The College National Finals in Casper, Wyoming, is always one of my favorite events. The family atmosphere and the great production of the rodeo makes it an incredible week. The Rodeo News has partnered with the National Intercollegiate Rodeo Association Alumni for several years and it's a great place to meet old friends and make new ones. It's hard to believe that small mighty group provides more than $30,000 in scholarships each year. And each year a select group is recognized and they unanimously agree that if it wasn't for the opportunity to rodeo and go to college, they would not have graced the halls of universities and furthered their education.

My devotional today was about goodness. Goodness is something so simple: always live for others, never to seek one's own advantage. - Dag Hammarskjöld

I leave on the annual summer run next week and I am going to make that my daily reminder. We all have the opportunity to demonstrate kindness and consideration for those around us. I pray that I do that each and every day.

CLEAN STALLS & STUDENT GPAS

article by C.J. Aragon

I just recently returned from the College National Finals Rodeo in Casper, Wyoming and it is truly a great rodeo. It is always interesting to go up there and visit with coaches from around the country. This year in one of these conversations with another coach we had a very interesting topic come up. The correlation of clean stalls and a student's GPA.

For most it might seem like a very strange correlation but for the coaches in on the conversation, there seems to be a lot of merit to clean stalls and a student's GPA. The general consensus was that there is a direct correlation between how clean rodeo students keep their stalls and their GPA. The cleaner the stalls the higher the GPA.

When it was brought up to me by another coach I had to think about it at first, and with the majority of my students in the past twelve years it was very true. But that was just from my observations, so at the annual Coaches breakfast I asked a few other coaches if they saw a correlation between clean stalls and a student's GPA, and they all saw the same correlation with their students.

Mind you these were coaches from all across the country and at a lot of different schools.

So then there is the question why is there a connection between clean stalls and a student's GPA?

My first thought was simply time management. Students who do well managing their time in college will find a way to have time to do their homework and meet all of their obligations with their horses as well. They find a way to prioritize and because of their ability to do that they manage their time well.

Secondly the more serious students academically had clean stalls because not only do they do well in the classroom but they also do well in the arena. They value their horses that they compete on. They take pride in them. They also take pride in their academic success. The coaches I visited with also saw this relationship between clean stalls and success in the arena. As simple as it seems all of the coaches I talked to saw the same relationships with success in the arena and classroom directly tied to clean stalls.

So it seems obvious there is a direct correlation to success in the classroom and in the arena for college students.

If you want to get an early indicator on how well you or your kid will do in college, I would suggest going out and looking at how clean they keep their stalls... 🐾

CLOVER

story by JR Vezain

I don't know if I could do what you do, handle the situation like you do, and have the attitude like you do." These are all things that I have heard over and over from people the last nine months since the injury. At first I didn't know how to respond to these statements because I felt like I was just being me. I have just been trying to handle the situation the best that I can, remain as positive as I can, and leave the rest up to God. The more I hear these statements the more I've thought about it, and have come up with a couple reasons as to why I choose to remain positive about the whole situation.

I don't know how many of you have been around any clover but on wet years we get a ton of clover in our area. It over flows our pastures and gets thick. It looks like alfalfa, starts small and then as it grows it bushes out and gets thick. It gets really green and makes the area look outstanding. Animals love it and it's a bonus feed for the spring. From a distance you can't even tell that it's clover it just looks tremendously green all over the rolling hills as far as you can see.

From Shelby and I's house when you look across the river about a mile, on my in-laws place is where we calve our cows. For about a month as that clover popped up it turned the whole pasture a brilliant green. As green with as much clover as I've ever seen around here. Each afternoon I would load up my four wheeler and go with whoever was going to tag calves, usually either Sage my brother in-law, or Liane my mother in-law. I would get on my four wheeler with my rigged up handle to shift and take off. I would go around one side of the pasture looking for new babies. When I would find one I would take my sheep cane in one hand, get up beside the calf, get it hooked around the neck and pull it in towards my four wheeler. Once I got the calf pulled in and stopped, I then could lean off the side and stick a tag in its ear. Sometimes this worked really slick, sometimes I'm sure it was quite the sight to see as I chased the calf around trying to get it snagged. Regardless though I did my best to carry my weight and help out through calving season.

