies do not become successful by increasing one's commitment to them. We avoid these folks. Don't be this guy.

- courtesy

Change is hard and gets harder with time and exponentially harder when fueled by fools' blind pride. Mad gets Mean. Mean gets Miserable. Misery multiplies. Mark it down.

There is stronger way. Here's a quadruplet that might be useful.

Hurt. Humble. Happy. Helpful.

When that person we love says a hard thing or fails to come through for us we can get hurt. I tell men to be tough enough to feel the hurt. Don't be such an emotionally driven person and go to "mad" like a week-old calf goes to mamma. Own the hurt and play the adult. Face it. Name it. Feel it. Don't childishly lash out at the nearest weakest thing. This paragraph is my story. This is my speech to myself. It is easier to type about it than to actually do it in the moment. I want to be man enough to admit the hurts.

A better, more courageous, godly and ultimately, bridge-building place, is to go toward humility. Face the mirror and see my part in the issue. See my selfish goals for what they are. Be humble enough to gently talk about it.

This is the work of mature adults. It seems I have a ways to go. Even Christ, who was always right, lead with humility and the result was.....well.....reconciling the entire world to God.

Humble is powerful. World changing. Life changing. My father modeled this for me when I was 25 yrs old. I wrote about it 75 articles ago. The strength of his humility grand-slammed my life to a better place.

We want to be happy and not miserable. But some try to get happy through mad and mean ways. It's 100% failure every time. The pathway to happiness is through this idea of being humble when we get hurt.

It is strange counter-intuitive, counter-cultural and counter to our nature.

So if we want to be happy, we need to give up the pouty mad-mean routine. Have to courage to be humble and build the bridges. Be this guy. This guy is actually helpful to the rest of us. We respect this guy. We let them in. They teach us.

Jesus was. Authentically powerful.

For me, I need to humble up a whole lot more often.

INTERNATIONAL FINALS YOUTH RODEO

JULY 11-16, 2021 • SHAWNEE, OK
THE IFYR CROWNS CHAMPIONS AND AWARDS UPWARDS OF $250,000 IN SHAWNEE

Breakaway roper Della Bird (Williston, FL) delivered a powerful performance when her string broke away from her saddle horn at the 2.0 second mark in the final round Friday night. After defeating the all-around cowgirl Taylor Cuccurullo's (Pilot

SHAWNEE, Okla. --- In front of an electric crowd at the Heart of Oklahoma Expo Center, rodeo athletes from across the globe were crowned IFYR (International Finals Youth Rodeo) champions and walked away with upwards of $250,000 in payouts. The six-day event featured over 930 entries from 35 different states.

California bareback rider Jacek Frost (Browns Valley, CA) landed in the final round after a 77.0 ride in the first go and a 79.0 ride in the second go alongside Luke Thrash (Bastrop, LA) and Bradlee Miller (Huntsville, TX). The California High School Rodeo athlete topped Thrash's and Miller's averages after earning a 74.0 in the round to land the championship position.

The team roping duo Brodee Snow (Bentonville, AR) and Jordan Lovins (Canadian, TX) found themselves in the short round after earning two of the fastest times in the long rounds. Snow and Lovins matched up against Wyoming cowboys Coy Johnson (Buffalo, WY) and Jade Espenscheid (Big Piney, WY) along with Kreece Dearing (Chico, TX) and Beldon Cox (Weatherford, TX). The dominate wave of team roping youth ended with Snow and Lovins recording a 7.0 final round run, besting Johnson/Espenscheid 22.8 second average and Dearing/Cox's 23.6 second average.

The Garden City, Kansas steer wrestler Tanner Meier delivered almost identical times to Newark, Illinois Cowboy Garrett Leathermans in the first two long-rounds. The two athletes tied in the short go, but Merier's split second better time from the second go would best Leatherman's 14.6 average with a 13.5.

Being the only saddle bronc rider to cover all three, Statler Wright (Millford, UT) - Who is brother of 3x World Champion Stetson Wright, exhausted the competition earning the high-marked-ride in two out of three rounds at the IFYR and earned more than $2500.

Point, TX) 2.3-second time and Kaydence Crawford's (Stephenville, TX) 2.4-second run to earn the top time in the average.

After earning one of the fastest times of the week's in the second-go with a 7.7-second run, Trevor Hale (Perryton, TX) backed into the box having to run a 9.1-second time or better to win. The Texas tie-down roper earned the number one spot in the average after notching exactly a 9.1-second time and besting Dylan Hancock's (San Angelo, TX) 25.8 average by one-tenth of a second.

After earning an advancement to the Final Round for landing two of the fastest times of the week, Payton Askins (El Cajon, CA) went into the final round as last to go behind Haiden Thompson (Yoder, WY) and all-around cowgirl Taylor Cuccurullo (Pilot Points, TX). Thompson opened the final round with a swift 16.4 second run which was followed by Cuccurullo's 16.2 second time. Askins had to make a run faster than 16.9 to win the average and delivered an abrupt 16.0 second run to take home the top spot in the average.

Tate Pollmeier (Fort Scott, KS) was unstoppable in the Bull Riding. The former 2x Kansas Junior High School Bull Riding Champion recorded an 84.5-point score in the long round, prior to delivering the highest marked ride of the night with an impressive 88.0 points.

Kaylie Garza (Marion, TX) won the goat tying title at the IFYR courtesy of her 7.4 and 7.6-second run in the long round, and her 7.1-second run in the showdown

2021 PRORODEO HALL OF FAME INDUCTEES

[ "Today is a joyous occasion celebrating the once in a lifetime honor for these rodeo personalities."

Kent Sturman, Director, Pro Rodeo Hall of Fame and Museum of the American Cowboy ]

CODY OHL TIE-DOWN ROPER INDUCTED 2020

Cody Ohl blazed into the ProRodeo ranks in 1994 by winning Rookie of the Year and his first trip to the National Finals Rodeo. The young Texas roper had been planning his career since he was 15 and winning National High School Rodeo awards.

It would take Ohl a few years to win his first gold buckle. He edged out Fred Whitfield to capture the 1997 Tie-Down World Title by $5,031. To prove that first win was no fluke, Ohl roared through 1998 and captured a second title.

Ohl had another record-setting year in 2001 as he added steer roping and team roping to his agenda in order to compete for the All-Around title. In the ninth round of the Finals, Ohl missed his calf on the first loop. A second loop caught the calf by the hind legs. As Ohl dismounted, he twisted his knee, tearing two major ligaments. He managed to crawl to the calf, cut the rope, stand and flank the calf, and finish the tie with a time of 40.3 seconds. Ohl had to be carried from the arena by the Justin Sports Medicine Team. However, he had amassed enough money earlier in the week to secure both the tie-down title and the All-Around title. He accepted both buckles from crutches on the 10th night.

Not one to stay inactive, Ohl battled through rehab and was back on the rodeo trail late in 2002. He continued to win and qualify for National Finals Rodeos, capturing his fifth and sixth tie-down roping titles in 2003 and 2006. He only missed one Finals appearance between 1994 and 2014. He entered an elite group when he passed the $3 million earnings mark in 2012.

World Championships: 6 (tie-down 1997-98, 2001, 2003, 2006; all-around 2001)

Born September 21, 1973 in Rosenberg, Texas.

From the Induction:

Due to a staph infection in his leg, he was represented by Kendra Santos. Cody roped at 20 National Finals Rodeos, earning 2 of his six buckles after obliterating his knee in the ninth round of the 2001 NFR. It took the better part of the year to recover from that and he came back and won two more titles. In his 20 plus years, his earnings of $3.5 million, second only to Trevor Brazile, makes him the highest money maker in calf roping history. He has taken home 55 National Finals go round buckles.

SUNNI DEB BACKSTROM CONTRACT PERSONNEL INDUCTED 2020

Sunni Deb Backstrom grew up with a stopwatch in her hand. No doubt encouraged by her mother Ellen, a three-time National Finals Rodeo Secretary and first woman to sit on the PRCA Board of Directors. At age 13, Backstrom made her debut as a rodeo secretary in Augusta, Montana. Since she did not have an RCA card, she had to receive special permission from RCA President Bob Ragsdale to work the event.

Backstrom joined the RCA in 1968 as a timer while she was still in high school. After graduation in 1971, she was issued a secretary, timer, and contract act card. Backstrom quickly rose to become one of the best in the business. She has worked for many rodeo companies over the years including Flying U; Kesler, Ltd.; Rafter G; Jim Shoulders Rodeo Company; Bad Company; Linger Company; and B Bar J Rodeo. She joined the Cervi Championship Rodeo Company fulltime in 1979. In the course of a year, Backstrom works about 120 performances across the country at some of the most prestigious rodeos including Denver, San Antonio, Houston, Nampa, and Waco.

Backstrom is the most decorated rodeo secretary in ProRodeo history. She has won PRCA Secretary of the Year 10 times and WPRA Secretary of the Year twice. She has also worked the National Finals Rodeo 17 years as secretary, three years as timer, and one year as the office manager. She has also worked four PRCA Tour Finales.

Backstrom has dedicated her life to the betterment of the sport of rodeo.

Born May 11, 1953 in Butte, Montana.

From the Induction:

"I'm not good at this, I'm used to being in the background. 26 years ago I stood up here and accepted this award for my mom, never thought I'd be here again. Things that are important to me are important to me. My dad bought his RCA card in 1948. Mom bought her timers card in 1960. Dad picked mom up from the hospital when I was 3 days old and off we went to Miles City Bucking horse sale. On my birth certificate, it has a spot for occupation of the father, he was a professional cowboy.

Mom would give me a stop watch and a day sheet, I would time the rodeos when I was 6. By ten, I was in the saddle on a big black horse carrying the American flag in the grand entry. At 13, I secretaried my first rodeo – most rodeo offices were temporary, many in Montana were in bars. I took entries and drew stock in a bar at 13 years old.

I did everything from carrying flags, taking care of the saddle horses, secretaried rodeos and even driving a load of bulls through Montana. I ran the roping chutes, picked up, flanked in flip flops, ran barrels, and team roped. I was one of two in the production department at the first NFR.

That's what rodeo gave me – my friends and my family."

RANDY WITTE NOTABLE INDUCTED 2020

Randy Witte always had an affinity for rodeo but didn't get a chance to participate in the sport till he went to Colorado State University, where he majored in technical journalism and found the CSU rodeo club. He was befriended by Jerome Robinson, a sophomore who was "majoring" in bull riding, and before long Robinson was tying Witte onto bulls, offering instruction and encouragement.

Witte enjoyed his days of competition in college rodeo, and in the Rodeo Cowboys Association, but he knew early on his future was as a rodeo writer, rather than rider. He sold his first magazine article to Western Horseman in 1968. "Judging Rodeo's Bucking Events" was based on interviews he did with saddle bronc rider Jim Wise, World Champion Bull Rider Freckles Brown, and World Champion Bareback Rider Jim Houston.

While still in college he worked a couple summers as a cub reporter for the Denver Post, and got the plum assignment to cover Cheyenne Frontier Days for the paper in 1968. Witte was offered the job as director of the R.C.A.'s Rodeo News Bureau when he graduated college in 1970, and for the next seven years he enjoyed publicizing ProRodeo with news releases, press kits and recorded radio programs. There was a need for an editor of Rodeo Sports News in early 1976, and Witte was able to also get out the association's paper for the next two years.

In late 1977, Western Horseman magazine offered him a job — they needed someone who could write knowledgeably about rodeo. He accepted the offer with one condition — that the PRCA not be left in a bind when he left. This was easily granted, and Witte transitioned gradually from one office to the other. By then, the R.C.A. had become the PRCA and Rodeo Sports News had become ProRodeo Sports News. Witte continued to write about rodeo for the next 29 years. During that time he served as editor, and later, as publisher of the magazine.

Born January 28, 1948 in Denver, Colorado.

From the Induction:

"I have many good memories working in a little red brick building in Denver 50 years ago. I had a job as soon as I graduated from college. Our biggest day of the week was Monday; rodeo secretaries would phone me at home Sunday night and I would record the results and I'd go to the office and I'd bat out a little news release. When the news release was done, we'd stuff them in envelopes and send them all over the country. I had to get the sacks of mail down to the train station before five. I never missed a deadline. I covered the groundbreaking celebration of the PRCA hall of fame. At the time this was the first building that went up in this area of Colorado Springs."

BUTCH KIRBY BULL RIDER INDUCTED 2020

Gary William Kirby, better known as Butch, started his rodeo career at age four when he joined his brothers in a trick riding troupe led by his mother, Mildred. By 16, he had changed his specialty to bull riding. Kirby credits the agility and balance of trick riding as helping with his transition to rodeo's roughest event.

In 1973, Kirby earned his first trip to the National Finals Rodeo at age 18. (At the time, the youngest qualifier in any roughstock event.) It would take a few more trips to the Finals before Kirby earned his world title. In 1975, Kirby and his brothers, Sandy and Kaye, became the first three brothers to qualify for a National Finals Rodeo in the same year. Kirby finally won his title in 1978 in a battle against reigning champion Don Gay. He won $15,000 at that Finals, placing him in the top spot. (In 1978, World Championships were determined by money won at the National Finals Rodeo.)

Kirby would make three more trips to the National Finals Rodeo before transitioning to his third career in rodeo. Kirby began judging rodeos to earn money while recovering from an injury in 1987. He became a Pro Official in 1993 and has served in that capacity at many of the major rodeos in the country. He has been a National Finals Rodeo Official for 30 years.

Through this long and decorated career, Kirby has participated in every major rodeo as either a contract act, bull rider, or judge.

World Championships: 1 (1978)

Born April 24, 1955 in Woodstown,

New Jersey.

From the Induction:

My heroes have always been cowboys, and all my heroes are here in the Hall of Fame. Mom didn't realize she was training me to be a bull rider. I don't even know if I was shaving at my first NFR. Neal and Miss Kay helped me get on some practice bulls in Mesquite. Neal nodded for me because he knew I wasn't going to nod. I got on a lot of practice bulls that day.

Mom gave me $50 to go to San Antonio – ended up third in the world when I left Houston. By May, I dropped to 14th, and realized it was hard. Bobby Steiner got me to the NFR – you're only as good as the company you keep. Bobby was great to me.

G-65 GRATED COCONUT LIVESTOCK INDUCTED 2020

G-65 Grated Coconut is a testament to the Born to Buck Breeding program of the Calgary Stampede Ranch. His mother, Coconut Roll, was a ten-time National Finals Rodeo qualifier. His sire, Wyatt Earp of Northcott Rodeo, was voted Saddle Bronc Horse of the National Finals Rodeo in 1997 and 1998.

Grated Coconut became a dominant force during his career. Of his 114 outings, 37 cowboys hit the dirt, 25 scored in first place, and 29 finished in the money. If a cowboy was lucky enough to stay aboard for eight seconds, he usually won money. His prowess in the arena earned him six Bareback Horse of the Year titles (2003-04 and 2006-09), tying with the great Descent. He also earned six Canadian Champion Bareback Horse titles (2003-05 and 2007-09).

Retired at the top of his game in 2010, Grated Coconut is continuing the Calgary Stampede Ranch Born to Buck program. Of his children, at least 45 are competing at the top level of rodeo athletes with several qualifying for both the National Finals Rodeo and the Canadian Finals Rodeo.

For a horse feared by many cowboys, Grated Coconut was very social and gentle outside the arena. He enjoyed scratches from the cowboys before competition and has even let toddlers sit on his back. Grated Coconut became a top rodeo animal ambassador. Visitors to the Calgary Stampede Ranch were able to socialize with him before watching him explode into a rodeo arena. The pairing of his power and intelligence truly made him one of the great rodeo athletes.

Born 1997 in Hanna, Alberta.

JIM SUTTON, JR. STOCK CONTRACTOR INDUCTED 2020

James Sutton, Jr. could have chosen a very different path at the end of his college career. The young South Dakotan was drafted by the Minneapolis Lakers and he attended their preseason training camp. However, he believed following his father and grandfather in the ranching and stock contracting business made more financial sense than a basketball career. In 1968, Sutton joined his father in creating the Sutton Rodeo Company. They supplied stock from their Onida, S.D., ranch to rodeos across South Dakota and the Northwest. By the late 1970s, Sutton was raising more than 90% of his own bucking stock and developed a breeding program that is one of the best in the business. The program has produced three PRCA Horse of the Year winners: saddle bronc horse Deep Water (1979), bareback horse Big Bud (1985), and saddle bronc horse Chuckulator (2012). Chuckulator also won Top Saddle Bronc Horse of the National Finals Rodeo in 2012. Their horses and bulls won all three categories at the Badlands Circuit Finals Livestock of the Year Awards in 2011. The program has also earned Sutton four nominations for PRCA Stock Contractor of the Year.

In 1978, Sutton started the Black Hills Stock Show and Rodeo. It has been nominated as Indoor Rodeo of the Year 15 times and won the award twice, 2002 and 2003. To draw attendance to the rodeo, Sutton created the Wrangler Bull Fights, the Bailey Bail-Off, World Championship Wild Horse Race, Bull Poker, and Teeter-Totter. Sutton's pageantry and showmanship earned him National Finals Rodeo Opening Ceremony credits in 1995 and 1996.

Sutton and his wife Julie won the PRCA Donita Barnes Lifetime Achievement Award in 2016.

Born April 20, 1935 in Onida, South Dakota.

From the Induction:

"It all started with my granddad with a rodeo on the ranch in 1927. We had 60 palomino horses and 3/4 of them bucked the cowboys off. The whole operation is a family operation – there are three grandsons and a granddaughter putting on a rodeo while we are here. Julie couldn't make the trip and I'd ask for you to say a prayer for her."

ELLENSBURG RODEO RODEO COMMITTEE INDUCTED 2020

Nestled in the center of Washington State in the Kittitas Valley (land of plenty and no fighting), Ellensburg – called 'the rodeo city' - has become one of the top destinations for cowboys and cowgirls near the end of the regular PRCA season. The rodeo started in 1923 when local businessmen, farmers, ranchers, and townsmen began to feel the tug of nostalgia as airplanes, moving pictures, and automobiles started replacing the Western lifestyle. The Valley was settled in the 1870s – the rodeo came out of the local competition. At the time there were 50,000 head of cattle in the county. The rodeo will celebrate 100 years next year – they missed three years, two due to WWII and last year.

Held over Labor Day Weekend each year, the Ellensburg Rodeo is an important stop in the series of Northwest rodeos, hosting around 400 contestants.

The Ellensburg Rodeo is held on the historic rodeo grounds at the base of Craig's Hill, and the Yakima Indian Nation has always participated. With a fulltime population of 21,000, this "Rodeo City" hosts one of the highest paying regular season rodeos, paying out more than $486,000 two years ago. Since 2009, Ellensburg has served as the finale for the PRCA Xtreme Bulls Tour.

"We started the first PRCA stand alone single event in 2001 (Xtreme Bulls)," said Rick Cole, the longest serving board member and arena director. There are 17 people on the committee and three to four hundred volunteers. "This in an honor for the community – without the selfless dedication of all, this event could not occur."