As the month went on the thicker the clover got in that pasture. As it started to heat up it would start to bloom and get a yellow head on it. The hotter it got the more it turned. From our house, a mile away, you couldn't tell it was turning yellow at all. You could only see it turning as you were driving or riding through it. All of May from out our front door it still just looked green, but each day when we would go tag calves a little more would bloom. Then about the first week of June, we had a week of sunny and eighty degree weather and it turned the whole pasture a bright dandelion yellow. As far as you can see, its just rolling hills of yellow sweet clover all over.

This is kind of how I try to handle each hardship I come to. When I come to a storm and it seems like an overwhelming sense of green clover thickening all over my pastures I hold on to the sun and the heat, which represents the Lord and his word. Spending time in prayer, reading his word, and focusing on the hope that he promises us if we trust in him, will make that clover start to bloom. No matter how bad your situation is, remember it can always be worse. Therefore, if you make a habit out of finding the little things to be thankful for it will be like the clover starting to bloom. Little by little you keep finding the positives in every situation, hold on to the promises found in his word, then pretty soon it will be like when the whole pasture blooms and turns yellow. No matter how bad you think you have it when you focus on the little things to be thankful for you it will take your eyes off the mountain and put your gaze on the mountain mover!

So, to those who say "I don't think I could handle the situation like you do" I say sure you can. We all have a choice when we wake up. We may not be able to control our circumstances, but we all can control our attitudes. Just because you're dealt a duce instead of an ace this hand, doesn't mean it has to affect your frame of mind on life. Just because life got a little hard for a minute doesn't mean it has to affect your quality of life. Each morning we are all blessed with a breath of fresh air. Each morning we are blessed with a God who loves us enough that he sent his son to die on the cross for our sins. No matter what you are facing and how bad it seems God has a plan for you and there is always something to be thankful for. Remember when you are complaining that somebody out there would love to have what you are complaining about, so find the positives, trust in the Lord, and keep stepping forward.

"Always be joyful. Never stop praying. Be thankful in all circumstances, for this is God's will for you who belong to Christ Jesus." 1 Thessalonians 5:16-18. 🙏

19TH ANNUAL FULTON FAMILY PERFORMANCE HORSE AND PRODUCTION SALE

article by Siri Stevens

The 19th Annual Fulton Family Performance Horse and Production Sale is quickly approaching this August with an exciting change to the location. The sale will now be held at the Central States Fairgrounds in Rapid City, South Dakota. "Rapid City is a hometown area for me," explains Lisa, who grew up 75 miles southeast. "This location is a central hub for our customers coming from all over the nation and is a larger facility that will help us accommodate the horses and our customers." The sale will take place on Friday, August 9th with the preview beginning at 2:00 PM MST and the sale at 6:00 PM MST.

The sale will feature 45 horses with a majority of the offering by Fulton Ranch stallions A Streak of Fling, CS Flashlight, and A Dash Ta Streak. "Our draw has always been our riding two-year olds that are well started and ready to go in any direction you want to take them," said Lisa. Her and her late husband, Brian Fulton started this program based on their desire to raise the horses that Brian couldn't find while he was on the rodeo road. They found that in A Streak of Fling in October of 2003. "We knew he could produce the kind of horses that Brian would like to ride."

The Fulton program has since produced very diversified, athletic horses that have achieved championships in several disciplines – from barrel racing to steer wrestling, team roping, calf roping, reined cow horse, and Quarter Horse racing. "We were looking for confirmation, mind, and speed, and we have proven that these horses have all of that and more," said Lisa.

"We are evolving and I keep carefully researching the best program I can put together. I learned about horsemanship, confirmation, and how to pick out a good horse from Brian and I continue to get a lot of advice from key people that walk me through my ideas and steer me in the direction I need to go. But you can't beat life experience to teach you, either. From marketing to time management to knowing what I like and what other people like."