The committee has had three Justin Committeeman of the Year Awards: Ken MacRae (1998), Joel Smith (2007), Steve Alder (2013). These awards highlight the commitment of the 100% volunteer-run organization. In 1997, the Ellensburg Rodeo Hall of Fame Association was founded to preserve the history and traditions of this nationally renowned rodeo.

"Being named into the pro rodeo Hall of Fame is really humbling and a huge honor. It's a dream come true. We believe we put on the best rodeo," said Jerry Doolin, the president of the committee, who has been a volunteer for more than 20 years.

MARTHA JOSEY WPRA BARREL RACER INDUCTED 2020

Martha Josey qualified for the National Finals Rodeo 11 times on six different horses across four consecutive decades. She won the WPRA barrel racing world title in 1980 on Sonny Bit O' Both, the same year the duo also won the AQHA World Championship, a feat unmatched at the time of induction.

A highlight of her career was competing in the rodeo exhibition during the Cultural Olympiad at the 1988 Winter Olympic Games in Calgary, Alberta, that pitted the United States against Canada. Josey would ride away with an individual bronze medal and helped Team USA win the team title.

Josey was a true all-around cowgirl riding bulls, broncs, cutting horses, tying goats and roping calves while competing in all-girl rodeos. In 1969, Josey won the reserve All-Around World Championship Title in the Girls Rodeo Association.

Not only did she make a name for herself in the arena but also gave back to the sport through her countless clinics. She and husband, R.E. Josey, started conducting barrel racing clinics in 1967 at their ranch in Texas and in 1981 began producing an all youth barrel race aptly named the Josey Jr. World Championship. Many of WPRA's world champions credit Martha Josey with helping them achieve their goals. Her clinics grew to average over 2,000 students annually with students ranging in age from five to 80 and many returned yearly to participate in the annual Josey Reunion Barrel Race.

In addition, Martha and R.E. were involved in creating new and innovative barrel racing saddles, pads, protective boots, knot reins, and combination bits.

The result has been increased safety and barrel racing skills for all barrel racers throughout the World. No doubt Josey made a big impact on the sport of barrel racing.

World Championships: 1 (1980)

Born March 11, 1938 in Longview, Texas.

From the Induction: "Rodeo is making America great again – such a great honor.

When I was a little bitty girl, my first word was I want a horse. My dad was one of the first four directors of AQHA, he brought 36 mare to Texas. He passed away when I was 10 and mother had to sell all the horses except one old stallion. I went to a rodeo in Shreveport – saw the American flag come out and I watched the barrel racing and knew then that I belonged in the arena. I wanted to be a barrel racer. I went home and got on my dad's old roping saddle and that stallion and went to the field to run barrels.

I was trying for my fifth decade of running at the NFR, when the gateman shut the gate in front of me. I had a collapsed lung and other serious injuries and was in the hospital for three weeks – said I would never walk or ride again. That was in March, and I made the short go in Greeley in July. 🐾

Story by Ruth Nicolaus

[ She was very dedicated, true to her faith and her family and whatever tasks she took on. ]

Wilma Vaughan Fulgham's stint as the first ever Miss New Mexico State Fair Queen changed her life.

It put her in the limelight, showed her she didn't have to be a wallflower her entire life, and brought a bit of fun into her life, after having had to work when her parents divorced.

And it brought people into her life and opened doors that wouldn't have been opened, if it hadn't been for a queen title.

The Clovis, New Mexico woman was the first queen for the

New Mexico State Fair, crowned in 1950, and volunteered her time with rodeo queen pageants and other service organizations from then on.

She was born in 1931, the daughter of Lloyd and Pearl Vaughan, in Farwell, Texas. The family moved to Melrose, New Mexico, and lived on a small farm. After her parents divorced, she and her mother and sister moved to Clovis. As a teenager, Wilma delivered newspapers on horseback.

She graduated from high school in 1948 and was offered a job at a switchboard. But offices and sitting all day wasn't her style, so she worked for the Busy Bee Café, waiting tables, from 6 am to 2 pm. After that, she headed to the stockyards to help out in the back pens. She was on horseback, helping with branding and whatever else needed done with the cattle.

It was while she was there that one of the visiting veterinarians, Dr. E.E. Klaus, encouraged her to enter the state fair queen contest. She got horsemanship practice through a couple of professional ropers. World champion Shoat Webster, Troy Fort and Jack Shipworth kept their horses at the rodeo arena. Someone told them Wilma was a good horsewoman, so she got the job of riding their horses, to exercise them.

At the time, she also met a lady, a member of the Girls Rodeo Association, who helped her with her riding. Lena Klebold "took me under her wing and taught me how to set a horse," Wilma recalled. "Before that I rode like a sack of potatoes." Lena also loaned her clothes, and eventually would introduce Wilma to her nephew, Benny Fulgham, who would be her husband.

So in 1950, she won the title of Miss New Mexico State Fair queen, the first time the fair had held a pageant.

After that, she was asked to help with the Pioneer Days rodeo queen pageant, in Clovis, her hometown. The chamber of commerce realized the value of having a rodeo queen representative for their town, so Wilma worked with the chamber, preparing young ladies for pageants.

In the '50s and '60s, each county in the state could send a girl to run for the state fair queen contest. Wilma was superintendent for the Clovis queen contest, which has been very successful; Curry County has had more state fair queens than any other county.

In those days, the girl who won the New Mexico State Fair queen title automatically went on to represent the state at the Miss Rodeo America (MRA) pageant. But that girl got very little help from the state fair, as she prepared to run for MRA. So Wilma and other women got together in the 1960s and started the New Mexico Rodeo Queen association, patterned after what other states were doing.

As a state director, Wilma helped organize the state pageant, and after each year's queen was selected, she helped ready the young lady for the national pageant.

She served as president of the Miss Rodeo New Mexico Association for several decades, scheduling appearances for the state queen, raising money for her to travel, and connecting queens with people who would be helpful throughout and beyond their reign.

She soon became involved at the national level in the 1970s with the MRA contest when the National Finals Rodeo was in Oklahoma City. She served on a variety of committees, all volunteer, on the media committee, the hospitality committee, and the contestants' scrapbook committee.

It was Wilma who made sure people were taken care of and connections were made. She made sure the newly crowned MRA would be introduced to the media in the press room during the NFR. She made sure MRA programs and information were put in each VIP box at the NFR, and she brought results from each round of the NFR to the candidates, for anyone who wanted that information. And each year she would take at least thirty pounds of her "world famous" homemade peanut brittle to the media and hospitality rooms, for everyone to enjoy!

She organized a breakfast, working with the Fellowship of Christian Cowboys, for pageant candidates and their families, with speakers, faith-oriented music, and gifts of Bibles to the pageant contestants.

Raeana Wadhams, past executive director of the MRA association, worked with Wilma, beginning when Raeana met her in the mid'70s.

She noted that Wilma was not scared to vote against the grain, if there was something in an MRA business meeting that she didn't agree with. But if she was in the minority, she went along with the majority. "She never complained," Raeana said.

She was always reliable and did what was asked of her, Raeana said. "Any time I'd ask her to do anything, I could always count on her. If she said she would do it, I never had to go back and say, 'Wilma, did you do that?' She was dependable. If it was something she couldn't do by herself, she'd find somebody to help her."

She was an MRA director for more than 25 years and a volunteer for longer than that. She was co-chair of the media committee for the Miss Rodeo America pageant and served on the Hospitality Committee.

Wilma married her husband Benny in

She worked alongside him for their entire married life, until he died in 2014.

Together, they owned a branding business, branding cattle sold at the stockyards in Clovis, with a railroad siding located in their business, B&W Feedyards, for easy transport of cattle. They fed out cattle and owned B&W Trucking, and they produced team roping jackpots. She was instrumental in promoting the business, bringing in truckloads of cattle purchased at Clovis sale barns, who needed branded, vaccinated and dipped before being shipped to another point.

Together, they served on the Pioneer Days Rodeo committee. Benny was a director for twenty years, and she volunteered her time at the rodeo, too, organizing the pivot riders, helping with the parade, and with the queen pageant.

Benny was a very competent left-handed heeler who didn't compete professionally but would often rope with pro cowboys. He and three other men formed the Hat Roping Club, furnishing steers and putting on team ropings. Wilma was always there to make sure things were done.

She and Benny had three sons. Jerry lives in Clovis and is a volunteer with Pioneer Days. Larry, married to Vicki, lives in Stigler, Oklahoma. Garry, their oldest, died three days after his college graduation.

tion, in 1977, of an aneurysm. “You get through (the death of a child),” she said, “you just never get over it.”

Wilma served in a variety of roles. She was active in the Central Baptist Church, was chairman of the New Mexico State Beef Cook-Off, secretary-treasurer of the New Mexico Beef Council, on the advisory boards for the New Mexico Girls Ranch and the New Mexico Drama Association, and volunteered with the Bi-State Livestock Association, Cattle Growers Association, National Cattlemens, Cattle Capital Cowbelles, New Mexico Press Women, and the Clovis High Plains Hospital Auxiliary.

She founded the Little Buckaroo Queen and Princess contest, held in conjunction with the Pioneer Days Rodeo; she was co-chairman for the Pioneer Days Rodeo Queen and Princess pageants; is one of the founders of the Mesa Redondo Cowboy Camp; developed the pioneer village at the N.M. State Fair in 2007; served on the City of Clovis’ Centennial committee; was a director for the Miss Rodeo New Mexico pageant, and was the New Mexico state director for the MRA competition. She was honored with an induction into the Clovis High School Hall of Honor.

She was inducted into the Miss Rodeo America Hall of Fame in 2008, was named a Legend of New Mexico in 2014 during the Billy the Kid Celebration, and is in the Pioneer Days Hall of Fame.

Raena admires and respects her friend.

“She is an awesome, awesome lady,” she said, “always a really kind person.

“She was very dedicated, true to her faith and her family and whatever tasks she took on.” 📷

Meet the Member Talía Jaeger

story by Lindsay Humphrey

Just a short five years ago, Talía Jaeger was decked out in breeches aboard a lesson horse outfitted with an English saddle. This was her introduction to horses and eventually segued into rodeo. “My stepmom (Linda) got me some lessons for fun,” said the 13-year-old from Loomis, California. “I kind of got bored with that and one of our family friends wanted me to try barrel racing on their horses. And I haven’t stopped since then.” The rodeo bug has taken root and it’s about all Talía ever does or thinks about, and she wouldn’t have it any other way.

Of course, breaching a new sport isn’t always easy. Talía’s dad, Jeremy, rode bulls at one point in time but it had been a while since he was around horses. “We’ve really had to learn everything about horses and rodeo from scratch. We aren’t afraid to ask questions and will ask just about anybody for help when something comes up.” Talía’s inquisitive nature paired with her discipline and determination have likely been driving forces behind her success as a barrel racer. At the 2020 Junior World Finals, Talía finished fifth in the average. That was her first year to qualify in the junior barrels. This year, she’s headed to Vegas in the senior division.

“It was actually my first time running that horse in barrels for the weekend. We decided to enter her last minute, but it was a good thing we did because my other horse didn’t qualify.” That second horse was the one Talía qualified on and ran in Texas for last year’s event. That was actually her first time visiting Texas and Talía is a little disappointed the Junior World Finals will be in Vegas this year. “My first time in Texas was a really cool experience. It was really fun to run in the stockyards.” Despite the location change, Talía is looking forward to running her mare, Molly, this December.

“I started using Molly for poles and that’s what we bought her for, but then we decided to use her for barrels also. We started doing really well and now she’s my main barrel horse.” The 11-year-old sorrel Quarter

Horse is petite just like Talía, but this duo has a big presence when it’s time to run. “I really like that she’s a smaller horse and I like her style of running. She rates a lot, which is good because I don’t really like free runners.” The try hard heart of this mare is a big part of why Molly is Talía’s favorite of the entire herd. With several months to prepare for their first appearance in Vegas, Talía intends to continue putting in the work at home while also hitting as many jackpots and rodeos as she can.

Earlier this summer, Talía and Molly proved they have the grit it takes to come back from a setback. At the California Junior High School Rodeo Association State Finals, the pair hit a barrel on the first day. “I really had to ride my horse past the third barrel to fix our previous mistake. We ended up winning the round by two tenths of a second.” Talía had been working all season long to do well at state and earning a buckle for a round win was evidence of the time she’s been putting in behind the scenes.

This eighth grader is the only one in her family who rodeos currently. Her 15-year-old brother, Sam, is a competitive dancer with little interest in horses, but Talía can’t get enough of them. “I really like being able to go out and ride my horses whenever I want to. I also like going to new places to compete.” One gift rodeo has given Talía is her never give up attitude. “When I first started, my barrel horse was ducking the barrel and my other one was running off with me. I used to get really frustrated and almost wanted to give up on it all together. But I kept working at it and I’m really glad I did.” 📷

Colt Bass

courtesy of Michele Toberer

“Sometimes good things fall apart so better things can fall together,” a saying that was hard to believe for then 12-year-old Colt Bass while being wheeled off to surgery after the severe injury he suffered while competing in ribbon roping during the 2019 national junior high finals in Huron, South Dakota. At the time, his world champion dreams had vanished before his eyes.....but, fast forward to June 26, 2021 in Des Moines, Iowa, and the now 14-year-old cowboy sees that the path led him to the shiny gold world champion buckles he now holds in his hands. Hailing from Statesville, North Carolina, Colt is not only the 2021 Junior High World Champion Saddle Bronc Steer Rider, but after competing in 8 events, earned the coveted 2021 World Champion Junior High All-Around Cowboy title as well. “It was pretty disappointing to finish my 6th grade nationals’ competition with an injury. After I roped my ribbon-roping calf in the beginning of the second round, I jumped off and broke my tibia and fibula clean through and my growth plate slid out from where it should be. They took me to a nearby hospital where I had surgery to repair it. But, several months later, when I was able to ride again, I really focused on the mechanics of my events and learned to step off correctly so that wouldn’t happen again. Looking back, I now see that it helped me come back stronger not just physically, but also mentally.”

Colt’s parents, Tori and Derrick Bass, are the epitome of proud rodeo parents raising their family in the rodeo arena. Derrick, a lineman for Duke Energy, is the North Carolina High School Rodeo Association’s president, and contracts stock at many rodeos in the east. Tori is a front desk secretary at South Iredell High School, where Colt will attend as a freshman this year. Colt’s older brother Frog, 19, competed in the NCHSRA and now lives in Weatherford, Texas, and his sister, Montana, 16, and brother Gage, 13, currently compete in the association as well.

Colt finished his 8th grade season with the NCHSRA in the strongest fashion possible, winning the all-around champion cowboy title, as well as champion titles in every one of his events; saddle bronc steers, bareback steers, bull riding, chute dogging, team roping, ribbon roping, goat tying, and tie-down roping. Competing at a high level in both ends of the arena for several seasons, helped to prepare Colt for the incredible level of stamina it takes to compete in multiple events at the national junior high finals.

After not getting the chance to compete at the national level in 2020 as the rodeo world was nearly shut down due to covid-19, Colt could not wait to get to Des Moines this year and made sure to get plenty of rest at night, so he was ready for long days in the arena.

“The first few events at nationals this year went a little rough and I knew I wasn’t competing at my true potential and had myself in a predicament. If I didn’t turn things around, I was going to have come all the way out here for nothing. I knew which events I had a chance to do well in and strived to focus on staying strong in those, and figured I’d go for go-round wins in the other events.” After two full rounds in 8 events, Colt qualified for the short round in saddle bronc steers, bull riding, and ribbon roping with partner, Addi Hunter. His North Carolina teammates, as well as family and friends from back home could hardly contain the excitement as they looked at the all-around standings going into the short-round of finals, knowing Colt was leading the pack and likely to be the first all-around world champion ever reigning from North Carolina. Colt tried to not think about the standings and spent the afternoon in water balloon fights and savoring the time hanging out with friends.

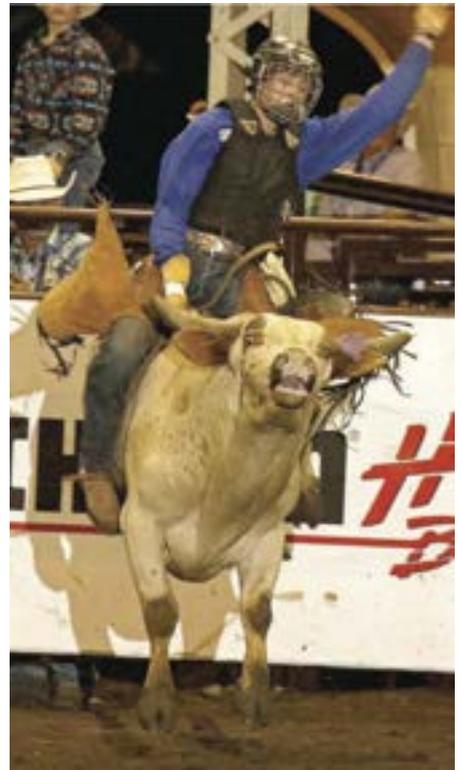

Once the short-round scores were tallied, Colt was named the 2021 NJHSRA World Champion Saddle Bronc Rider, third place bull rider, 6th place ribbon roper, and 2021 NJHSRA World Champion All-Around Cowboy. As the family loaded his awards of buckles, saddles, Yeti coolers, Bex sunglasses, scholarships, and jackpot checks, Colt was ready to get some rest. After an 18-hour-nap, he woke to realize that the world champion dreams he had held in his heart for many years had become a reality, and he could not be more grateful.

Looking forward to next season, Colt plans to compete in 6 events at the high school level: saddle bronc riding, bare-back riding, bull riding, team roping, tie-down roping, and steer wrestling. He also plans to continue wrestling in high school, (he was the 2021 champion middle school wrestler in the 138-pound division) and possibly even play baseball if the rodeo and baseball schedules can work together. For now, he can't wait to get home to relax and float down the New River with friends.

"I couldn't do any of this without support. I appreciate my mom for all she does for me and my family. I'm thankful to my dad and Frog for all their help in my roping events, and Jason Brumley and Billy Robinson for all their help with my riding events. I really appreciate all of my family and friends that support me in everything I do. I am also grateful for my sponsors, Fastback Ropes and American Hat Company." 📷

Cassidy Evans

Cassidy Evans is the 2021 National Junior High School Rodeo Association All Around champion. In 2020 she would have made the finals in all her events except goats. “It was disappointing and frustrating not to be able to go,” admits the 15-year-old from Yuma, Colorado. “I kept practicing and ended up making up for it by going to the National Little Britches Finals and the WCRA Stampede at the E.” Her practice paid off and she won the 2020 Junior Girls All Around at the National Little Britches Finals and was the only youth to advance to the main event at the Stampede at the E.

Cassidy made it to Des Moines, Iowa, in team roping, barrels, pole bending, ribbon roping, and breakaway. “It was my first time being at that fairgrounds – I’ve been to Des Moines before because my mom has a lot of family there – and they all came to cheer me on.”