This year's sale has bloodlines for every discipline. A Streak of Fling and CS Flashlight sired two-year olds make up over 25 head of the offering, but Fulton's also have the largest ever showing of A Dash Ta Streak two-year olds with over 8 head and counting. These include several exciting prospects brought in from outside consignors.

Two full siblings out of A Streak of Fling x Give Me A Wink (Doc O Dynamite) are headliners of the sale this year. Give Me A Wink is a standout barrel racing mare who was a 2007 NFR Qualifier, California Circuit Champion, and Cheyenne Shortgo Champion, among other winnings. Give Me A Fling, a 2017 Bay Roan Stud, is an exciting stallion prospect and his full sister, Giveawinkstreaker, a 2017 Bay Filly, offers top genetics for a performance horse or breeding investment.

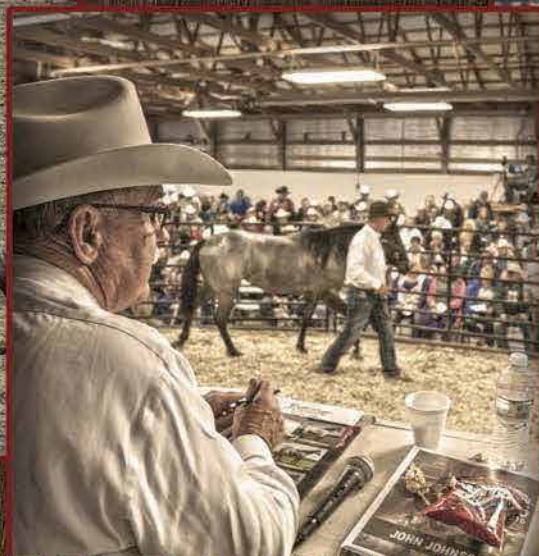

Fulton Ranch broodmare Queen Fa Tima (Dash Ta Fame) has always produced top sellers and has two sons on the sale this year. Flingin Corona, a 2017 Sorrel Gelding, is sired by A Streak of Fling and is a full brother to proven performers, Streakin Queenie (LTE +$65,000 – owned by Shoppa Ranch) and Streakin Ta Corona (LTE $40,000 – owned by Corny & Maria Wiebe). A Dash Ta Corona, a 2017 Sorrel Gelding, is the first son of A Dash Ta Streak x Queen Fa Tima to sell.

Another top bloodline is a 2017 Bay Roan Filly, A Easy Streak (A Streak of Fling x Easy April Whiskey by Paddys Irish Whiskey). Easy April Whiskey was a top calf roping performer for Jake Fulton and has since been a huge part of Fulton's broodmare program. Easy April Whiskey's dam, Easy April Lena (Doc O Dynamite), has produced Streakin Easy April (LTE $250,000+ and NFR Qualifier) and Lenas Last Streaker (LTE $25,000+) who carried Sydney Adamson to the 2018 Nebraska High School Rodeo Reserve Barrel Racing year-end championship.

JAYCO ROPER

[ “I’m ready to make a big appearance this year, so they can remember my name.” ]

story by Michele Toberer

When your grandma is Betty Roper, the winningest barrel racer in the International Professional Rodeo Association, the announcer often mentions her when introducing you to the crowds. Jayco Roper has grown accustomed to hearing the announcers rave about his grandma and her six world titles as he is getting things just right in the chutes before they break open the latch for his bareback horse to bolt into the arena. Especially when Jayco is at an IPRA or IFYR rodeo, where the Roper name has a longstanding history. Jayco has competed at the International Finals Youth Rodeo for the past two years and is looking forward to going this July for his third attempt at winning it all. “I’m ready to make a big appearance this year, so they can remember my name.”

As with many fourth-generation Oklahoma cowboys, rodeo surrounds Jayco on all sides, and with multiple family members traveling rodeo roads both currently as well as the past, rodeo is as much a part of the milestones in life as learning to walk. Jayco and his sisters, Jaylie, 23, and Jernie, 8, have had plenty of examples set before them, as their dad, J.W. competed as a team roper for many years, and besides their grandma Betty’s successful barrel racing and horse training career, their grandpa Jimmy Roper was a well-known and accomplished steer wrestler. Betty and Jimmy grew up with rodeoing parents, and, Jayco’s mom, Nikki, had grandparents that rodeoed back in their day as well. “I’ve lived in the rodeo environment my whole life, and both my sisters are hardcore barrel racers. Jaylie competed at the IFYR in barrel racing when she was younger and has trained some great barrel horses; and Jernie lives, eats, and breathes barrel racing.”