Her favorite event is barrel racing. “I have an amazing horse (Hot Shot) and with him I have a great opportunity and advantage in the barrel racing.” Hot Shot was two when the family bought got him and Cassidy was seven. He was used for poles for the first few years by her siblings, but now five years later, Hot Shot is not being shared with anyone. Her brothers are Coy – 16 and Cash – 15 – her twin brother. She also has a younger brother, Cross, 8 years old. Coy was only 20 months old when the family was making the move to Colorado and the twins were born 8 weeks early. Cash was 2 pounds 3 ounces and Cassidy was 3 pounds one ounce.

The Evans family lives 30 miles from Yuma, Colorado, with a population 3,500

[ “The competition can be tough; everything can be pretty hard; as long as you have a positive mindset you’ll make it.” ]

population. “When I go to town I help mom with groceries and sometimes I’ll go to pick up ropes and equipment.” Her favorite rope is Spitfire for Breakaway and Classic Heat for team roping. When she’s home, she is helping to break some of the horses on the ranch. “They belong to Hickert Land Company and we help train and break the horses.” Cassidy wants to be a veterinarian when she grows up. “I enjoy taking care of horses and it would be pretty cool to be able to take care of them on my own and making sure they are getting what they need.”

She practices with her brothers and her dad, Chris, who team ropes and calf ropes.. Mom (Megan) team roped for a while with Chris, but now devotes her time to making sure her kids are prepared to go down the road. All of them are home schooled. Cassidy starts her with chores. She is in charge of graining all the horses. “We have around 19 at the house. My brothers take care of water and hay. We all clean the pens.” School work comes next – Cassidy’s favorite subject is Language Arts and her least favorite is Math. Once school is done, it’s off to help on the ranch or practice.

Cassidy made it to the short go at the National Junior High Finals in barrel racing, pole bending and ribbon roping. “I was nervous,” she admits. “You just have to push it to the back of your mind and focus on what you have to do to make a good run.” She was grateful she had her parents and siblings there to help her get my horses warmed up and everything was ready to go for her. She didn’t know she won it until it was announced. “I felt really good; kind of like I was on top of the world.” 🏆

Meet the Member Creede Guardamondo

story by Ruth Nicolaus

Creede Guardamondo finished his state high school rodeo career as a two-time and reigning Colorado High School bareback riding champion.

In addition to the bareback riding, the Avondale, Colo. cowboy also competes in the team roping and tie-down roping, with bareback riding as his strength.

He follows in the footsteps of his dad, Tom, who rode bareback horses in high school and beyond. It's a good event for him, he believes. "It was always easier," Creede said. "When I started it, I found it to be fun."

His favorite part of roping is the horsemanship. His tie-down horse, Scout, is "honestly probably my prized possession." He trained her and her counterpart, his team roping horse Chewy.

Scout "has a lot of get up and go. As soon as you throw the saddle on her, she's fired up and ready to go. You don't have to beg her to do her job; she wants to do it."

Chewy, who is also a sorrel mare, like Scout, has a lot of quirks, Creede said. She has the same motivation that Scout has, and can be used for heading or heeling. "She's extremely good at what she does. She's fun to ride."

He got both horses as four-year-olds.

Covid-19 has thrown a wrench into the Avondale, Colo. cowboy's senior year at Pueblo County High School. "Honestly, Covid-19 has ruined my senior year, of not being able to do anything fun." The school held only five football games and dances and assemblies were canceled. Instruction is hard, too, when in-person learning is limited. "The whole learning side of things sucks because there's no hands-on experience. It's all digital. It's made it harder for me to understand concepts." During the winter, students attended school in person for two days and virtually at home for two days. Starting in April, they were back to school five days a week.

He's been on his school's honor roll the past four years and lettered in rodeo one year. He's also a self-proclaimed "gym rat," lifting at a gym in Pueblo.

Creede welds for his dad's business, and enjoys the trade. Right now he's welding pipe fencing for someone, but he's also welded structural things, including I-beams for a hospital.

He loves to thrift shop, picking up old cowboy boots for cheap and wearing them.

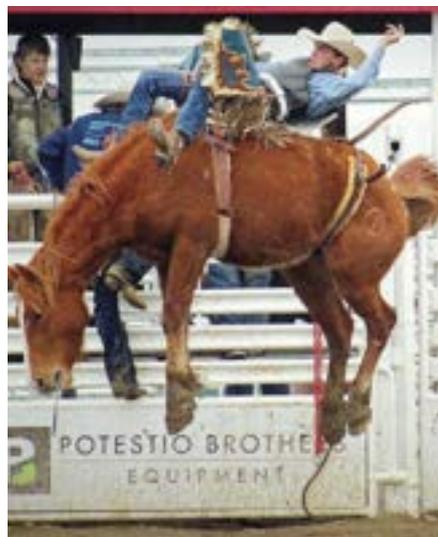

They're already broken in, are comfortable, and a good bargain.

This fall, he will attend Otero Junior College in La Junta, Colo., where he will compete on the rodeo team. He will work towards a construction management degree, and hopes to transfer to Colorado State University for his bachelor's. After college, he'll come home and work for his dad's steel fabrication and concrete businesses. He's attending Otero on rodeo and academic scholarships.

Creede looks up to other bareback riders, especially Orin Larsen and Logan Patterson. He loves how Orin rides. "It's just awesome," he said, of Orin's riding style. "You never see tall, lanky guys ride (bareback horses), and he's the definition of tall and lanky. It's awesome to watch him ride."

Patterson, who lives in Kim, Colo., has mentored Creede. "He's been one of the best teachers I've had. Honestly, he makes it relatable to me. He goes for broke every time, and it's awesome to watch."

When the 2019-2020 season was concluded early due to Covid-19, Creede was ranked in the top five in the state in the bareback riding. In 2019, when he finished as state champ, he did not go on to Nationals due to a torn rotator cuff.

He jokes that he should have his own private room in the hospital, because of how much time he's spent there. He had the rotator cuff fixed his sophomore year, and had two plates put in his right ankle after breaking his fibula.

Creede has two older brothers: Justin and Chance.

He is the son of Tom and Laura Guardamondo. 📷

Meet the Member Jaycee Yonkers

story by Ruth Nicolaus

Jaycee Yonkers rides a very special horse.

Charlotte, her barrel racing horse, was purchased by Jaycee's mom, Nicole, as a three-year-old. The bay mare was small and didn't show much potential.

But Nicole trained her, and Charlotte has done very well for both her and Jaycee.

The Colorado Junior High School Rodeo Association member also competes in the ribbon roping (running for Cactus Barnes), the goat tying and the pole bending.

She just completed her eighth grade year of schooling online, doing it via computer so she'd have more time to practice her rodeo and travel. It wasn't easy going online, but she got used to it and enjoyed having the extra time in the arena. Most of her work was done individually, but Jaycee was able to Zoom with her teachers at Peyton School if there were problems she didn't understand.

History is her favorite subject; she loves learning about the wars fought by Americans. Jaycee has played basketball since the third grade and plays in a competitive basketball league. In seventh grade, she ran track.

The best food her mom makes is spaghetti. She loves raspberries (favorite fruit) and carrots (favorite vegetable), chocolate ice cream for dessert, and likes to wash it all down with a Dr. Pepper. Her favorite candy is Reese's.

She loves listening to all types of music, but especially country. Her favorite country artist is Luke Combs.

The best time she's had on a trip was going to Arizona in December of last year, where she spent time with the Fischer family, running barrels and roping.

Jaycee was bucked off at an event in Utah in May. She landed on her hip and because of that, hasn't been able to do the poles and goats.

Jaycee and Nicole's horse Charlotte was sold to Mackinzee Dermody and the Fischers, with the agreement that Jaycee got to ride her through the rest of the junior high rodeo season. Jaycee is grateful to the Fischers for allowing her to ride their horses for the poles and goat tying.

It was hard to sell the special mare, Jaycee said. "We've owned her since she was a baby. She means the world to me. She always works her heart out, no matter what. We've been through a lot of stuff together."

Nicole concurred. "Nobody thought that horse would be anything," she said. "She's set arena records and has won numerous buckles for both Jaycee and me. She's a horse with a lot of heart."

Nicole has taught her daughter that it doesn't matter what kind of vehicle you're driving; what matters is your horsepower.

Being a single mom, Nicole has worked hard so that her daughter can rodeo. She might be pulling a bumper pull trailer, but that doesn't matter. "I've always told Jaycee, it doesn't matter how you get there. It's what you unload from your trailer."

She's looking forward to being a high school freshman. She's been encouraged to play basketball and hopes to be on the varsity team. The high school coach has commented that he can tell she's a rodeo kid because she's "gutsy and hard working," Nicole said.

Nicole enjoys Jaycee's determination. "She's very driven, hard-working and determined. She's out there, every single morning, feeding horses and exercising. She's an amazing athlete."

Nicole's dad, Kerry "Crazy Legs" Garcia, was a saddle bronc rider, bull rider and bullfighter and Jaycee thinks of him as she's competing.

When she grows up, she'd like to be an equine massage therapist. She loves horses, "because they're such good animals for us. They give their all to us, so I want to give them what they deserve."

Jaycee won the barrel racing in the

Jaycee Yonkers - courtesy of the family

Colorado Junior Rodeo Association on Charlotte when she was eight years old. She also competes in the Little Britches Rodeo Association and at open rodeos. She just completed the Colorado Junior High Finals Rodeo, finishing in a tie for fifth place in the barrels.

She has an older sister, Shaylea, who is nineteen years old, and is also a rodeo contestant and horse trainer. 🏠 of a raging bull and keep the bull riders from harm? Is the barrel really a safe haven when a bull is charging?

August 7th and 8th the honorees will be in Castle Rock at the Douglas County Fair & Rodeo assisting in many annual venues including the mutton busting, and autographing and performing in their rodeos at 7 PM on Saturday, and 1 PM on Sunday.

Since the original 1974 Rodeo Clown Reunion that was held in Roseburg, Oregon, during the Umpqua Valley Rodeo, the Reunion was held there four more years, then in 1991 it was held in Moses Lake, WA. Since that time it had been held in a variety of locales, more centrally located, in conjunction with PRCA rodeos. The 1993 Rodeo Clown Reunion was held in Guthrie, OK; then in Colorado Springs, 1995 & 2000 during the Pikes Peak or Bust Rodeo;

Rodeo de Santa Fe was our destination three times, 1997, 2011 & 2017; Deadwood Days of '76 in 2002 & 2009; and once at rodeos at Springdale, AR, 1999; Stephenville, TX, 2004; Pendleton RoundUp, 2006; Sheridan, WY, 2012; Dodge City, KS, 2008; Coffeyville, KS, 2015; and during the Day of the Cowboy weekend, 2018, at the Stockyards at Fort Worth.

During the years the Reunion has been held we adjust the events, other than the rodeo, to suit the area. At Deadwood we traveled to Mount Rushmore and Chief Crazy Horse Monuments in addition to the rodeo. In Guthrie, OK we toured the National Cowboy & Western Heritage Museum and had a Clown-Mule Race at Remington Park, the local pari-mutual horse track in Oklahoma City. At Moses Lake we traveled to the Grand Coulee Dam by bus. At Dodge City we caravanned to the town of Greensburg, that had just been totally demolished by a tornado, with a pickup full of books the honorees had gathered together to help start a new library for the ravaged community.

We have second generation rodeo clowns attending this year. Greg Doering, the son of Karl (deceased), has attended each reunion since it's inception. Other multi-generational families attending are: Jerry Wayne Olson, a third generation rodeo clown, who followed in the footsteps of his deceased dad, Jerry, and grandfather, LaRue Olson. Other two-generation honorees are: Don Bowman and his twin step-sons Dan & Pat Ariaz; Melvin Fields and son Devlin, and John Clark and son, Kelly. Dixie Reger Mosley, the only woman rodeo clown who clowned for 12 years and was also a charter member of the Girls Rodeo Association. So far, forty-four rodeo clowns have registered from 17 states and Canada. Their accumulated years in the rodeo arena as a funnyman, bull-fighter or barrelman add up to 939 years.

Every honoree's story is different in some way. A few retired after 5 decades in the arena. Others retired earlier, some due to injury and others had a variety of reasons for moving on. Some concentrated on being funny and fighting bulls. Others were more inclined to fight bulls while others got their adrenalin rush by hearing the audience laugh. Regardless of how they spent their years in the arena the one common denominator is they have all continued to keep their sense of humor.

Come join us, you'll be glad you did. For more information regarding the upcoming Rodeo Clown Reunion contact me at email: rodeogal@airmail.net. 📧

CPRA STATE FINALS
 MONTROSE, CO ..... OCT 1-3, 2021

Heidi's Notes

by CPRA Secretary Heidi Geesen

And just like that it is August! It feels like just yesterday I was gearing up for our first rodeo of the season, and school was just about out. Now we are on the downhill stretch of the season and school is about to start back up. Holy Cow it seems to have went by fast.

Please keep a close eye on the website as well as Facebook for any changes or additions to our schedule in-between issues of the Rodeo News. A lot of Co-
 Sanction states are adding late rodeos.
 Please keep a close eye on the standings
 as well as we are getting closer to entries for the Finals. Everyone MUST enter regardless of where you are at in the standings. I will have more information on that as we get closer.

If you have a fine or think that there is a possibility that you may have a fine, please call the State Office and get it cleared up prior to trying to enter. You WILL NOT be able to enter if your name is on the fines list. 📄

Until Next Time,

Heidi Geesen

Tate Pollmeier

story by Lindsay Humphrey

Fort Scott, Kansas, cowboy Tate Pollmeier lives and breathes bull riding. If he isn't riding one himself or thinking about his next mount, he's helping his parents, Mark and Jaime, buck one of their 17 bulls at home. "My dad started riding bulls when he was 18 and moved to Fort Scott for college, which is where he met my mom," said the 17-year-old. "They bought some rodeo cows and now we have our own bulls. We raise them, so we're always around it. We buck rider and dummy bulls about twice a week." With so much exposure to the event, it's not surprising that this high schooler has taken his game to the next level by way of the KPRA.

"J&J Rodeo Company provides all our stock for high school rodeos, and their owner also does a lot of KPRA events. He talked me into entering some and I ended up really liking them." Tate bought his KPRA card two years ago and so far, he's made an appearance at the finals both years. He's looking to add a third in 2021. In 2020, Tate was the year end reserve champion and took second in the average at the finals. He's no stranger to the leader board though. He's now the two-time state champion bull rider in the KHSRA. In July, he went to nationals for the second time in his high school career. In 2020, Tate finished in 13th place.

As Tate prepares for his senior season, he's looking forward to balancing both high school and KPRA rodeo through the fall again. "Last year, having the KPRA finals in Dodge City was pretty handy because I had a high school rodeo in Garden City that same weekend. I was running back and forth all weekend." Luckily, Tate has his older brother, 21-year-old Coy, and their buddy Trey Holston to keep him lined out on those busy weeks. "Trey and my brother have been with me through my entire career. It's really been a family thing for me." For a while, Tate dabbled in calf roping while also trying his hand at both bareback and saddlebronc steer riding in junior high. He finally decided to join his dad and brother by focusing on bull riding.

"Bull riding is something that I really love, and I seem to have a talent for. I love that I get to travel and see new places because of rodeo. I really don't like to sit still for long, I like to be on the move." Of all the places he's traveled so far, Denver is one of his favorites but so is Lovington, New Mexico. When Tate turns 18 next March, he plans to start riding as a professional with his brother and extending that list of favorite destinations. Until then, Tate has his eyes set on returning to one of his favorite KPRA's in Freedom, Oklahoma. "Last year I got on a bull, 5150 from Medicine River, who I had been dreading all year. I ended up winning the rodeo on him, so that was a meaningful ride for me. All year I had watched a lot of people get on him, but not many actually rode him."

Everyone knows what works best for them when it comes to achieving success. And for Tate, it's all about the mindset. "My mental game is probably one of my strongest traits. As long as I have a good head on my shoulders full of positive thoughts, I feel ready for my next ride. I've learned that negative thoughts aren't going to help me so there's no reason to have them. That's seemed to always work for me." This positive mindset will likely carry Tate to more success in the rest of his 2021 season and into the spring as he pursues yet another level of rodeo with his PRCA permit. 🏆

JIMMIE MUNROE OFFICIALLY TAKES OVER THE REINS AS WPRA PRESIDENT

courtesy of Ann Bleiker

Beginning today, May 27th, Jimmie Munroe officially starts her Women's Professional Rodeo Association Presidency following the WPRA Special Election.

This is a familiar spot for Munroe having served the WPRA in this position twice before. Her first WPRA President term was from 1978-1993 and then again from 2011 to 2012. Munroe takes over the position left vacant by Doreen Wintermute, who retired early the end of March.

"It will truly be an honor and privilege to once again serve our entire membership as your WPRA President," said Munroe upon hearing the final results of the special election. "Now is the time to come together so that we can move our sport into the bright future that I know lies ahead."

Munroe brings a wealth of knowledge, history and respect to the position. During her previous terms as president she led the association in acquiring equal prize money, obtained national sponsors and advanced the use of electric timers and better arena conditions.

A true all-around cowgirl, Munroe competed in barrel racing, breakaway roping, and goat tying. A Texas native-born in Waco and currently residing in Valley Mills, she entered her first horse show at three, her first rodeo at ten, and had a rodeo career that included three WPRA world titles (barrels, all-around, tie-down roping-all in 1975), 11 trips to the National Finals Rodeo on three different horses, a two-time NIRA National Champion Barrel Racer and an NIRA National Champion All-Around Cowgirl. She graduated from Sam Houston State University with a bachelor's degree in education in which she has used not only as a leader of the Association but in conducting horsemanship and barrel racing clinics worldwide, including Australia, Brazil, Canada and of course the United States.

In 1980, she married Dan O. "Bud" Munroe a 12-time National Finals Rodeo qualifier and 1986 saddle bronc riding world champion. The couple has one daughter, Tassie Munroe.

In 1990, Munroe was named the Coca-Cola "Woman of the Year in Professional Rodeo," in 1996 was awarded the Tad Lucas Award by the National Cowboy and Western Heritage Museum, in 1999 was named the Pioneer Woman of the WPRA and in 2008 was named a Distinguished Alumni of Sam Houston State University. She has been inducted into the National Cowgirl Museum and Hall of Fame (1992), the Texas Rodeo Cowboy Hall of Fame (1997), the Texas Cowboy Hall of Fame (2003), in 2016 was inducted with her husband in the National Cowboy Hall of Fame and in 2019 she joined her husband, who was inducted in 2007, into the ProRodeo Hall of Fame. 📷

Meet the Member Lucy Henderson

story by Lindsay Humphrey

“I’m really the type that likes to go fast and am always doing something,” said 13-year-old Lucy Jo Henderson. “I first started with horse showing and my grandma (Gloria Henderson) coached me through that. I slowly worked my way up, basically by trotting the patterns when I was 6 and I’ve been getting better ever since.” Lucy Jo and her 16-year-old sister, Lily, are the first Henderson’s to break into rodeo. “My parents (Julie and Dirk) first started team roping about 8 years ago and then we started to follow that path. Both my mom and sister also showed horses before we got into rodeo.”

Today, Lucy Jo runs barrels and poles but also heads in the team roping, ropes in the breakaway and runs in the ribbons for her partner, Kaden Jacobs. He is also her heeler in the KJHSRA events. Although Lucy Jo enjoys all of her events, poles is her favorite. “I like it best mainly because I have to stay focused through the whole thing and it’s the most intense for me. There’s no time for error in a pole pattern.” Lucy Jo has been loving that event for the last six years. And she’s been rodeoing with her sister for just as long. “Rodeoing with my sister is really fun because she’s one of my best friends and I love going places with her.”

Keeping her family close has also helped Lucy Jo keep up with her stiff competition within the KJHSRA. “My family is always watching for what I need to sharpen up on and are honest with me with what I need to work on.” Rodeo and Lucy Jo’s family have shown this cowgirl just how tough she is. And that her hard work will almost always determine her success. “Rodeo has taught me that I can be as good as I want to be it all just depends on how hard I’m willing to work.”

Lucy Jo finally saw all of her hard work pay off last year when she won the reserve all-around cowgirl title in the KJHSRA. It was a tight race and the same held true for the end of this season.

“My main goal was to win the all-around title this year. I was all over the place in the standings this year. I was in second and then first and dropped down to third after a tough weekend.” It was a tight race between Lucy Jo, Ava Chad and Madison Scott all year long. It came down to the wire, but Lucy Jo finished the all-around race in third. Lucy Jo did, however, qualify for nationals in breakaway, poles, team roping and ribbons. She finished fifth in the world in the ribbons with her partner. Competing with both family and friends is Lucy Jo’s favorite aspect of the KJHSRA. “I love being able to compete with the closest people to me. I love spending weekends with them and doing what I love with the people that I enjoy being around.”

As Lucy Jo looks forward to high school rodeo, she’s going to miss some of the people from junior high. “I always enjoy going to the junior high rodeos. I’m really close to a lot of people here, but as long as they move up to high school, I’ll still be around them. I’m looking forward to having more competition next year and going to a few more rodeos.” Lucy Jo will be leaving Jefferson West Middle School behind as she enters her freshman year. Her favorite part of school, much like rodeo, is the social aspect. “I really like spending the day with my friends. When I get to school, I try to talk to as many people as I can and put a smile on their face. I love to see people smile and make them happy.” Although Lucy Jo is still trying to decide what she wants to do when she grows up, she has one idea in mind. “I’m probably going to be a medic in the Air Force. I would just really like to serve our country.” 🇺🇸

Kansas High School Rodeo Association

Shayla Dees - Jeff Frazzel

Meet the Member Shayla Dees

story by Lindsay Humphrey

Following in the footsteps of her brothers, Tyler, 30, and Brylen, 19, Shayla Dees became a roughstock rider. But it was actually her parents, Preston and Ruth, who got the family behind the chutes originally. “We’ve always had cattle at our house, and we got into rodeo when my mom became a stock contractor,” said the 17-year-old from Paola, Kansas. “She started taking bulls to the Homestead Rodeo School, which was founded by George Steinberger.” It was this rodeo school that got some of the Dees siblings into the toughest sport on dirt. Shayla was introduced to that popular phrase the hard way just three years ago.

“I got hung up when I was steer riding and he drug me around the whole arena because he was too fast for the bull fighters. He stepped on my stomach and my back which gave me a stage four out of five laceration.” Shayla was then life flighted to the nearest hospital in Kansas City. With her mom by her side, Shayla’s dad watched the helicopter leave with tears in his eyes. “I had never seen my dad cry, but he did that day. I was winning the CYRA steer riding when that happened. And after that I couldn’t rodeo for two months.” That accident effectively ended Shayla’s career as a roughstock rider. Shayla was neck and neck in the all-around race with her best friend, Lily Henderson, who ended up winning the year-end saddle. Lily gave the saddle to Shayla.

Even though Shayla was disappointed that her year spent behind the chutes was over, she wasn’t ready to quit rodeo completely. She now runs barrels, ropes calves and heads on occasion. The 2-second event is Shayla’s top pick. “It’s my favorite event because it’s not girly and roping a calf around the neck is probably the best feeling in the world. I loved watching the boys rope calves and I always wanted to do it too.” Roping since 2013, Shayla learned from family friend Cody Porter. “Instead of having a dummy to learn on, Cody took one of those bouncing bulls off the frame and set it in the dirt.”

Shayla, two of her brothers and her older sister, Marcella, 21, are first-generation rodeo competitors. “My parents were never into horses or roping, so they haven’t been able to teach me anything about that. I’ve had to learn a lot on my own or get help from other people.” Some of those other people include Barney Barnett, Dustin Jilek, and Justin Zook, just to name a few. Aside from the two brothers who ride bulls, none of their other siblings—Rachel, 34, Nina, 32, and Logan, 16—ever got into rodeo. “It’s usually just me and my mom on the road. The traveling can be hard sometimes, we can drive as far as six hours to get to a rodeo. But I do enjoy spending time with her. Being at rodeos is the biggest, best part of my life.”

In the summertime, Shayla is at a rodeo just about every single weekend. Her favorite to date is in Ottawa, Kansas. “It’s a one-day rodeo and always during the county fair. There’s a lot of people to fill up the stands and cheer you on. And they have slushies, which I get every year.” On the trailer, and also eager for slushies, are Steve and Rooster. “I bought Steve from my neighbor, and he was just broke to ride, so I taught him how to break-away. He’s been the best horse I’ve ever owned.” Rooster is Shayla’s “freaky fast” barrel horse. There might be only one horse, or pony, that could give Rooster a run for his money. “Shorty was my first horse ever and she was just a pony. We won pole bending my sixth and seventh grade year at state finals. And that first year we were fifth in poles at nationals against 300+ other horses. And she was only half their size.”

Meet the Member Madison Bean

story by Laramie Dearing

You have met her when she was blossoming but allow me to reintroduce the ambitious Madison Bean of Clint, Texas! Daughter of Jim and Lindsey Bean, this west Texas cowgirl is now 18 years old.

“Since the eight and under I have been competing in barrel racing and pole bending. When I turned nine I decided to start breakaway roping and I have competed in all three events since. Currently I am competing in the American Junior Rodeo Association, United Professional Rodeo Association, West Texas Rodeo Association, National Barrel Horse Association, and just wrapped up my last state finals for the Texas High School Rodeo Association. I have been a member of the American Junior Rodeo Association for 11 years. My first rodeo was actually in Van Horn, Texas at an American Junior Rodeo Association rodeo when I was five years old.” It is no surprise that Madison is exceptionally competitive in all her events. “I have been very blessed to be successful in my rodeo career throughout the years. However, my favorite rodeo accomplishments include San Antonio Youth Rodeo Champion Barrel Racer, Two Time American Junior Rodeo Association National Finals Rodeo Breakaway Average Champion, 2020 American Junior Rodeo Association Reserve Champion Pole Bender, and 2019 Cody Ohl Roping Fiesta 19 & Under Reserve Breakaway Champion. I have also qualified for the Junior American, Mike and Sherlynn Vegas Tuffest, and Texas High School Rodeo Association State Qualifier all four years.”

Companionship is a necessity and Madison states that she would be nowhere without her four-legged friends. “Currently I am hauling Peanut, Chaz and, Midge the newest member! I have a few younger ones at home. I don't think I can pick a favorite because they all have a big heart and give me 110% each time I walk down the alley or back in the box. However, I do have to brag about Peanut, who is family born and raised. He was trained by my uncle and aunt, Breck and Jana Bean, helped my cousin fill his permit in the team roping and went on to make all my dreams come true! He has helped me qualify for the state finals since the sixth grade and so much more!”

Her favorite memory is one adorned with ambition, determination, and support. “I believe my proudest rodeo accomplishment was the San Antonio Youth Rodeo Champion Barrel Racer, not necessarily because of the buckle or title but because I regained some confidence in myself and the rodeo that day. A couple months prior to San Antonio I lost my good barrel horse, Frosty, after a long fight with an injury he sustained a year prior to that. When I lost Frosty my confidence in rodeo and myself went with him. I had a mind set that I couldn't win without him. It was a last minute decision to enter San Antonio and Peanut, my other barrel horse who I have had since the sixth grade, was running really good at that time. Peanut ended up placing seventh in the long go and came back to win the short go, fastest time, and the $10,000 scholarship. I would be lying if I said I didn't shed a tear or two but that run was the start of gaining my confidence back and to never take for granted these animals and how much heart they have to give!”

Given her supportive friends and family, Madison can rest assured in her future “Career wise I'm still deciding on what I want to pursue. It's always something new. I do know for a fact that I want to help people so medical school is something I'm looking at. After the summer rodeo run I will be attending South Plains College to rodeo and continue my education. From there I will transfer to Texas Tech University to finish my degree.” Where would a cowgirl be without her faith? “My favorite quote/Bible verse is 'I can do all things through Christ who strengthens me' Philippians 4:13. This is something I tell myself a lot in and out of the arena. I am a very independent person and often find myself relying on myself too much. This verse reminds me to slow down and without God none of this would be possible. It also helps take the pressure off myself!”

Meet the Member Olivia Nolen

story by Lindsay Humphrey

If ACDC, TNT, Dixieland Delight or Freight Train by Aaron Watson is pumping through Olivia Nolen's headphones, then it's almost go time at another OKJHSRA event. As this Stigler, Oklahoma, cowgirl prepares her mind for a barrel run, she's also getting her horse legged up for another lightning-fast time. "I really like barrel racing in general, but I also just like the horse that I ride," said the 14-year-old. "My favorite part is turning third and heading for home because that's the fastest part." The middle of two brothers—Tanner, 18, and Ryder, 6—Olivia is naturally competitive. "I like beating other people's times of course, but I also like to beat my own. The fastest time I've ever ran, in a smaller pen, was a 14.2. And I think I've been in the lower 17s on a standard pattern."

[ "I've learned a lot from other barrel racers who have helped me by teaching me new things and then just from watching how they ride. I watch a lot of runs by Fallon Taylor and Haley Kinsel whenever I get a chance." ]

Cody and Emily Nolen, Olivia's parents, aren't past rodeo competitors themselves. The family was actually introduced to rodeo when Tanner got interested in the sport. "I started out in sheep riding and then I got into barrels, poles, goats and calf riding in the OYRA, OJRA and TJRA." Learning from scratch has proven challenging, but they've always had extended family members on the sidelines ready to help. This is both for learning the events themselves and working with their mounts. Olivia has the perfect attitude for rodeo simply because she knows she can learn something from every person she meets. "I've learned a lot from other barrel racers who have helped me by teaching me new things and then just from watching how they ride. I watch a lot of runs by Fallon Taylor and Haley Kinsel whenever I get a chance."

As Olivia is preparing for high school rodeo, she's learning how to rope both calves and steers. "My brother is a big team roper and he's the one teaching me how to rope. We don't always have a lot of patience for each other, but we're getting it figured out." Olivia is also planning to get back to bending poles and tying goats this fall. For the last two years she's focused solely on barrel racing by going to as many jackpots as possible and keeping it as her only event in the OKJHSRA. "I like competing against younger people, so I will miss that about the OKJHSRA," said the eighth grader. "One of my friends will still be in junior high, so I'll also miss being close to her all the time. But I am looking forward to making new friends in high school and competing against older people."

Competing against the older crowd isn't exactly new for Olivia. One of her favorite rodeos is in Hartshorne, Oklahoma, each year. "It's a big Fourth of July rodeo and a lot of people go. Last year I won all three nights of the open rodeo against some really tough competition." Olivia also enjoys traveling and one of her favorite destinations is the Crawfish Craze in Louisiana. "It's a barrel jackpot and a lot of people go there too. They have crawfish, of course, and it's just a ton of fun." Always a fan of a good time, Olivia isn't afraid of hard work either. She knows what it takes to keep her horses healthy and ready to run. "Rodeo takes a lot of practice. I try to ride every day, but I mainly exercise out in the pasture so I can keep them out of the arena. That helps keep them ready to run and keeps them focused on barrels."

Meet the Member Rowdy Nimrod

story by Lindsay Humphrey

When Rowdy Nimrod was little, he only had eyes for the rough-stock events. He wanted to be like Justin McBride and all the other guys slapping backs behind the bucking chutes. “One day I just changed my mind and decided I wanted to rope calves,” said the 18-year-old from Hartshorne, Oklahoma. “It was a crazy switch and really shocked everyone. It was like a light switched and I didn’t want to ride bulls anymore, I just wanted to rope.” Rowdy was just getting into the groove of junior high rodeo when he made this drastic switch. The idea of roping calves was handed down to Rowdy by his grandpa, Johnny Martin, who dabbled in tie-down roping.

The single-man event is now Rowdy’s favorite specifically because success is rooted in mastering the fundamentals. “There are so many things that can go wrong in a run that I think it’s the hardest event in rodeo. It takes a lot of hours in the practice pen to perfect the small steps to even be consistent.” Of all the hours Rowdy’s spent practicing, plenty of those were simply roping the dummy or tying a calf on a post. The hard work has paid off for Rowdy as he’s headed to Southeastern Oklahoma State University in Durant, Oklahoma, on a rodeo scholarship.

This recent Hartshorne High School graduate will be taking three events to the NIRA Prairie Circuit: tie-down, team roping and bull dogging. “My heeler broke his arm midway through this year and by then everyone had partners so I couldn’t really find another partner. I had to drop it for this season.” Last fall Rowdy had only jumped five steers when it was time for the first OHSRA event of the season. “In my first year of bull dogging, my main goal was to adapt and just see how it went.” Going into state finals, Rowdy was sitting second in the big man’s event. Rowdy competed in his first and last national high school finals last month in the steer wrestling after finishing second at state.

Surprisingly, Rowdy is the only one of his four other siblings—Trace, 11, Kollin, 11, Kage, 87, and Jett, 4—who rodeos. “My mom (Krystal Wilson) competed when she was younger, but my dad (Justin Nimrod) did not. If I need help sorting calves or opening chutes, I can always count on my siblings for whatever I need and that’s been a huge help.” Many of Rowdy’s skills have come from JW Hammons, a good family friend.

“My grandpa took me to JW’s house when I first started roping and ever since then he’s been a huge help.” Rowdy has spent many hours helping JW work outside horses, which has also helped his roping tremendously. “He has helped me fix bad habits and techniques as a roper, but he’s also helped me become better all around.” Roping skills are important of course, but Rowdy values the horsemanship experience he’s gained the most. “You can rope really well and be a bad horseman, but you won’t get near as far as you would by being a good horseman.”

As Rowdy reflects on his time competing in the OHSRA, he smiles at the friendships he’s forged along the way. “The main thing I’ll miss next year is all the underclassmen I’ve become really good friends with and everything that high school rodeo has taught me about competing.” Leveling up from junior high and junior rodeos pushed Rowdy to be as tough as his competition. “High school rodeo really showed me how good of a competitor I truly wanted to be. It showed me that I want to be my very best.” 📷

Meet the Member Amy Murphy

story by Lindsay Humphrey

Only a month before the NMJH-SRA season kicked off for 2021, Amy Murphy tragically lost her top mount. As a result, Amy was forced to come up with a new game plan for her 7th grade season. “I used to do everything on that horse, so when I had to start a new one it was easier to only focus on one event,” the 13-year-old said of her decision to only compete in breakaway roping for the spring. “It’s my strongest event and the one my mom (Latasha) competes in.” Amy’s new rodeo partner, Cowboy, has taken to the two-second event quickly and is picking up on the new ones as well. He was a hazing horse for her dad, Byron, and even lost the sight in one of his eyes this season.

“I missed out on nationals by only four points in the breakaway this year. That’s part of the reason why I’m going to be doing all of the events next year.” Those other events will include barrels, poles, team roping and goat tying. And even though Amy enjoys breakaway roping, it’s actually team roping that’s her favorite of them all. “I like that you have to be in sync with your partner and your horse at the same time. It builds a lot of trust between you and your horse as well as you and your partner.” Amy found a second mount, Cisco, back in March and is teaching him the ropes for her events also so she always has a backup ready to go.

Born into a rodeo family, Amy’s roots run as far back as her great grandpa on her dad’s side. The Murphy family is chalked full of steer wrestlers, but they haven’t had any boys in recent years to take up the big man’s event. That is expected to change this fall as Amy’s mom is expecting a boy in October. Amy also has a little sister, Taylor, who is three. Royalty is also in their lineage as her mom was Miss IJRA back in the day and Amy followed in her footsteps as the 2018-2019 Miss Indian Junior Rodeo Association Queen. “My parents, uncles and grand-pas have all rodeoed and that’s helped me a lot. I just hope to leave a name for myself in rodeo someday.”

Amy’s family has always inspired her to work hard and set her goals high. This year Amy has her sights set on making the Indian National Finals Rodeo in the junior and open breakaway roping. “My whole family has competed there, so it would be a dream come true if I could make it as well. My mom almost made it two years ago when COVID hit.” Although Amy enjoys competing in junior rodeo associations, she knows it’s the bigger events that are truly pushing her to the next level. “I really like competing in the big shows because the competition pushes me and it lets me know that I can rope with the best of them; that I have what it takes to rope on that level.”

When Amy was 7 years old, she first formed this foundation of confidence that would sustain her through the highs and lows of rodeo. “My grandpa took me to a rodeo when I was 7 because my parents were up at a different one. I did the flag event and I actually won it. I was really proud of myself for that. It sticks out to me because that was my starting point. That’s when I knew I could show everyone that I belonged there and that I was just as good as everyone else.” Part of that feeling of belonging comes from a long line of solid mounts and a support system that never let Amy believe she wasn’t exactly where she was supposed to be inside an arena. “I just want to thank everybody who has helped me, looked out for me and always encouraged me. And for all the horses that have helped me get this far.” 🐾

Meet the Member Gabriella Pargas

story by Lindsay Humphrey

Very few people get the opportunity to compete on their childhood unicorn through high school rodeo. But that's exactly the case for Gabriella Pargas of Grants, New Mexico, and her mare, Popcorn. "We bought Popcorn when she was a 3-year-old and I was also three at the time," said the now 18-year-old. "We've pretty much taught each other everything we know. I still compete on her in the poles and she's the horse I took to nationals in sixth grade." Gabriella and Popcorn headed to Lincoln, Nebraska, last month for their second shot at a national title in the poles. Throughout her time in the NMHSRA, Gabriella also competed in barrels, team and breakaway roping.

A firm believer in giving credit where it's due, Gabriella is quick to thank Popcorn, as well as her other mounts, for her time with the NMJHSRA and NMHSRA. "I really look up to Jackie Hobbs Crawford because she always gives the credit and praise to her horses. I know I wouldn't be anywhere without my horses. They're always trying their best and rodeo truly is a team event between horse and rider." Gabriella also admires Jackie's outward expression of her faith. As a devout Catholic, Gabriella knows God is always by her side. She keeps Psalm 46:5 handy, "God is within her and she will not fail."