At just 17, the Epic Charter School, homeschooled high school senior started his rodeo career riding sheep at 3 years old and stepped up the rough stock ladder to calves, steers, and mini broncs when he was 6 years old. Although he comes from a family of mainly timed-event competitors, Jayco had a passion for rough stock from the very beginning at the Ward Rodeo Company rodeos he would compete at. Jayco's first year in the Oklahoma Junior High Rodeo Association led him to a national title as a seventh grader, when he left the NJHSFR in Des Moines, Iowa as the 2015 National Champion Bareback Steer Rider. Leading up to that, he had won the Oklahoma bareback steer champion title and champion rookie cowboy title. Jayco placed 4th in 2016 at the NJHSFR. He stepped up to bareback horses when he was about 14, and soon he was riding with all the big boys on full size broncs. Jayco won the 2017 Oklahoma High School Rodeo Association Champion Bareback Rider title his freshman year.

Learning the bronc riding ropes has been easier with the help of neighbor Justin McDaniel. Justin competed in the IFYR in 2003 and 2004, winning the all-around championship in 2004 after topping the earnings board with money earned in both bareback and bull riding.

He was inducted into the IFYR Hall Of Fame in 2014. "Justin has been a huge help to me over the years. He lives about 25 minutes away from our place in South Muscogee and he comes over to help me alot. He is always there to help fix my rigging and give me advice; I really look up to him. And, I never ride a horse without praying to God first."

Jayco keeps up a very busy schedule, competing in the American Cowboys Rodeo Association, Cowboys Regional Rodeo Association, and the All Indian Rodeo Cowboys Association. "My dad is my big-time manager; he takes care of everything. He schedules what rodeos I'm entering, and I hop and don't ask too many questions. I take what I do very seriously and work hard to step-up my game to ride with the big guys at these associations." Jayco spends much of his time practicing on his spur board, preparing for rodeos, and goes to the gym at least three times each week. "I like to run and do a lot of core work and powerlifting at the gym." He does make some time for fly fishing occasionally and enjoys going fishing for trout with his bulldogger friend, Shylo Glover.

Jayco's dad works for the Oklahoma Department of Transportation, and his mom works as a schoolteacher at the Oklahoma School for the Blind. J.W. is happy to be a big part of Jayco's rodeo aspirations, and enjoys the time they spend on the roads, knowing that the next transition is already beginning; and that is Jayco hauling with other rodeo competitors to rodeos. Currently, Jayco is starting to travel with his calf roper friend, Glenn Jackson to some of the local rodeos. This transition will let J.W. naturally progress into focusing his energies towards his ball of fire youngest, as she makes her way through the rodeo ranks as a star barrel racer.

J.W.'s mom, Betty, lives next door to the family and at 70 years old, is still riding every day. "Grandma Betty is still healthy and gets around like a 40-year-mom started, and she is rearing to go. She's already been winning at some junior rodeo associations, and once I get Jayco going on his way, it's about time for me to focus on her rodeo career," explained J.W.

Getting ready for the IFYR competition is building anticipation in the Roper household. "IFYR is the next big thing. It's a great old. She's never sitting down unless they're eating lunch." Betty has helped both granddaughters with their barrel racing and imparted much of her training knowledge on the girls as they work with her. "Jayco hasn't slacked up at all since he started riding, it has been non-stop. Jernie is riding a chestnut gelding named Cantina that my competition where you can win a lot of money and our family has a lot of history with both the IPRA and IFYR. Sometimes I joke with my grandma that I wish she wouldn't be the center of attention all the time when I'm there. But really, I think it's cool, and I want to keep working towards my goals to be one of the great ones. I'd like to win as many world champion titles as she has so that one day, they may be talking about me when my grandson is getting ready in the chutes."