As Gabriella prepares to leave the northern half of the state, she's reflecting on her time in high school rodeo. Like many of her peers, a lot of that time was spent riding with professional horseman Jerry Kimsey. "I've learned a lot of horsemanship skills from Jerry. He taught me how to listen to and become one with the horse. He's local to Grants, but he's trained a lot of people all over the state." Now a graduate of Grants High School, Gabriella is headed south to Las Cruces, the home of both New Mexico State University and her 21-year-old sister, Dominique. The pair will rodeo together for the next year for the NMSU Aggies.

"I'm really looking forward to living with my sister and being able to rodeo with her again. You have to be out practicing basically every day if you want to be good and getting to do that with my sister who is basically my best friend just makes it that much better." Thanks to Gabriella's dad, Dominick, who is a retired state police captain, this cowgirl has taken an interest in criminal justice. "My dad has told me so many stories from his time with the state police that I just decided I wanted to be a crime scene investigator. I would like to work for the FBI one day." Those career goals also come with plans to continue rodeo for the foreseeable future.

Neither of Gabriella's parents grew up in rodeo, but they both have connections to horses. "My dad mainly used horses for hunting and my mom (Gloria) used them for ranching. It was a little difficult getting into rodeo just because my family didn't know anything about the different events." Both Gabriella and her sister started out on a lead line at 4-H rodeos and gymkhanas. This quickly led to junior rodeos and the rest, as they say, is history. "My parents had me on a horse as soon as possible and I just fell right in love with them. We basically went into rodeo blind, but that taught me to be very persistent. I'm a very competitive person but it's not just about winning for me, it's about doing the best that I can."

2021 WPRA World Finals Returns to Waco in November

courtesy of Ann Bleiker

The 2021 WPRA World Finals presented by Nutrena will return to the EXTRACO Event Center in Waco, Texas, for the eighth consecutive year this November. Next to the Wrangler National Finals Rodeo, the WPRA World Finals is one of the biggest events of the year for the WPRA that attracts the highest caliber of barrel racers and female ropers from across the country.

In 2020, the WPRA partnered with Elite Barrel Racing in co-producing the weekend event which paid out $375,000 in cash and prizes. In 2021, the WPRA World Finals will run alongside the Elite Barrelnanza, November 11-14.

"We are excited to return to Extraco Event Center and build on the partnership with Elite that was started in 2020," said Jimmie Munroe, WPRA President. "This is our opportunity to recognize and crown our world champions in our futurity/derby and junior division as well as our all-around, team roping and tie-down roping. It is shaping up to be a great weekend of women rodeo in action."

The WPRA World Finals will once again feature a $15,000 added card holder barrel race with money counting toward the 2022 ProRodeo Standings. The permit only race will boast $5,000 added and each of the roping disciplines (breakaway, team roping and tie-down) will feature $5,000 ($10,000 total for the team roping). All totaled the WPRA World Finals will boast $60,000 in added money with the Elite & TQHA featuring a $20,000 added open race with an additional $10,000 Texas bred incentive.

RACHAEL COX ARNOLD

story by Ruth Nicolaus

Rachael Cox Arnold has her priorities straight.

The barrel racer, a 5 Star Equine team member, spent very little on her wedding dress, knowing that she'd wear the dress only a few hours and the money could be better spent on horses and barrel racing.

The Hutchinson, Kansas cowgirl trains horses alongside her husband, Zane Arnold, futuritying them and competing in the Kansas Pro Rodeo Association, the Central Plains Rodeo Association and the Women's Pro Rodeo Association.

A member of the 5 Star Equine team, the first 5 Star Equine product that she ever used was the saddle pads. The one she uses the most is the Barrel Racer Flex Fit. The horses she has are "bigger guys, and it allows for the movement of the withers to open up, so you're not pinching or creating soreness."

The 5 Star Equine color choices grab a person's attention, she said. "You won't find the vibrant colors anywhere else, that 5 Star has. I have a red and a turquoise (saddle pad), and on Gator, (her barrel horse, who is black), it pops like crazy."

The pads, made of pure wool, have prevented her horses' backs from getting sore. "The pad will make or break your horse's back."

She also loves 5 Star Equine's sport boots. They keep her horses' legs cool and clean. "For us barrel racers, it's important to have their legs in good shape. Five Star allows them to keep their legs clean, keep them safe, and be trendy at the same time."

The 5 Star boots have dual straps, which she also appreciates. "I've tried other brands, and they're bulky. Five Stars' have such a nice conformed fit to the leg, it's a match made in heaven."

Rachael appreciates the company itself. "You're not going to find a company with employees so helpful and willing to go above and beyond. It's a large business, but you can definitely tell they want to keep the family-owned business feeling.

- Springer

"It was a huge honor to be on the team this year. When you have sponsors like that, it changes you. You want to do good and be better, because you can represent the brand and show them at the highest level possible."

Rachael's main mount is a five-year-old jet-black gelding, Gator, whose registered name is Reeses Peanut Butter.

"He's changed the game for me," she said. He has a lot of heart and try, and when he's excelled, it's been at the bottom of the ground.

She found success with Gator last year at futurities, then took him on the rodeo road at Central Plains and KPRA rodeos.

"He just did phenomenal at the rodeos. He's everybody's favorite one to watch."

Gator loves the rodeo atmosphere, she said, and deep dirt. "He works good at barrel races but the rodeos, he knows something's happening there."

The horse is laid back, with "not a care in the world," she said. Zane heads on him, which is good for barrel horses, she believes. "I like to rope on mine, to get their brains good. I think that's a huge part of having a successful barrel horse because it gets their minds right, and they use other parts of their body."

Zane trains horses fulltime and has a lot of young ones coming up. Rachael works at a surgery center in Hutchinson and helps him. "We start all of our own,"

she said. "It's both of us, in the round pen on them. That's our moments together."

Rachael's favorite part is the colts, "getting them going and seeing them go on with someone else. That's what I love to do."

The couple, who married on June 18, got engaged in February of 2020. They planned on a big outdoor wedding in October at Zane's grandparents' farm, but they thought the weather in October might be too cold, so they moved it to September. Then the September weekend they chose was the KPRA finals, so it was postponed again.

Rachael said, "enough is enough," and she suggested eloping.

So they decided to get married in June, with just family in attendance, and throw a big party next year.

Within three weeks, they threw together a wedding, complete with a $70 wedding dress (saving money for barrel racing!). "Our wedding is us," Rachael said, "simple and easy. We didn't want a big show."

"Think about all that money," saved from not having a big wedding, she said. "We could buy a horse with it!"

She and Gator are the 2020 Central Plains Rodeo year-end and average champions. 🏆

Meet the Member Charlie Gleave

stories by Riata Cummings

Charlie Gleave is the daughter of Shera and Will Gleave of Payson, Utah. Charlie is the middle child of three, and her and her siblings, JoeCee and Gus, enjoy going to rodeos and exploring together.

Charlie does her schooling at home through the Utah Connections Academy, and she enjoys the flexibility found in home schooling. She just finished the eighth grade, and her favorite classes were physical education and language arts. “I love sports and being healthy, and I love to read and write interesting stories.”

Charlie was born into a rodeo family, and some of her grandparents, Bonnie Stradling and Terry Gleave, competing in professional rodeo when they were younger. Charlie’s parents were also rodeo athletes, and she started competing when she was just 4-years-old.

She now competes in the barrel racing, pole bending, breakaway roping and ribbon roping through the Utah Junior High School Rodeo Association. Her ribbon roping partner this season was Quade Lawson. Charlie loves the adrenaline rush of the barrel racing. “I love that I get to work with my horses and help them improve. It really takes a special bond with your horse to have good runs at the rodeo.”

Charlie’s horses include Jazz, a gray mare she uses in the pole bending; Henry, a bay gelding she uses in the breakaway roping; and Dally, her barrel racing mare. Because Dally has had some problems with soundness and health, Charlie also borrows barrel racing horses from her rodeo family and friends. Those horses include Studly, owned by the Pitchforth family, and Holly, owned by the Butler family.

Charlie is a dedicated athlete who usually rides five times a week, rotating through drills that keep her horses responsive and developing trusting relationships with her animals. She tries to rope calves twice a week and work on the barrels and poles twice a week.

Charlie competed at the Kickin’ Corona Rodeo barrel racing where she was fourth in the second go-round, third in the short go-round and fifth overall. She competed in the Pink Buckle Race and Futurity last year, and she won almost $6,000 in prize money. Charlie has also competed at the Utah Junior High School State Finals Rodeo every year of her junior high career. This year she finished fifth in the first go-round of breakaway roping and in the top 25 breakaway ropers and pole benders in the state. She also finished tenth in the first go, ninth in the second go, eighth in the average and eighth overall in the barrel racing. Charlie is looking forward to starting her high school rodeo career this fall.

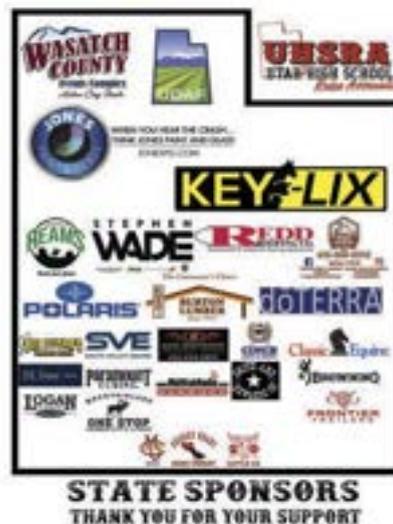

Charlie lives by the saying, “Attitude is a little thing that makes a big difference.” She believes that “your attitude determines everything, including the outcome of your runs.” One of Charlie’s greatest strengths is her work ethic. “I love to work, especially with my horses. If I put hard work into my events and into improving, I see things come together for good. It takes lots of hard work and a good attitude, but it’s worth it.”

Charlie would like to thank her family, especially her parents, for supporting her gold buckle dreams. She would also like to thank the Butler and Pitchforth families for supporting her and helping her stay mounted on good horses. She is grateful for the support and encouragement of her rodeo family, and for the opportunity to compete in the Utah Junior High School Rodeo Association.

Meet the Member Gracie Peterson

Gracie Peterson is a rodeo athlete who recently graduated from Delta High School, where she enjoyed her animal science and veterinary science classes. She was a member of the Delta chapter of the National FFA Organization and competed in and served as a team leader for the livestock and horse judging career development events. Her favorite part of high school was competing in the Utah High School Rodeo Association and developing lasting friendships through the greatest sport on dirt.

This fall, Gracie plans to attend Southern Utah University to study nursing. “When I was a junior in high school, my mom encouraged me to take a certified nursing assistant class. I really came to love it and I can’t wait to learn more about working with and helping people feel better.”

Gracie is the daughter of Tyle and Calie Peterson of Delta, Utah, and she has an older brother, Hagen, and a younger brother, Koda. “My brothers are great. They might be the ones that give me the hardest time and beat me up about things, but they are also the ones I go to for advice and friendship.” When her family isn’t busy at a rodeo, they enjoy riding horses in the mountains and spending time in the practice pen.

Gracie first started competing in rodeo in seventh grade after she had watched her older brother find success in the arena. She now competes in the pole bending, team roping and breakaway roping through the Utah High School Rodeo Association. Her favorite event is the pole bending because “there is so much tough competition, but more support between friends.” Gracie also enjoys heeling for her team roping partner, Burgan Torgerson.

Gracie’s horses are Cowboy, the pole bending and heel horse she took over from her dad; Lena the breakaway mare; and Betty, the mare she occasionally uses to run barrels.

Some of her most memorable moments in the arena include winning her first team roping buckle and running her first 20 second pole run. This year, Gracie qualified for the state finals in all three of her events. At state finals she made good, clean runs the pole bending, finishing in the top 30 pole benders in the state. Overall, state finals rodeo was a “fun experience with lots of good friends and laughs.” Gracie’s next big rodeo is the National Little Britches Rodeo Association Finals.

Gracie loves the saying, “Cowgirls are God’s wildest angels. They have cowboy hats for halos and horses for wings.” She finds the quote to be fitting because “cowgirls aren’t afraid to work or get dirty, but they can also be so kind. That’s something I try to be.”

Gracie would like to thank her father for pushing her to be a better competitor and helping her “move past the bad runs.” She would like to thank her mother for “helping in every way she can and always making sure everything is ready.” Finally, she would like to thank her brothers for coaching her and pushing her achieve her goals. Gracie is grateful for the opportunity she has had to compete in rodeo and for the rodeo family that has made it possible.

Meet the Member

Kiara Elegante

story by Jaicee Williams

Kiara Elegante is a fiery barrel racer from Bluffdale, Utah, who has been a part of the rodeo world since she was 5 years old. Kiara is currently working on her rookie year in the Rocky Mountain Professional Rodeo Association (RMPRA) and kicked it off with wins in the barrel racing at the second and third rodeos at Ogden, Utah, at the beginning of the year.

Kiara's family has always been involved in rodeo, so it was natural for her to follow suit. It was Kiara's mom, Brandy, who got her started in the barrel racing. "I remember my first time I ran at a rodeo. I was on our old rope horse and ran at a little jackpot in Bluffdale...it was a good time," said Kiara.

Growing up, Kiara and her younger siblings, Dylan, Ace, and Kambree, participated in a riding club in Bluffdale. Kiara competed in regular events such as barrel racing and pole bending, but she also had the opportunity to do unusual events like keyhole, flag race, stake race, and speed barrels. These events were created to give kids a chance to have fun with something new while also improving their horsemanship.

Once Kiara got to high school, she competed in team roping, breakaway roping, pole bending, barrel racing, and the queen competition. Out of all these events, she decided that barrel racing was her calling and decided to stick with it through the RMPRA. "I've always loved it because I love to go fast."

Kiara is a recent graduate from Mountain Ridge High School and plans to attend Utah Valley University in Orem, Utah, this coming fall to pursue a degree in broadcast journalism to help her become a news anchor. Kiara found her love for broadcast journalism through one of her high school teachers, Leslie Vawdrey. Kiara was pushed by Mrs. Vawdrey to participate in TV broadcasting for her high school. Through Kiara's broadcasting experience, she earned career and technical education (CTE) recognition within her school district. To earn this achievement, Kiara created videos, such as public service announcements and the senior graduation video, and anchored her school's television station. "Broadcasting was something that I really put my heart and soul into the last two years; so, I was really excited when I received this recognition."

When Kiara isn't running barrels or creating videos, she can be found teaching riding lessons, nannying, or teaching third graders at Summit Academy in Bluffdale. Kiara hosts her riding lessons in her own backyard where she says, "friends and family are always welcome." Kiara is especially excited to be a para instructor to the third graders where she plans to teach the advanced kids in English and math during the 2021-2022 school year.

Kiara started her involvement with the RMPRA in seventh grade when she entered her hometown rodeo, the Bluffdale Old West Days, with a permit. However, this is Kiara's first year being an actual member of the association. She loves being a part of the association because of the amount of competition. "The girls that we compete against are as tough as the girls at the top of the PRCA. So, when we compete in the RMPRA, we're competing against the best of the best, which pushes you to get better."

In tow to every rodeo, Kiara brings her main horse, a spunky mare named Sweet Pea, and her backup, a calm gelding named Olaf. Sweet Pea and Kiara are the perfect pair as she explains, "if Sweet Pea were a person, she'd be just like me." Sweet Pea helped Kiara achieve her wins in Ogden and Kiara is hoping to continue the trend throughout the remainder of the year.

When rodeoing, Kiara tries to keep one quote at the top of her mind: "Winners win and winners lose, too." She elaborates that rodeo is full of ups and downs. "This quote helped me realize that I can be a winner, even when I'm not at the top of the leaderboard. Where I place in rodeo doesn't define me as a person." 🏆

EVERYBODY HAS A PLAN UNTIL THEY NOD THEIR HEAD

article by C.J. Aragon

“Everybody has a plan until they get punched in the mouth.”
Mike Tyson 1996.

I believe you can change this statement can be changed some to fit a lot of young rodeo athletes.

I see it daily at high school rodeos, at practices and at college and pro rodeos. Everyone has a game plan, from what start they are going to see to how they will execute a ride. I can ask almost any rodeo contestant before they compete and they will be able to tell you their plan for their upcoming run or ride. The majority of the time contestants have a fairly simple plan to execute to be successful. Almost everyone I know that competes has a game plan that if executed correctly will lead them to the pay window.

It has always been a mystery to me that when you watch certain guys practice, you know they should be able to win if they make the same runs or rides at a rodeo. While you watch others and think that there is no way they will be competitive. Everyone has seen someone or knows someone in this scenario. Some call it nerves. Butterflies. Emotions. Pressure. Whatever you would like to call it, it keeps a lot of people from winning. A lot of people can execute at a high level in the practice pen consistently, very few can do it at rodeos consistently.

So how come so many athletes can not execute their game plan in competition? Because they figuratively get punched in the mouth. When you get to c competitive scenario you must be able to execute at a high level to be successful. Those that work on the mental discipline to stay calm in difficult scenarios, tend to perform well in pressure situations. And the major problem is that almost everyone reacts differently to pressure situations.

Your plan is only as good as your ability to execute it. The majority of rodeo contestants I know spend the majority of their time focusing on the physical side of practice. Hours spent in the practice pen honing their physical skills, hours spent in the gym to be in good physical condition. I am a firm believer in hard work in the practice pen, however I believe that you have to be able to be in pressure situations and be able to mentally still execute at a high level.

Great competitors are like great prize fighters, they can get punched in the mouth and still stick to their game plan and execute on a high level. If you are not there yet, make sure you spend time on your mental preparation before competition. Great competitors in any sport work on both the mental and physical side of their game to be prepared to roll with the punches. 🏆

WSRRA Event Spotlight: Mountain High Bulls and Broncs

story by Story by Sam Campbell

For the last several years I had been hearing about this event in Enterprise, Oregon that contestants were raving about. Since it was an 8 Second Whiskey Tour stop it has always been on my bucket list to shoot. So when I was asked to be the official photographer for the 2021 event I immediately jumped on board.

On June 26, 2021 I rolled into Enterprise, Oregon with camera bag in tow ready for some great Bull and Ranch Bronc action. It was extremely hot, but a lot of excitement in the air. The contestants started rolling in, the event was being televised live and so the different crews were busy at work getting the large screen put in place, sound system, and everything else that goes with a huge event.

A long time announcer and friend Lee Daggett whom I truly admire was hustling around making sure everything was going as planned. Then came the production meetings, contestant meetings, wait.... You mean all of these things go into an event??? I thought you just showed up and everything happened magically. No tons of hours and hard work go into these events to make sure the contestants have a great experience, and that the crowd isn't disappointed.

And then... it was show time. The stock was locked and loaded and ready to go to work. One by one the contestants took their shot at making the short go and winning that coveted title. One Bronc rider who was there was Gabe Mckay. He was the returning champion of the Mountain High Ranch Broncs, and he was there to hold on to his title,

Gabe McKay

and win it back to back.

There was some great rides from the very get go, and some good scores going up on the board. For those that aren't familiar with Ranch bronc riding it differs from Bareback, and Saddle bronc. Some differences is bareback you having a rigging that looks like a suitcase handle which you slide your hand through. Your free hand cannot touch the animal or the rider for 8 seconds. Also the rider has to have his or her spurs in front of the horses shoulder when the horse breaks the plain of the chute. That is called a mark out. If they fail to do that then there is no score. Saddle bronc has similar rules except they use a saddle with no saddle horn and they hold a rope attached to a halter. Again there free hand cannot touch and they have to mark out.

Ranch bronc is a totally different beast all together. The rider uses a standard western saddle that a lot uses in their every day job on the ranch. It has the saddle horn and most have a lariat or (rope) that they can hold on to and the other hand has a rope like the saddle broncs. The Ranch bronc began as a competition between cowboys on ranches.

Gabe Mckay is a dear friend and is always a treat to watch and photograph. Gabe and I have a running joke with each other about him collecting frequent flyer miles. I have gotten some great shots of Gabe flying through the air. Gabe is from Haiti and came to the United States and was adopted by a family in Juntura, Oregon. He has been around horses all his life and it shows in the way he handles himself when he rides. Don't think I have ever seen Gabe without a smile on his face, and he is always such a pleasure to speak with and visit with no matter how his ride goes.

As the action heated up Kody Lovgrenn was leading the pack and was excited about his rides. Then Gabe stepped to the plate, and as they say in Baseball the ball game was over. Gabe turned in one of his best rides and won the title for a second year in a row.

The event did not disappoint and as the fans started to leave the event you could hear them talking about returning next year for the event. There were so many sponsors that made this event a success. I want to thank the Mountain High Bulls and Broncs committee for their hard work and for allowing me to be there to shoot the 2021 event. Thanks to 8 Second Whiskey for sponsoring the Ranch Bronc tour as the cowboys and cowgirls seek to earn money and points that will lead them to Winnemucca, Nevada in November for the Western States Ranch Rodeo Association National Finals.

As Eagle Eye Photography travels from state to state shooting events whether it is Bull Riding in Utah, or Nevada to Rodeo's in Utah, Nevada, Oregon, Idaho, Washington, Montana, and Texas to a Bike Rally and rodeo in Virginia City Nevada I never get tired of seeing, shooting, or meeting these tremendous athletes every weekend. Rodeo is from my point of view the last remaining true professional sport. You don't see these athletes kneeling for the flag, or being unprofessional in any way and that is a testimony to the great western way of life.

To some the cowboy is a dying breed. But for us who live and enjoy the cowboy way of life rodeo is very sacred to us all. We kneel for prayer, we stand for the flag and we always are there for each other whether we are competing with each other or not. To a professional rodeo photographer it is our privilege to capture those moments in history that can never be captured the same way again. I once had an older cowboy tell me "I am all broken up and can't rodeo anymore and have no regrets. The only regrets are I didn't purchase more pictures through the years because all I have now is my memories to share with my grandkids." I have never forgotten that. That is what keeps me going down the road every weekend to capture those memories and yes make memories of my own. 📷

Rio Nutter

story by Jaicee Williams

Rio Nutter, a graduated senior from Rapid City Central, is a fourth-generation cowboy on his dad's side who fell in love with the sport of rodeo at an early age. His roping career started at two years old when he won his first dummy roping. "I actually won it swinging backwards," laughed Rio. "I didn't know how to swing the right way when I was first starting, but I ended up winning the roping and a couple dollars."

Since his first appearance in the rodeo world, Rio has come a long way with his roping skills. He has gathered many titles including winning the WTRC Team Roping Finals Truck Championship in 2018, winning the all-around saddle at the South Dakota Timed Event Championship in 2018, and earning back-to-back state championships in team roping at the South Dakota High School Rodeo Association (SDHSRA) State Finals in 2019 and 2020 with his partner Bodie Mattson.

Although the accomplishments that he's most proud of are mostly in team roping, Rio claims that his favorite event is actually the tie-down roping. "It's one of the most individual events in rodeo and you've got to be as equally prepared for both yourself and your horse," he said. Rio also enjoys the event because "it takes the most work to get good at."

While in the practice pen, Rio tries to split up his events throughout the week to help him concentrate on what needs worked on in each one. "I'll try to spend one night focusing on roping calves, the next night team roping, and the next night bulldogging so I can get the most out of that event in that one night," he elaborated. Although he tries to work on one event per night, he still finds himself tying and roping the dummy almost every night. At each practice coaching him is his dad, Tim Nutter. "My dad is my biggest inspiration and I aspire to be like him," Rio explains. "He's helped me with everything and him and my mom, Sherrie, have always been there to support me."

- Cowboy Images

To the rodeos, Rio brings three horses: one for each event. "Gunner is my bay calf horse. I've had him since I was a 7th grader. Arnie is my buckskin bulldogging horse and little Johnny is my little chestnut heel horse," Rio says.

When Rio isn't practicing his events or on the rodeo trail, he enjoys playing basketball. Rio played as a guard for the Rapid City Cobblers where the team finished their past season with an 11-8 record, falling five points short of qualifying for the state basketball tournament. Rio was a starter and a key player to the Cobblers who often played for the majority of the games. He still enjoys playing pickup games with friends whenever he gets a chance.

At the SDHSRA State Finals in Fort Pierre, S.D., on June 17-19, Rio accomplished his goal to earn a state championship for the third year in a row. Rio and his team roping partner, Tegan Fite, won the saddles after three rounds of competition. Rio's past saddles were earned from the heading side, but this year he earned his win by heeling.

During his time as a member of the SDHSRA, Rio's favorite part of the rodeos was getting a chance to meet up with friends he didn't get to see during the off season. "It was fun being able to compete against each other weekend after weekend, getting better, and trying to enhance your skills for the next level."

Rio plans to attend the University of Wyoming in Laramie to pursue a bachelor's degree in business communications that he can use to work for a company that promotes rodeo. While at the University of Wyoming, Rio plans to continue his rodeo career with the Cowboys under head coach Beau Clark. 🇺🇸

Touchstone Energy

story by Jaicee Williams

Touchstone Energy has been a proud supporter of the South Dakota High School Rodeo Association (SDHSRA) for the past 20 years by sponsoring short-go shirts for each athlete qualifying for the short-go round at the state finals. Originally, Touchstone Energy was a top sponsor of the Badlands Circuit; however, once Todd was placed on the sponsoring committee, he started to look into the SDHSRA so they could include the younger generations as well. “We thought okay, now these high school rodeo people, they’re our future members of the co-op. What would be a better way to give our money back to our future members than by sponsoring them?”

Touchstone Energy is a national organization that has a network of electric cooperatives in 45 states. Touchstone Energy was created in 1998 and currently has over 700 members nation-wide. Touchstone Energy raised the bar in power sourcing by raising the standards to be met by each cooperative to guarantee that customers had a power company that could be trusted if customers moved locations. These cooperatives can be found all over the nation which makes it a power company that is easily recognized by consumers.

Todd Eliason, the Assistant General Manager of the Rushmore Electric Cooperative, explains the importance of cooperatives in rural communities: “If you look at the co-ops right now, a lot of them aren’t right in the middle of the big cities, they’re on the outskirts because nobody wanted them [at first.] But now, with the population growing, the co-ops are starting to see the growth and benefits to the rest of the members.”

Each cooperative across the nation is member owned. Todd elaborates that the importance of member owned cooperatives is that the members “have a say in what goes on in the membership.” Touchstone Energy’s headquarter cooperatives have annual meetings that are open to the members where they vote on directors, bylaw changes, and more. The cooperatives are also non-profit organizations that gives profit back to the members in a capital credit check.

Rod Moon was the man who reached out to Todd in search of a sponsor for the short-go shirts in 2000. “We had a conversation one day and we were thinking about what [Touchstone Energy] could do. He asked if there was any way that we could sponsor the short-go shirts,” Todd said. “[After our conversation,] I took it to my board and tried to sell it. Low and behold, we sold it!”

By sponsoring the short-go shirts the past 20 years, Todd has helped introduce the kids to their local cooperative. After the long go’s are finished, short-go qualifiers are asked to fill out a form prior to the short-go in order to receive their shirts. On that form, kids are asked who their co-op is. “How we [distribute the shirts] is I get all the shirts at Rushmore Electric and then I divvy them up within the co-op that each kid is in. And then that co-op gets the shirts and dispenses them to their members.” By introducing the kids to their local cooperatives, Todd hopes that Touchstone Energy will stick in their minds in the future when they are looking for their power distributor.

“To keep this program going, [it would be great] if whoever gets one of those shirts could tell their local director how much they appreciate it,” Todd expresses. “That comes back to me and then that makes it much easier to sell to the board each year. It’s a trickle effect.”

Special Mount Makes Steer Wrestling Easy, Has Won Countless Buckles.

story by Ruth Nicolaus

There's a pretty special horse in Dane Pokorny's barn.

Shorty, a red roan gelding, is the Thedford High School cowboy's steer wrestling mount.

Shorty isn't just any horse. On his back, three Nebraska High School Rodeo Association steer wrestling titles have been won, and countless buckles and saddles.

The Pokornys got the horse eight years ago from the Kasselder family near Ericson. Shorty was raised by Dean Pelster, who considered using him for ranch work but thought his personality was better suited to steer wrestling. Shorty had also been used for a bit of heeling in the team roping.

Jake Kasselder had ridden Shorty for college rodeo. Dane's older brother Cauy rode Shorty in high school rodeo, and so did several other steer wrestlers, including Lane Day, who won the state title in 2011 and Zane Patrick who was co-champion in 2017. And just this year, Dane won the 2021 state title on the horse. He wishes someone had written down how many first-place buckles Shorty has won for his riders.

Shorty makes steer wrestling easy for his riders, Dane said.

"He'll put you in the same spot (during the run) every time. Having one that

Dane Pokorny (with the steer) rides Shorty (on the right), his prized steer wrestling horse at the 2021 Thedford High School Rodeo. The horse, who is in his upper 20s, has won number buckles and prizes for high school and college steer wrestlers across the state. - Steph Miller does that, makes it easy to practice on him and get your technique down. He's never failed me, not once."

Dane's dad Brad called Shorty "honest." Steer wrestlers often share horses, and the Pokornys make Shorty available to anyone who needs him at high school rodeos. "Anybody can get on him," Brad said. "We had a kid last week that didn't get along with his horse, and we put him on Shorty. He gives you the same shot every time."

Shorty is old, as far as horses go, although the Pokornys don't know his age and have no registration papers for him. They estimate he's in his upper twenties.

But he doesn't act his age. If Dane hasn't practiced for awhile, Shorty feels his oats when they try to catch him. "He trots around, he bucks, he does this skip-di-do," Brad said.

He can be hard to catch, Dane said. "When you go to catch him to ride him, he acts like he's four. Sometimes a switch will turn on and you'll have trouble catching him. Other times, you can walk right up to him.

"Shorty doesn't act up, he just knows that he's smarter than most. He's old and wise."

The horse has one more year of competition, Brad says, then he's earned his retirement. Dane is a junior in high school and will ride Shorty for the 2021-2022 school year, and then Shorty will retire to green pastures.

The horse gets special treatment at the Pokorny ranch. They know his worth.

"He's golden," Brad said. "He's a golden old horse." 🐾

Meet the Member Parker Nokes

story by Ruth Nicolaus

Parker Nokes is the 2020-2021 Nebraska Junior High School Rodeo Association breakaway champion.

The McCook cowboy, who just completed his first year of junior high rodeo, finished the rodeo season a half-point ahead of the reserve champion, Jackson Wykert.

He competes not only in the breakaway, but the goat tying, team roping (heeling for Taylor Druke) and the ribbon roping (roping for Sophia Schemper.)

For the breakaway, he rides his dad, Garrett's, former team roping horse, Scout.

He and his dad, who passed away on February 14 of this year had made a deal concerning Scout.

Garrett roped at the World Series Finale in 2017, winning the Ariat World Series No. 12 with Scott Smith.

"Our deal was," Parker said, "if he did good in Vegas, I'd get to start using Scout full time. And he did." Scout had been Garrett's primary horse, till his backup won the World Series for him and he was able to hand Scout off to Parker.

This was not only his first state junior high finals (he just completed sixth grade), but his first finals without his dad.

It wasn't easy, but Uncle Justen Nokes stepped in to help.

Justen has been attending all of Parker's junior high rodeos, offering advice and helping out.

Garrett, who was a steer wrestler, tie-down roper, and team roper in the PRCA, Nebraska State Rodeo Association, Kansas Pro Rodeo Association, and Mid-States Rodeo Association, worked extremely hard at his craft, not only physically but mentally.

"That's what Garrett was so good at, how to overcome the mental part of it. Garrett knew how to win," Laura, his wife, said. "I'm sure there were steer wrestlers and calf ropers that were more talented than him, but he knew how to win and how to prepare himself to win, and that's why he did so good at it."

Garrett worked to instill that in his boys, Parker, age thirteen, and his older brother, Trevor, age sixteen, she said, in both the boys' interests, rodeo for Parker and golf and tennis for Trevor. "It's the same in golf," Laura said. "When you make a bad shot, you have to move on so you can make a good shot. Garrett was working with Trevor on his golf and tennis game."

Parker's state finals win didn't come as he would have liked.

He went into the finals in second place, five points behind Jackson. He won the first round with a time of 2.56 seconds, then missed both loops in the second round.

At finals, points are calculated differently than during the regular season. The finals rounds are double the points of regular rodeos; hence, winning first is twenty points. And the average is ten points.

Wykert won the average, but Parker won the year-end by a half-point.

He was nervous watching the second round, after he'd missed. "Luckily some kids were playing defense for me, that didn't have much luck during the year but were making good runs that day."

Garrett and Laura instilled in their boys that when things went wrong, they could dwell on it briefly but then had to move on.

"That's our rule," Laura said. "Do a pity party for 15 minutes then it's over and we move on and look at the next run."

Parker has a set of cheerleaders in the Mid-Plains Community College rodeo team, where Garrett was timed event coach.

He practiced often with the team and especially enjoyed roping with Danielle Wray, because she always caught. Danielle, who was a two-time breakaway roping champ for the Great Plains Region, came to the state junior high finals to watch him rope. Landon Sivertsen, another Mid-Plains rodeo athlete, stayed in

Parker Nokes - Sandall Photography

McCook an extra week to practice with Parker before finals.

"I think Parker has an advantage," Laura said, "because he's been able to practice, since he was little, with the college team. They've mentored him." The rodeo team is a big family at Mid-Plains, Laura said.

He's ready to go to Des Moines in June for the National Junior High Finals. Justen and his family, wife Ashley and daughter Halli, will be there, to help out and cheer him on.

Parker has his goals set for Nationals. He wants to place in a round and in the average.

When Garrett did things, he was 120 percent into them, Laura said. "Parker is the same way. He has that drive and determination. He's a fierce competitor like his father."

He also won the reserve rookie of the year title. 🏆

Meet the Member

Katie Milligan-Mace

story by Lindsay Humphrey

“I’m just excited that we have a full rodeo season to compete in this year after almost everything was canceled last summer,” said Katie Milligan-Mace from Hooper, Nebraska. “I really appreciate all the communities and rodeo committees picking up the pieces from last year and moving forward.” This season will be the first in several years that Katie is hitting the rodeo trail on a consistent basis. Previously, she was going to a couple of rodeos a year with her older sisters but mainly focused on jackpots, futurities, derbies and maturities for her young string of barrel horses. “In the last 5 years I’ve really been making training a passion of mine and I’ve slowly been seeing some success in that.”

In the process of training, Katie has also found a love for breeding and raising barrel horses. She finds her purpose as an equestrian in taking a horse from start to finish on the clover-leaf pattern. Perhaps this passion grew from Katie’s foundation in 4-H. “My mom was a 4-H leader and so she taught my sisters and I how to ride correctly. We did everything: showmanship, halter, horsemanship, trail, and all the games.” Katie and her sisters all learned to ride in a variety of events on just as many different horses. “And then we also ranched, so we got to learn the purpose of a horse as well. We used them to work during the week and then took them to shows on the weekends. We were really fortunate to grow up in that lifestyle.”

Following her sisters to the University of Nebraska–Lincoln, Katie also followed in their footsteps to the rodeo team. “I decided to rodeo for the team as a freshman. I guess I just decided it looked like fun.

That’s when I got my first taste of rodeo and enjoyed it.” Katie found success as a barrel racer both in college and after graduation. She earned her bachelor’s in secondary education and language arts and followed it up a few years later with master’s degrees in secondary education and guidance counseling. “Education is, of course, very important to me. While I was getting those masters degrees I took a break from horses and competition. I’m glad I did that.” Now Katie is a high school English teacher at Lyons Decatur Northeast.

For awhile Katie wasn’t sure she would ever get back to the toughest sport on dirt. “It feels good to be back in the sport. I really didn’t think I wanted to rodeo anymore, but once I got a taste of success, those old feelings came back again.” The M-SRA has been a prominent association for as long as Katie can remember. When she was a kid, she remembers looking up to the barrel racers who were at the top of their game at the time in the association. Now, Katie is one of those top contenders. “I’ve heard wonderful things about the M-SRA and have a lot of friends in it and they all praise how well it’s ran. I also hear about how fun the finals are, so I’m making some goals in the next year or two to find out for myself.”

Although Katie’s jackpot schedule was packed full leading up to July, after Cowboy Christmas she started attending more M-SRA events. One of them on her bucket list was the Madison County Fair & Rodeo. “I’ve never been home to be able to run at Madison. I’ve never even been able to watch it, but I’ve heard lots of good things about it. I know it’s a really big rodeo with good added money, which always brings in the top competitors. That makes it fun to compete and watch.” 📺

Meet the Member Brenda Howard

story by Lindsay Humphrey

“I have wanted to rodeo my entire life,” said Brenda Howard from Helena, Missouri. “I rode horses growing up, but nobody in my family ever rodeoed. My husband, Marty, and I started team roping just after we were married.” At the time, Brenda was in her 20s and continued honing her skills at team roping jackpots for the next 10 years before branching out to the rodeo world. “Jesse Marshall, who is now 87 and still rodeos in the NSPRA, got Marty calf roping in the 90s and was always talking about the senior pro rodeos. It was something we always wanted to do and then Glen Hollenbeck hosted one in Nebraska in 2017. That was the closest one they ever had to us, so we went, and we loved it.” The NSPRA is now Brenda and Marty’s main focus for rodeo.

Even though the NSPRA is chalked full of people who competed at the NFR and what Brenda would call a “somebody,” she’s never felt out of place. “I would say that Marty and I are the ‘never weres.’ All these successful people have always accepted us and made us feel like family.” This will be Brenda’s fifth year in the association and 2020 proved to be monumental for this budding barrel racer and breakaway roper. “Last year I won the all-around title, which was a bizarre time to win the all-around saddle but I’ll remember it forever.” Brenda has dreamt of winning an all-around saddle through rodeo for the last 30 years.