Jayco appreciates his sponsor, Up North Outlaws, for keeping him looking great with their clothing line. 🐾

RONNIE BOWMAN

[ “Some of the big rodeos were awful good to me.” ]

story by Ruth Nicolaus

Ronnie Bowman was part of the pro rodeo bull riding scene in the 1960s and 70s. The Durant, Okla. cowboy qualified for the National Finals Rodeo four years, never going to more than 55 or 60 rodeos each year, and rarely going far from home to compete. He was born in 1941, the son of Paul and Leota Bowman. His dad was a calf roper who made sure his sons always had horses and calves to rope. Living close to Southeastern Oklahoma State University (SOSU) in Durant, college boys were always on hand for practice sessions with the Bowmans.

When he was a senior in high school, Ronnie started riding bulls. He graduated high school in 1959 and went to SOSU. The college didn't have a National Intercollegiate Rodeo Association team, but Ronnie competed collegiately in both of his events.

During the summers, he and buddies would jump into a vehicle and be gone each weekend, traveling as far as Nebraska and winning money. Not one to brag, Ronnie won his share of the checks. “We got to beating them a little bit,” he said. One summer, he and a friend worked on a ranch south of Valentine, Neb., in the Sandhills. They would put up hay Monday through Thursday noon, then hit the rodeo road, competing Thursday, Friday, Saturday and Sunday afternoon before heading back to the hayfield on Monday morning.

After graduation from SOSU in 1964, he spent six months in the Army Reserve. “That sure did interfere with my rodeoing,” he said, of the weekends he had to spend in training. Often they would let him make up training in advance.

Ronnie competed in International Rodeo Association events (the forerunner of the International Pro Rodeo Association), and in 1965, got his Rodeo Cowboys Association (the predecessor to the Pro Rodeo Cowboys Association) membership. He was roping calves and riding bulls, when two of his good calf horses died. One went down due to colic and the second one was struck by lightning. He bought another horse, and after placing at three rodeos, the horse was paid for. Ronnie came home, put the horse out to pasture, and went on with his bull riding. “I didn't rope much after that,” he said.

He often traveled with world champion bull rider Freckles Brown, who was towards the end of his career. For five years, they hit the road together. He also traveled with Spanky Brown, Randy Majors, and Benny Holt. Benny, from the Durant area, never rodeoed much but rode really well, Ronnie said.

Ronnie qualified for the National Finals Rodeo the first year he had his membership, 1965, and three more times: 1967, '69, and '70. In '66, '68 and '74, he was never more than $300 from making it. He rodeoed close to home, never straying far except for three or four weeks in the summer, when he'd go real hard. "I'd get in with Freckles and we'd go to Cheyenne, Albuquerque, Omaha, Pine Bluff, Ark., and back to Oklahoma City," he remembered. The money wasn't as good at the NFR as it is now, and he didn't have the inclination to travel so hard. "A fella would have to go hard to get (to the NFR) now."

Even with his low rodeo count, he still won the big shows. He won Houston in 1974, taking home a check for $3,700. He won Odessa and Albuquerque, and out of eight trips to Cheyenne, he placed six of those times. He won a short round in Ft. Worth and competed at the American Royal in Kansas City in the calf roping and the bull riding three times, winning the all-around twice. "Some of the good big ones were awful good to me," he said. When other bull riders were riding at 100 rodeos a year, he was doing a bit more than half of that, and still making it into the top fifteen in the world.

For a while, he bought and sold bucking bulls. His dad had bought some and used them for practice bulls with Ronnie and the college boys, and Ronnie kept that business going. They were sale barn bulls, good practice bulls, but as Ronnie culled the herd, he "was the victim on most of them," he said. He sold several bulls that went on to do well in the IPRA and the PRCA. Beutler and Son bought a dozen of his bulls, with two of them making the National Finals Rodeo. He also sold No. 77, Sunset Strip, to J.C. Ward. The bull was the 1970 IPRA Bull of the Year and was only ridden twice in his career.

He and Freckles also put on bull riding schools in southeastern Oklahoma, commenting that if they'd have worked that hard at anything else, they'd be rich.