Built by Tres Rios, Brenda had her gelding measured by a local saddle maker so she could use her trophy saddle every day. “Even though I won a barrel saddle in 2019, I had them make me a combo saddle so I could rope in it. I’ve been waiting for this saddle for 30 years, so of course I’m going to use it instead of keep it in the house as a trophy.” Even though Brenda considers herself a late bloomer, she’s making a name for herself as both a competitor and a horsewoman. She attributes her success to learning how to make her own rodeo horses rather than buying them. “Training a rodeo horse takes years, so you have to like the horse you’re on because you have so much quality time together. You have to work at it every day, but it’s such a joyful journey.”

Her training philosophy isn’t built on the traditional foundation. It was Palm Sunday many years ago when Brenda concluded that Jesus must be the best horse trainer ever as he rode through a parade on an unbroke 2-year-old donkey. “Now for all my training questions I don’t seek out people, I ask for the Lord’s advice. It’s amazing how he brings the answers to me: from other trainers in passing, the internet, the TV, all over.” As Brenda gets rolling on a new season, she’s still riding the high of 2020. “I feel like I got the icing on the cake last year and now everything is just gravy. My goal for the year is to have clean barrel runs and catch my calves and just to do the best that I can with every run.”

Brenda works for her church each weekday morning and then rounds out her time as a real estate agent and farmer. “The morning job feeds me, and the afternoon job provides my fun money, but it’s super flexible. Marty works for a farmer and then we have some row crops and 40 head of cattle of our own. Our busy time is the spring and fall, so we can rodeo in the summer.” This flexibility of work schedules is what allows Brenda and Marty to travel further than they ever have in their lifetime. Being part of a national association ensures they have every opportunity to explore the western United States. “We love that we get to travel for the NSPRA and we’re at the same location for multiple rodeos. That affords us the time to get to know people on a social level rather than just from a competitive standpoint. It’s been quite an experience so far.”

ENCOURAGEMENT FROM THE BOX!

By Jerry Martin - Cowboy Connection Ministries!

In many conversations lately the word consequence seems to come up. This got me to thinking about how our lives are affected, the consequences of our decisions and choices. There can be things we are dealing with today because of bad decisions we made yesterday. It is said that we make up to 35,000 decisions daily, now I know that includes many seemingly unimportant choices. But there are decisions that are life changing that are made with little or no thought. The word consequence means A result of an action or condition. Or simply put, the final result of a decision or action. Far too many times we speak before we think, how many relationships have been forever damaged because of careless or thoughtless words we've spoken. The Bible puts it this way in Proverbs 18-21, That life and death are in the power of the tongue. Also Proverbs 21-23, Whoever guards his mouth and tongue keeps his soul from trouble. What this is telling us is there is consequences with the things we say. We need to start each day making deliberate and wise decisions with a good and positive outcome. And there's no better place to get that wisdom than from God the Father. I'm going to close with what's said in James 1-5, If any of you lacks wisdom let him ask of God, who gives to all liberally. If we will go to God for His wisdom you can be sure you can live a life with NO negative consequence.

PRCA rodeo photographer Dick Squire was honored during this year's Hamel (Minn.) Rodeo for having photographed every year of the rodeo. The Hamel Rodeo celebrated its 40th anniversary this year, July 8-11. - Bob Hosker

Hamel, Minn. – July 14, 2021 – Long-time PRCA rodeo photographer Dick Squire was honored during the July 10 performance of the Hamel (Minn.) Rodeo for having photographed the Hamel Rodeo for every year of its 40-year existence.

The Mendota Heights, Minn. man had never been to a rodeo till he and his family were visiting friends in Red Lodge, Mont. in 1980. Squire was photographing his friends' sons, who were skiers. A rodeo was taking place, so they decided to attend. In the parking lot, a cowboy was warming up his horse, when he invited Squire's three-year-old son for a ride. When the boy got a ride, that was it for Squire; he was hooked.

He began photographing rodeos, getting advice and help from others, and learning how to take action shots.

Squire became a PRCA member in 1988, working up to 35 rodeos a year, in addition to owning an office furniture and commercial carpeting business. He has since retired from the business but continues to photograph select rodeos each year. 📷

NIRAA Reunion Honorees

courtesy of Don Reichert

During the College National Finals Rodeo (CNFR) at Casper in June, the 2021 National Intercollegiate Rodeo Association Alumni (NIRAA) Reunion was attended by about 50 people. 15 NIRA Alumni from the years ending in '60 and '61 were honored for their past achievements as champions, finals champion, winning team members, and presidents and introduced during the Friday night performance of the CNFR.

Jack Burkholder (deceased) was the 1957, 1958, 1959, and 1960 NIRA Champion Tie Down Roper for Texas A and I (now Texas A and M). At the 1960 CNFR, his younger brother, Kenneth, was winning the calf roping until he broke his ankle in the steer wrestling. Kenneth managed to rope his last calf, hobbled to it, and placed second, but Jack had a faster time and won the title. Jack has had the honor of holding the record of his four consecutive wins for 61 years.

The 1961 NIRA Men's Championship was won by the University of Wyoming Rodeo Team including Jim Moore, Fred Wilson, Jerry Kaufmann (deceased), and Frank Shepperson.

Jim Moore grew up on a ranch between Midwest and Wright, Wyoming. He was the National High School Rodeo Association President in 1956 and then rodeoed in college and the Professional Rodeo Cowboys Association (PRCA), going to the National Finals Steer Roping in 1972, 1975, and 1978. He served as the PRCA Steer Roping Director in 1978 and 1979. Jim now lives in Douglas, Wyoming and spends winters in Nevada.

Fred Wilson, another member of the 1961 University of Wyoming Championship team, and his wife Clara ranch south of Newcastle, Wyoming where they have been honored by the American Quarter Horse Association (A.Q.H.A) for over 50 years of breeding and raising fine horses. Fred was also the 1962 NIRA Champion Bareback Rider and is a Gold Card Member of the PRCA.

The late Jerry Kaufmann, represented by his wife Amanda Kaufmann, was also on the winning University of Wyoming Men's Championship Team in 1961. Jerry was a director-at-large of the A.Q.H.A. and was a Gold Card Member of the PRCA. The Kaufmanns were recognized by the A.Q.H.A. for raising Quarter Horses for over 50 years. In 1971 he was the Steer Roping Champion at the Cheyenne, Wyo. Frontier Days Rodeo.

Another University of Wyoming team member, Frank Shepperson, grew up in the Midwest, Wyoming area and rodeoed in high school and college and went on to win the PRCA Steer Wrestling Championship in 1975. He currently ranches about 40 miles northwest of Casper, Wyoming. At the reunion, Frank told some interesting stories about learning to fly from a World War II veteran pilot and getting lost over Los Angeles.

Don Reichert, President of the NIRA Alumni, Inc., stated, "It was a blessing to honor so many past NIRA members in person at our reunion. Watch for stories about other honorees in Rodeo News in coming months. Plan to attend the NIRA Alumni Reunion during the June 2022 CNFR at Casper, Wyoming."

SURVIVOR

story by Chaney Larsen

I recently asked my oldest son, Charlie, to put his towel by the sink in his bathroom, and his reply was, "Ok, Survivor." I had no idea where it came from, but every time I asked him to do something that day his response was, "ok, survivor."

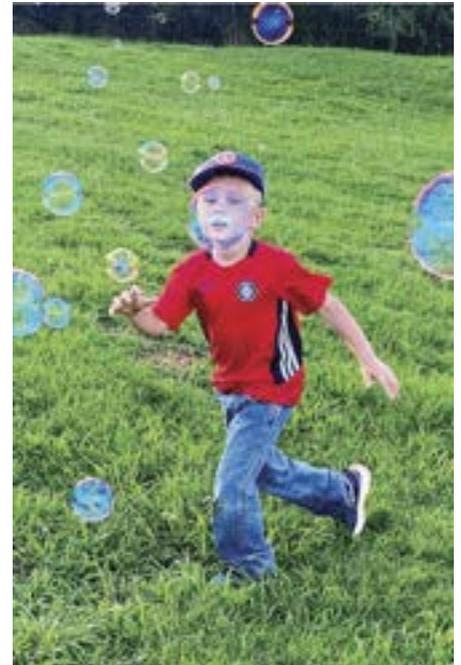

When my husband got home I asked him what the survivor thing was about, and he said he was trying to get Charlie to say yes sir, and Charlie just added on the survivor part.

You never know what young children are going to do or say. That's part of the fun. They keep you on your toes and definitely tell good stories.

I'm a nineties baby so every time he said survivor I would start singing a well known pop song called Survivor, and the lyrics say, "I'm a survivor, I'm not gon' give up, I'm not gon' stop, I'm gon' work harder. I'm a survivor, I'm gonna make it, I will survive, Keep on survivin'."

We are all survivors. We should be incredibly proud of ourselves for making it through another day, and understand how blessed we are by getting to witness another sunset and sunrise on this Earth each and every day that we are here.

Reba McEntire also has a very well known song called Survivor. I loved watching the show Reba, and how it had so much humor, but great lessons to learn along the way as well. Three major life lessons that were exemplified on the show were 1) being accepting of circumstances

 below: The boys on the 4th of July
 - courtesy of the family

that you can't control, 2) The best way to get through life is by doing it together; no matter how silly, crazy, or frustrating life can be, and 3) to be happy with yourself and who you are.

The lyrics of the song ring true by saying, "I don't believe in self pity, it only brings you down, when the deck is stacked against me, I just play a different game. My roots are planted in the past, and though my life is changing fast, who I am is who I want to be. With gentle hands and a heart of a fighter; I'm a survivor."

My dad has been battling cancer for nearly ten years now. It's not something I would wish upon any family member or stranger to have to go through, and I'm truly sorry if you or your loved one has had to fight this terrible disease.

Although there are a lot of hard and trying times, God's timing and light keeps shining through. Being a survivor means getting up every morning and putting your best foot forward, it's not giving up when the going gets tough, and a survivor must have courage, and lots of it.

As John Wayne says, "Courage is being scared to death, but saddling up anyway."

Waylon, our youngest son, is now already a year and a half old. He is doing amazingly well, and is in his prime developmental stage for us to be able to see so many of his capabilities. His right leg still does not move at all, but he doesn't know any difference. He crawls so fast with just his upper body, and is starting to pull up and be weight bearing with assistance.

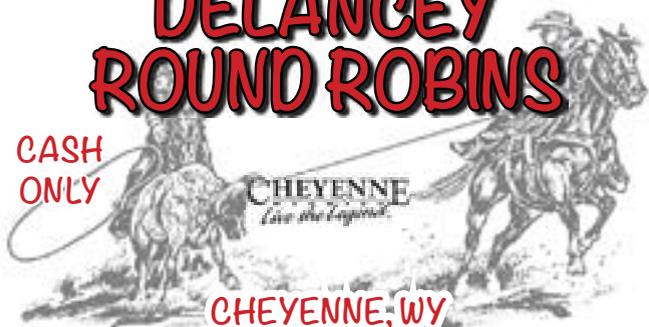

During the next several months, he will be getting some new equipment to aid with his limited mobility, and I know with his sheer strength and determination he is going to exceed all expectations. I have a little sign in his room that says, "Let him sleep, for when he wakes he will move mountains."

You reading this, wherever you are in this world at this moment in time, know that you are a survivor and are capable of even more than what you think you are. I can not say it enough. We are all on this Earth for such a short period of time; so impact as many people as you can in a positive way. Your own survivor story will help another individual, and that individual will go on to help another. We all must help each other through this journey, take one day at a time, be thankful for each and every day, and wake up each morning with an attitude of, "I survived, I must seize this new day!" 📖

KEEPING SCORE

article by Dale Woodard

It's been said that a lot of people need to keep score. To me life is life, not a game. But still, many people feel the need to keep score through money, cars, horses, championships, and houses. Personally, my goal in life is health and peace of mind. I'm reminded of an old saying that I like: "Success is a word in search of definition." Family, friends, and freedom are what a rich man makes, while fools think that money is all it takes.

I have a friend who is in his sixties and has been a money guy all of his life. His motto is: "You give me enough money and I will show you how to be happy. With enough money I can buy everything and anything I need." To me, this statement is obviously false. There is an old song entitled, "Two Things Money Can't Buy, One, True Love and a Vine Ripe Tomato." Another thing money can't buy is health. If we have abused our body and squandered our youth, no amount of money can get that back.

I enjoy reading. Currently I'm reading a book entitled "Deadly Emotions." This book explains how stress is a killer. It gives examples of how people who are busy running up the score through money, championships, horses, cars, or houses tend to neglect the toll that stress takes on our mind, body, and soul. Recently I had a conversation with my friend who thinks money can make us happy. He tells me he went by Paul so and so's place the other day. I know Paul. He is a very wealthy man who lives in California. Paul is in his mid-sixties. I asked him, "So how's Paul?" He says, "Well, you know he divorced his wife last year. Cost him fifty million dollars to divorce her, but he still has one hundred million left." He went on to say, "And Paul's health is not good. He's got prostate cancer and he is going in soon to get two vertebrae fused in his neck. Because of his health problems, he doesn't get to rope anymore. But man, what a story. He started with nothing and now he's worth one hundred million dollars." To say the least, my friend is impressed with Paul's score. My reply was that I know a guy who is in his early seventies. He has invested his money well and doesn't have to work anymore. I estimate he is worth about two million dollars. He still has his wife of fifty some years, he ropes about three hundred times a year and seems to be pretty healthy for a seventy year old man.

Now, if you are only keeping score, the man with one hundred million would be the clear winner. But if you ask me, I would rather be the guy with two million. That is one of the great things about living in America. We all get to choose how we live our lives and how we keep score. 📱

Thanks for the visit.

2021 horse camp rodeo is in the books! Finally, we have been able to make it happen again.

The rain and the Covid forced to shoot down our best event for 2 years in a row; but we are come back with probably the best rodeo of them all!

After 5 weeks of horse camp, we turn a group of city kids that never rode a horse before in to a bunch of little cowboys and cowgirls! They learned to ride and rope and to be good "ranch hands" by mucking stalls, feeding livestock and painting fences.

Me and Annalisa are so proud of what they did. We started our ranch 12 years ago with 2 horses and a lot of passion. Seeing our students enjoying riding as much as we do doesn't have a price. Every year we are getting better, from the teachers to the organization to the skills of the students. If we keep going like this, we will have to put on a roping jackpot very soon for them!

Our rodeo doesn't have bucking horses and bulls, but it is more like a ranch trail event were they get their first taste of competition in front of their parents.

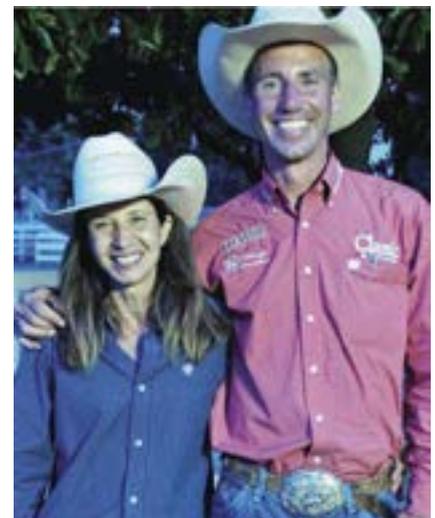

The grand entry, the rodeo prayers, and the anthems brought a lot of smiles along with some tears in the faces of the American soldiers stationed here while watch-these kids that decided to stay away from tv, computers, and cellphones for some weeks and working hard for being a good ranch hand!

We are still getting calls from the families of the kids that were impressed for what we did. And it is the best prize ever for us.

We are trying to do the best to promote the great sport of rodeo that is a lifestyle and it can be found all around the world.

A special thanks to our teachers Francesca, Daniela, Cinzia, Serena, Benedetta, and Anna that worked so hard to make our ranch growing up and to all the people that supported us. Thank you all and God bless 🇺🇸

ROAD TRIPPING WITH JESUS!

article by Crystal Lyons

I took an event in MI. Let me tell you right now, that's a fair haul from south Texas!

I don't haul long and hard like the real road warriors....I'm what I would consider a road pansy. I like keeping it down to 8 hour days, 10 if I must. I like pulling into open arenas and unloading before dark, settling down and going to sleep by 10 and sometimes before. Yep...I'm definitely a "road pansy". By the 3rd day on the road I was 95 miles out from my destination and a sudden "bang, bang, bang" was so loud I thought I blew a tire. Nope. I stopped at the first town and asked for a place to take my truck before I had to pull out onto an interstate with traffic that's common in the Chicago area. I got directions but just as I was pulling back out on the highway, I felt a slight 'nudge'..."just keep driving" was the thought. The interstate was coming up fast and the banging was so LOUD, I dismissed the thought. Just before getting to the exit to enter the interstate, I felt it again! "Just trust

Crystal Lyons
- courtesy of Crystal

God and go on." Without thinking another thought I pulled onto the bumper to bumper traffic. I'm committed now!

Let me just say this....95 miles of something sounding like you're discharging weighty objects out the back of your truck, has the pucker factor red lining! I was so knotted up for those 95 miles you couldn't have used by butt for a pin cushion! My truck kept pulling that heavy trailer and I kept thanking God and the angels for holding everything together. I pulled onto the rodeo grounds a very thankful person....VERY THANKFUL!

Monday came and it was time to think about getting back to Texas. I started to drive the truck to a shop but the sound was worse than when I pulled in so we got a tow truck to haul it to the shop. A couple bad U joints had caused the carrier bearing to go out. The mechanic told me that the drive shaft was completely disconnected and about to fall out! It was holding just long enough to pull the trailer to my destination and no more! Coincidence? You decide but I have become acquainted with some of the things my God does and this has His M.O. all over it!

Cowgirl Logic | Regular Feature

Back on the road headed south and a trailer tire blew somewhere in MO JUST BEFORE an exit off I 44.....I pull off and "what do ya know"! It's a tire shop!! Imagine that! Another one of those "coincidences" I'm sure. They didn't have a tire to fit but fixed me right up putting on the spare. Unknown to me, I didn't have the right tool to remove the hub caps! I would've been stuck! I called a good friend in OK who found a shop along the way that had the tire I needed. I made it there 30 minutes before closing and got that beauty put on and the spare back on the trailer.