In 1970, he won a prestigious award at the NFR: the George Paul "Great Guy" Memorial. George Paul had been a bull rider, killed in a plane crash that year at the age of 23. It was an award voted on by his peers, going to the bull rider with "character, personality, appearance, congeniality, ability, rodeo image, personality, conduct, and most likely to succeed.” The four-foot tall trophy still sits in his house today.

Ronnie was careful with his winnings, putting them away in savings. In 1977, when he figured his income tax and didn’t make a profit, it was time to quit. The next two years, he only entered July Fourth rodeos. “Most of those boys spent all they could make,” he said. “I used it for a job. I bought and paid for a five-hundred acre place.”

He married his wife Judy in 1965. While both were students at SOSU, a mutual friend introduced them while Judy was working in the library. She taught school and during the summers, traveled with him.

He and Judy raised two daughters, Marci Jackson and Jeana Holt. The girls were good hands, “pretty tough,” their dad said, rodeoing through high school. Both girls qualified for the National High School Finals Rodeo, each in four events;

Jeana won the goat tying and the all-around titles in high school rodeo.

His worst injury was a broken jaw, an injury occurring on the last bull at the 1969 NFR.

Ronnie got on some memorable bulls throughout his career, some of them who are just memories but at the time were “bulls that everybody knew back then,” he remembered. One of them was No. 107 of Steiner’s. The bull went seven and a half years unriden, but Ronnie covered him four times. “The first time I drew him he like to throw me out of the arena.” One of those times, was in Belton, Texas. An insurance company was giving a one hundred dollar bill to the high marked ride. Ronnie rode No. 107 and got the money.

He rode No. R-100 of Beutler and Son’s, and Tex M of Hoss Inman’s. And he won a go-round in Ft. Worth on Billy Minnick’s V61, the 1970 RCA Bucking Bull of the Year.

He and Judy enjoy life on their place near Durant, raising black Simmentals and enjoying their granddaughter and grandson. He’s a humble person, not talking about his rodeo success. But he’d do it all over again, if he could. “I got along pretty good with it,” he said. In 2017, he was inducted into the SOSU Rodeo Hall of Fame. 🤠

PROFILE:

PHIL SUMNER RODEO COMPANY

story by Michele Toberer

The International Finals Youth Rodeo, known as the world's richest youth rodeo, will take place for the 27th year on July 7-12, 2019, in Shawnee, Oklahoma. Not many understand the beginnings of the event better than Phil Sumner of Phil Sumner Rodeo Company. "The national high school rodeo finals had been held for three years in Shawnee, and when they moved to Gillette, Wyoming, Ken Etchieson put together a plan for the IFYR. Ken's whole concept was that he didn't want just one stock contractor, he wanted to have several stock contractors bringing in the best stock for the kids to compete on. He was very specific that he didn't want any eliminators in the rough stock. So, the whole deal turned out that I won the bid on the stock contract, and I ended up bringing in some of the best contractors to furnish the stock for the IFYR for 20 years. That first year, I provided all the labor to run three arenas, picked up broncs, had horses and bulls there, and coordinated the rest of the contractors. Over the years I've coordinated with many stock contractors such as: Wendel Ratchford, J.C. Ward, Dale Hall, David Bailey, Sammy Andrews, the Rumfords, Bar 44, Chuck Donaldson, Lindell Tunes, Danny Hajek, Charlie John Coffee, Hall Rodeo Company, Vicki Long, and Charlie Thompson."

An Oklahoma native, Phil grew up between Stillwater and Perkins, Oklahoma, and graduated from Perkins High School before graduating from Oklahoma State University in 1966 with an animal science degree. Rodeo was a part of his upbringing and his senior year of high school he started riding bulls and made a short stint as a bareback rider as well. After leaving OSU, he managed 150 head of Black Angus in Glenwood, Arkansas, so rodeo was put on hold for a few years. Phil's first wife, with whom he had a son, Rod, and set of boy and girl twins, Walt and Misty, had an aunt and uncle that were involved in a serious accident, so they came back to Stillwater, Oklahoma to help manage their dairy while they recuperated. Once the family was able to take back over at the dairy, Phil went to work for Oklahoma State University as the assistant beef herdsman for several years, before going to work for Farmland Industries in Enid, Oklahoma, where he has worked for 43 years. And between all the full-time jobs, Phil was building his name as a stock contractor throughout the country.