In this world we are not promised a life void of problems. Matter of fact Jesus specifically told us we WOULD have struggles. But He DID PROMISE that we would never go through them alone! But He never charges in to help until ASKED! If we grumble and complain, He sits back and leaves us alone. Thankfulness and trust in His goodness will always bring Him into the thick of whatever situation we're in. A road trip without Jesus? UN-THINKABLE!! 🙏

Kayson Lasyone

story by Siri Stevens

Kayson Lasyone was the Louisiana Jr. High School Rookie All Around Cowboy as well as rookie breakaway roper and rookie team roping heeler. He ended up fifth for the year in breakaway roping and team roping with his partner, Ike Little. Kayson competes in Breakaway Roping, Team Roping, Ribbon Roping, and Goat Tying. Kayson had a setback during this rodeo season that makes these accomplishments even more rewarding. He had a dirt bike accident and broke his wrist in January. He had to work hard to get back going and he came back strong, winning 1st place in the breakaway the first rodeo back. Kayson started competing when he was five and the 12-year-old has been honing his skills since he could walk. You rarely see Kayson without a rope in his hand. He chose heeling so he could rope with his older brother, Kolby who is 17. He also has an older sister, Kaylie, who is 22. Kolby currently competes in Louisiana High School Rodeo and Kaylie also competed during her junior high and high school years. Everyone ropes and rides, Kayson's favorite thing is for all of them to practice together.

Kayson Lasyone

The best part of rodeo for Kayson is "when you win money." He will be going into seventh grade and his favorite part of school is recess followed by PE. His least favorite part of school is the homework. "I'd rather rope in the evenings than do schoolwork." The family lives on a cattle and horse ranch in Winnfield, Louisiana.

"It's a little town – an hour from everything," said his mom, Ashley, who is an RN, but now primarily devotes her time to the family auction business, Lasyone Auctions. "Kayson loves working and going with his dad (Rex) to cattle auctions." His chores include feeding the 20 horses the family owns, cleaning pens, and checking cows. Checking cows is his favorite part of the day. If Kayson sees one that is sick, he'll rope it and doctor it. He is also responsible for feeding the roping stock. Rex is a cattle auctioneer at Kinder Livestock and Red River Livestock. Kayson goes to the sale barn with his dad and buys cattle. He's up to ten right now that he runs with his parent's herd.

There's not much time between rodeos and practice, but when he has free time he loves to spend it with his cousins swimming, fishing, roping goats, and bowling. Most of Kayson's summers are spent on the road rodeoing and that is his favorite time of the year. He loves getting to see all of his friends from other states and travel as a family. He and his family have been on the road for three weeks rodeoing. After Louisiana Junior High State finals, Kayson has competed at the Junior NFR, calf roping in Tulsa, Oklahoma where he qualified for the Vegas Tuffest in December and at Little Britches Nationals in Guthrie, Oklahoma. He just left the International Finals Youth Rodeo in Shawnee, OK where he cheered his older brother on. 🏆

Meet the Member John Murphy

John Murphy
- Acentric Rodeo

story by Siri Stevens

John Murphy won the Rookie All Around at the Louisiana High School Finals as well as the Rookie Team Roping. “It felt great to win that,” he said. “My work paid off.” John competes in both tie down and team roping – heading for Spencer Judice. “I like tie down the best, it’s been a little more natural to me,” said the 15-year-old from Iowa, Louisiana. “I like the community here – everybody helps each other out.” He practices team roping with Spencer any chance he can, but he lives an hour away, so John practices tie down with Cougar Racca, a neighbor and longtime friend.

John started competing when he was in the first grade in the Little Britches, then went to junior high and high school rodeo. He got his start from his dad as well as his two older sisters, Ali (18) and Kati (21), who both competed on the McNeese State University Rodeo Team. They live at home while they are going to college.

John will be a sophomore this year at

[ “I like the community here – everybody helps each other out.” ]

Bell City High School. “I like math the best – numbers come easier to me than other subjects.” He has been practicing a lot this summer in preparation for next year. “I didn’t make Finals this year, but I plan to make it next year.” When he’s not practicing, he works around the house and the barn.

He plans to go to college and earn a degree in business, and roping will always be part of his future plans. He ropes on Joe in the tie down roping and Thread in the team roping. “Joe is the best horse I’ve ever roped off of. He’s easy to rope off – he gets you there and puts you in perfect position to make a good run,” he said. “Thread is great too.”

His parents are Gina and Guy – Guy competed as a young man and Gina grew up in the city. Gina is a counselor at his school and his dad works for Louisiana Concrete.

When he’s not rodeoing, John duck hunts when he can and goes deer hunting in Texas as well. 🦋

BEHIND THE SCENES

courtesy of Jaicee Williams

My name is Jaicee Williams and I am an intern this summer for RodeoNews. I'm from the great little town of Wall, S.D., where my family owns a feedlot. Growing up on a ranch gave me the opportunity to live in the country, away from our small town that gets quite busy in the summer with tourists who flock Wall Drug. Our ranch overlooks a beautiful canyon where we calve during the spring and gives beautiful scenery year-round. It's great to have this wide-open space right outside your backyard because it offers a great place to leg up horses and let your adventure side loose.

In high school, I stayed busy competing in volleyball, basketball, track, and rodeo. I also tried to be involved in as many extracurriculars as I could, so I joined FFA, 4-H, Fellowship of Christian Athletes (FCA), band, and the National Honor Society. My graduating class of 18 kids gave us all a chance to grow close and build our relationships. Most people say that you make your best friends in college, but I found that a majority of my closest friends came out of my high school.

After graduating from Wall High School, I moved to Spearfish, S.D. to attend Black Hills State University (BHSU). I am going into my senior year at BHSU where I'm studying Corporate Communications and Mass Communications while also pursuing a minor in Business Administration and a certificate in Journalism. This past year, I joined the Rodeo Team and began competing in breakaway roping and goat tying. I decided to take a year off to focus on my studies and get a feel of what college life is like. However, in the summer after my freshman year, I decided to start roping again and began entering local breakaway ropings and amateur rodeos. I'm so thankful to have been able to rediscover my love for rodeo and continue to do it throughout college and at amateur rodeos during the summers.

This May, I received the opportunity to intern for RodeoNews. My classes at BHSU that prepared me for this internship were Basic Newswriting, Social Media Survey, and Public Relations. However, I quickly discovered that doing assignments in school are completely different from working in the field. I've loved the hands-on experience I've gotten that has helped me shape my idea of what I want my career path to look like.

In high school, we didn't have many options for elective courses to take during the school year, so I opted to take dual-credit classes where I would gain credit for both college and high school at a greatly reduced rate. With this, I was able to complete all but one of my general classes which slingshot me a year ahead once I got to college. I changed my idea for a career path from being a dentist, to an optometrist, to an accountant, and landed in my current program of study: Mass and Corporate Communications. When people ask me what I plan to do with my degree, I answer with an honest "I don't know. God has a plan and I'll end up wherever he sees me fitting the best." I know for a fact that interning for RodeoNews was a part of His plan and it has helped me tremendously in my constant switch between career paths. I've learned a whole new side of mass communications and am starting to pick up on what I want to do when I "grow up."

Throughout this internship, I've had lots of great experiences such as sitting on the media platform at the College National Finals Rodeo, receiving a media pass for the Cheyenne Frontier Days, and having the chance to talk to some amazing people and learning their stories. However, since I live six hours away from the headquarters of RodeoNews, I had to do most of my internship remotely. I learned that remote work is not meant for me since I enjoy having social interaction and learn better through a hands-on environment.

During the end of July, I had the chance to travel to Fort Collins to sit in the office while the magazine went to press. This was the experience that I needed and I have expanded my knowledge by sitting in the office only two days. RodeoNews has been a wonderful publication to work with because of the people that are employed here and the opportunities that they have to offer.

This internship has taught me many things that I feel are valuable to my future. I know the kind of people I enjoy being around, the type of work that I feel most comfortable and thrive in, and I expanded my communication skills between conducting interviews, talking to Siri over phone and email, and meeting new people at the rodeos that I've attended. This experience has been wonderful and I am excited to see where the next steps in life lead me! 📷

Meet the Member Jace Westbrook

story by Jennie Lawrence

At just nine-years-old, Jace Westbrook of Blue Ridge, Texas is already an International Miniature Rodeo Association (IMRA) award winning bronc rider. He also rides bulls. Of the two events, bull riding is his favorite. He likes them best because the PBR is “so cool.” Jace was named the IMRA Reserve champion bareback bronc rider in 2019. He has been a member of the association for three-years. He is also a member of the Texas Junior Rodeo Association (TJRA), the Southeast Oklahoma Junior Rodeo Association (SOJRA), and the International Miniature Bullriders Association (IMBA).

Jace is the son of Samantha Westbrook, a stay-at-home mom, and Ty Lynn, who is employed in the foundation drilling industry. He has two siblings, four-year-old Lathan Lynn, and two-year-old Raelee Lynn. However, it is his grandfather, Papa John Lynn that helps Jace with his rodeo endeavors. Jace says Papa John is his biggest supporter. “He hauls me to rodeos and bull ridings,” Jace said. They go to at least 35 rodeos a year, and maybe more. The farthest Jace has traveled to a rodeo is Las Vegas, Nevada, for the International Miniature Bull Riders Association (IMBA) finals at the Plaza Hotel and Casino. His favorite road trip meal is chicken strips.

Jace comes from an extended rodeo family. His dad was a state high school rodeo finalist and now flanks for the Big L Rodeo Company. His aunt Harley Lynn has qualified for the National Intercollegiate Rodeo Association (NIRA) finals this year in the breakaway roping. Harley has also qualified as a Cowboys Regional Rodeo Association (CRRA) and Arkansas Rodeo Association (ARA) finalist. Papa John is a rodeo announcer.

As so many cowboys do, Jace got his start riding sheep in the mutton busting event, then moved on to bulls and broncs. Papa John helped him get started in his rodeo career. Jace decided to start rodeoing when he was “hanging out” with his family members at rodeos. The young man is lucky enough to have his own practice string. Red Rock is his bucking pony, a nine-year-old paint. He also has three miniature bulls that he practices on, including one named Showtime. While most children would probably name a dog or cat as their favorite pet, Jace said this bull is his favorite pet. “He is gentle and fun to practice on,” Jace said. As they say, practice makes perfect. The young cowboy prepares for each rodeo by spending plenty of time in the practice pen.

Jace is in the third grade at Leonard Elementary School in Leonard, Texas. He says the best part about school is his friends. His favorite subject is Physical Education. Jace loves all sports, and is very athletic. In addition to bull and bronc riding, the young cowboy also participates in baseball, basketball, and football. When he is not rodeoing or playing one of the other three sports, he likes to go swimming and fishing, along with hunting and gardening.

Jace’s career goals currently include becoming a professional bull rider, and a professional bareback rider.

Jace has a number of sponsors, one of which is Lucky Bronc Boots. Jace can be seen sporting a pair of these boots from the back of a rough one on the Lucky Bronc Boots Facebook page. He would like to thank the boot company, along with his other sponsors, Tres Rios Silver, Inc., Big L Rodeo Company LLC, Tarrant Trucking Company, and the Kueckelhan Rodeo Company. 📧

PROFILE: WILD TIME PRODUCTIONS SEPTEMBER 10-19, 2021

story by Michele Toberer

Although he retired from his bronc riding career at a young age, a career in rodeo is exactly the life Sylvain Bourgeois has enjoyed for the past 25-plus years. As the co-owner of Wild Time Productions and 2 Wild Ranch, Sylvain also works as the rodeo manager for the renowned Festival Western Saint-Tite, held in Quebec, Canada each September; and he has been instrumental in the growth and development of the sport of rodeo across Canada. “I started riding broncs as a 15-year-old in 1985 and loved it. However, the distance you had to travel back then was great and you often spent 50-60 hours a weekend traveling between rodeos. Although I sometimes regret letting go of bronc riding, I wouldn’t trade my life for anything, I love what I’m doing. I was still riding broncs in 1995 when I was hired by the festival, but once I started Wild Time Productions with a friend in 2000, I decided to focus on producing rodeos.” When Sylvain began producing rodeos, there were only about 5 or 6 in the province. Within 5 years, that number had increased to over 12 rodeos each season, and after working with the festival as the rodeo manager all these years, the numbers have steadily multiplied and there are now over 40 rodeos in the province for cowboys and cowgirls to compete. “In 2005, my partner decided to go a different direction, so I bought him out and ran things alone for a few years before selling half of the company to the festival in 2008. They had the office, accounting, and marketing to offer me, and I was able to promote rodeos for them. It has been a wonderful partnership and things have grown incredibly for us both.”

In 1997, Sylvain married Tania Daudelin, a barrel racer from strong barrel racing lineage. A close friend, Gary Seutter, gave Sylvain and Tania a bucking horse, Wedding Band, as a wedding gift. “I bought 5 more bucking horses to go with him and started having rodeos in 2000 so that I had places to buck my horses. At the time I wanted to raise bucking horses, but we had too many rodeos and an immediate need for horses; so my partner, Eric Desjardins and I partnered and found land and started buying bucking horses from wonderful contractors all over north America. Ten years ago, we started our breeding program and we currently own approximately 60 to 70 horses. We have horses we’ve bred that are ready to buck right now, so having all of the rodeo cancellations this season has been overwhelming.” Sylvain leases all timed-event stock and bucking bulls for the rodeos he produces. Sylvain and Tania have two sons, Micheal, 30, who has worked for the past 10 years in Wild Time Productions as a sound man and DJ, and Zach, their 20-year-old bull and bronc rider.

In 1999, Sylvain produced his very first International Professional Rodeo Association co-sanctioned rodeo and has produced only IPRA first-sanctioned rodeos ever since. The relationship with IPRA has led to many positive changes for rodeo in Canada. The IPRA Canada branch started out with 100 members and has grown to over 700 members attending over 40 rodeos across Ontario and Quebec in the IPRA Canada circuit. The Festival Western St-Tite is now a 10-day event that draws over 600,000 spectators and visitors to the area as well as the top cowboy and cowgirl competitors across Canada and the United States. Although they’ve had to cancel the event in 2020, they have plans for a virtual Festival Western St-Tite, with 10 days of performances being aired on the Wrangler network, and virtual concerts, dance lessons, and other exciting events available on an online platform. “It’s a way that we can still keep in contact with the fans, partners, volunteers, and the cowboys and cowgirls. In 2021, we will celebrate the 53rd event. I look forward to life getting back to normal and getting back out there to all the committees that are a part of our family. It is hard not seeing them all summer, but we look forward to working with them and making their events successful in the future.” 📺

Days of '47 Cowboy Games & Rodeo Officially Back in the Saddle in 2021

story by Ann Bleiker

It was an action-packed opening night performance at the Days of '47 Cowboy Games and Rodeo presented by Zions Bank in Salt Lake City.

Richmond Champion gave the fans a show in the bareback riding spurring Sankey Rodeo's Shoutin Shoes for 87 points to win the first performance and punch his ticket to the Gold Medal Round on Saturday evening. Champion of Stevensville, MT, has competed here in Salt Lake City in the past but has yet to land on the medal podium. He is hoping to ride the momentum into the final round with all eyes on the gold medal. Wyatt Denny, who won the gold in 2017 and again in 2018, finished in a tie for second with an 85 point ride aboard Flying U Rodeo's Misplaced Insanity. He will have to wait to see if that ride holds up to advance to the final round following the fourth performance on Friday night.

A total of 288 competitors will take their shot at a share of the $562,500 in prize money and a Gold, Silver, or Bronze medal that will be awarded on Saturday, July 24. There will be 32 competitors in each of the following events: bareback riding, steer wrestling, team roping, saddle bronc riding, tie-down roping, women's breakaway roping, barrel racing and bull riding.

The full field of 32 competitors is divided into four groups of eight each and compete in one of the first four performances (July 20-23). The one (1) highest score/fastest time from each discipline of each performance will advance to the Gold Medal Round along with the three (3) highest scores/fastest times overall, from all four combined Semi-Final performances that have not yet advanced. In addition, the #1 ranked athlete in each discipline (for team roping it is highest ranked team after pairing) of the final audited standings of the WCRA Segment 8 Leaderboard will be automatically qualified for the Gold Medal Round making a total of eight (8) contestants in each discipline to compete in the Gold Medal Round. Scores/times from the Semi-Final performances will NOT carry forward to the Gold Medal Round (only to break ties). The 8 competitors in each event in the Gold Medal Round will compete in a sudden-death format with the winner collecting a Gold Medal and $25,000 cash.

In 2019, Lefty Holman went home with a bronze medal and he will be back in the hunt for a medal in the Gold Medal Round on Saturday after winning the first performance at the 2021 Cowboy Games and Rodeo. Holman, of Visalia, CA, posted a 88.5 points aboard Flying U Rodeo's Yeti Rambler to pocket $1,600 on opening night and punch his ticket to the Finals. He will be looking to improve on his finish from two years ago.

Cody Devers of Perryton, TX was the fastest in the steer wrestling tonight with a 6.09 second run earning him a check worth $1,600 and a chance at a $25,000 payout on Saturday.

Taking the victory lap in the team roping on opening night was the first team out. Joe Mattern of Magnolia, TX and Lucas Falconer, of Summerset, WI, finished in a time of 5.44 seconds out roping WCRA's No. 1 team from the segment 8 leaderboard Kaleb Driggers and Junior Nogueira, who finished in a time of 5.45 seconds. Driggers and Nogueira had already earned a spot in the Gold Medal round due to their No. 1 status. Therefore both teams will be back to rope on Saturday night, July 24 on Pioneer Day.

It was a rough night for the majority of tie-down ropers on opening night in Salt Lake City but Westyn Hughes took care of business and finished in a time of 7.94 seconds to earn a spot in the final round. The next closest competitor was Cory Solomon with an 11.63 second run.

Tibba Smith took the win in breakaway roping in a time of 2.28 seconds. Smith of Hobbs, NM was by far the best roper tonight with Jenna Lee Hays Adams finishing in 4.61 seconds.

It was an epic night in the barrel racing with Kassie Mowry riding her great mount CP He Will Be Epic stopping the clock in an impressive 17.623 seconds knocking Anna Jorgenson of Hudson, Colorado, off the top of the leaderboard who turned in a 17.728-second run. Mowry will return on Saturday night and Jorgenson's time is in a good position to return as well.

Utah's own Keyshawn Whitehorse was the only bull rider to turn in a qualified ride on opening night. Whitehorse of McCracken Springs, UT, posted an 84 on Matt Sharping's Hi Jacked and will be looking for his second consecutive medal after collecting bronze in 2019.

The Days of '47 Cowboy Games & Rodeo presented by Zions Bank, is taking place at the $17.5 million state-of-the-art Days of '47 Arena at the Utah State Fairpark, custom designed and built for rodeo. The venue—an outdoor arena located in the heart of Salt Lake City—features over 10,000 stadium-style seats.

For only the sixth time in the history of rodeo, riders will have an opportunity to compete for Gold, Silver or Bronze Medals. The first two times were in conjunction with the Olympic Winter Games in Calgary (1988) and Salt Lake City (2002), when rodeo was part of the Cultural Olympiad and the other three times being the Days of '47 Cowboy Games and Rodeo 2017-2019. This will be the second time for breakaway ropers as their event was added to the roster in 2019. The medals that will be awarded at the Days of '47 Cowboy Games & Rodeo will be produced by OC Tanner, the same company that made the Olympic medals for the champions of the 2002 Olympic Winter Games.

Tickets are still available at www.axs.com. For more information on the event visit www.daysof47cowboygames.com.