Starting out, Phil had the opportunity to breed to a bull, Andy Capp, owned by Jim Shoulders that was nearing the end of his successful career, having been a favored bull at the NFR for many years with Jim. Phil was glad to end up with several great bulls out of those crossings. "I was doing work with Carl Rice, out of Begas, Oklahoma at that time, picking up broncs and leasing him bulls, and several of those bulls made the IFR at that time in Tulsa, Oklahoma. Things kept progressing along and I went to a Jerald Smith sale in Texarkana and bought some bulls and ended up with some really good bulls. I'd buy bulls that were someone else's mistake and I'd bring them home and had success in bringing them along."

Phil had a portable bull riding arena, and he started hauling it to different locations and putting on bull ridings. Hank Moore put in Tumbleweeds, a bar in Stillwater, Oklahoma with an arena behind it, and Phil started bucking bulls there every Saturday night. He'd also buck bulls at Doug Blem's arena on Sundays, plus buck bulls at his house in Goltry each week. "I had the opportunity to show those bulls three different types of arenas within a week's time, it was good for them." In 1991, he bought 3 bulls from Jess Kephart, one was Tumbleweed, and another, Bodacious. "I bought Bodacious in 1991 and in 1992 he went to the IFR, although he didn't buck there. "Sammy Andrews started hauling them and Bodacious began an extremely successful career. He bucked off Bubba Don, and Terry Don West was the first man to ride him. Terry Don got on him four times, he rode him twice and got hurt twice. I watched Tuff Hedeman ride him in Long Beach and it was the best ride I'd ever seen on him, Tuff matched him move for move, but then got hurt on him. Tuff drew him at the NFR later and stepped off him out of the chute, because he didn't want to chance getting hurt." Bodacious had a reputation throughout the bull riding world as "the world's most dangerous bull." Bodacious was the bucking bull of they year in the PRCA twice, PBR bull of the year once, and was inducted into the Pro Rodeo Hall of Fame in Colorado Springs in 1999 and inducted into the Bull Riding Hall of Fame in 2017. On November 5, 2019, Bodacious will be recognized at the 2019 PBR Heroes & Legends Celebration at South Point ductions, Phil was determined to not let rodeo interfere with his business life. "There were many times that I'd get off work on Friday, rent a car and drive to a rodeo where I had hired guys to haul my horse and meet me. I'd work as a pick-up man, and rodeo all weekend, and the guys would drop me off at work Monday morning, and I'd start work in the clothes I was wearing from the night before. Not too many people knew that's what I was doing."

Phil has a stepson, Jason Auddell, from his second wife, "Jason has a passion for rodeo and has been extremely helpful.

Casino & Hotel with the PBR Brand of Honor, the sport's highest recognition for a bovine athlete.

Besides Phil's success in breeding and choosing bulls, he also had some stand-out horses over the years. "I started putting together a few head of horses, Sammy Andrews would send colts to our friend Danny Hajek to grow in the summer, and I would haul the colts and started putting on rodeos. A lot of the horses out of that deal went on to be outstanding. Cool Water, Lock and Load, Power Play, Roly Poly; they all went on to make the NFR. One of the latest horses I hauled for Sammy was H-09 who went on to be an NFR saddle-bronc horse. Having the success that I've had with the horses and bulls has been a very self-fulfilling experience."

Through all the horses, bulls and pro-

He's got some bulls that he's had good success with, and his son Thatcher just graduated from high school but hauls bulls to events himself. All my kids have helped me at rodeos. My daughter helps time, and all of them have helped me at the IFR over the years. It's great to share it all with them." Phil's wife Jeni is now helping him with some of the rodeos he puts on each year. Phil passed on the torch and stopped bringing stock to the IFYR 5 years ago, but he currently puts on many IPRA and KPRA rodeos each year.

Phil looks back fondly on the two decades he was involved with the IFYR, "One of the best things I ever did at the IFYR was on Sunday, I'd set up a trailer for the contractors to keep all their tack, and I'd put a 10 X 20 tent with a shade cloth on the west side, and I'd set up water misters. The stock contractors would all gather around there, and let me tell you, there were some enjoyable stories told under that tent. Monday, the rodeo would start, so at that tent it was like the quiet before the storm." 🐾

"I had a great go, and got a good catch on the steer. I slid him five feet or so, and he just fell on my leg. It was just a freak deal. I've run thousands of steers and have never had one fall on my leg like that. I caught his head, my feet hit how I wanted and the next thing I knew he was on top of me."

Luke immediately grabbed his knee, and all of us there cheering on our hometown hero—including Luke's parents, John and Brandy, who like me were sitting right there arenaside—gasped and held our breath. Luke's tough, and he doesn't do drama. It had to be bad.

"I felt something pop, and I heard a weird noise, but I was hoping it was that steer's horn hitting the brace on my other knee," said the 14-time NFR steer wrestler, who made his first Finals in 2001 and last competed in Vegas in 2015. "I knew something wasn't right, but was hoping I wouldn't need surgery."

Rodeo's resident medicine man and dear friend to us all, Dr. Tandy Freeman of the Justin Sportsmedicine Program, flew into Santa Barbara and met with Luke and his wife, Lindsay, on Wednesday evening (June 5). The Branquinho Ranch is located in nearby Los Alamos on California's Central Coast. The verdict: Luke's right ACL is torn in two. Surgery is now scheduled for June 19th in Dallas.

The plan is for Tandy to take part of the patellar tendon from Luke's right knee and basically use it to build a new ACL. It'll take about a two-inch incision to go in and get that tendon, and from

Not again. I wasn't the only one who said that out loud last Sunday at the Santa Maria (California) Elks Rodeo, when moments after photo-finishing it from Green Bay to run his second steer at Santa Maria, five-time World Champion Steer Wrestler Luke Branquinho had to be helped out of the arena in obvious pain and was virtually non-weight-bearing on his right knee.

"(Wrangler National Finals Rodeo steer wrestler) Stan Branco had run that steer in slack, and besides him being bigger than the others I thought he was a good chance," said Luke, who placed second on his first steer at Santa Maria, and the night before had finished third for a $10,000 pop at the World Champions Rodeo Alliance's $1 million Title Town Stampede in Green Bay, Wisconsin. "I missed the barrier a little bit, so we were rolling down through there pretty fast (Luke was riding his bulldogging horse Rockhouse). But everything felt good, and Stan (who hazed for Luke on Luke's hazing horse Rubble) had him there Tandy can make the necessary repairs arthroscopically. Luke, who is again ready to dive into rigorous rehab, is expected to be out of action about four and a half months.

"I hope to be back for the California Circuit Finals in October," said Luke, who won gold bulldogging buckles in 2004, '08, '11, '12 and '14.

If it feels to you, as it does to me, like it's been one thing after another for Branquinho, that's because—well—it has. This seemingly non-stop slew of surgeries started with a lat (latissimus dorsi) tendon rupture (on Branquinho's back) and subsequent surgery in July 2014. In July 2017, Luke had rotator cuff and capsule repair surgery on his right shoulder. Then there was the surgery in February 2018 to repair the ruptured biceps tendon on his left arm.

What happened Sunday is yet another disappointing—if not devastating—derailment for the future hall of famer. And yet you'll still hear Tom Petty belting out "I won't back down" while you wait for Luke to pick up his phone. It's an attitude with this guy, and it's no act.

"One thing about rodeo—there are a lot of moving parts and those parts all have a mind of their own," said Luke, 38, who was actually born in Santa Maria. "Freak accidents are just part of this lifestyle. Unfortunately, the danger factor in our sport has hamstrung me a lot here lately. But it is what it is. For whatever reason, this was meant to happen.

"Getting hurt sucks in any line of work. The way I look at it, you can sit around and mope about it, and it'll take longer to get back at it than if you work hard at get-at the Semi Finals. Then I go to Green Bay, run one steer and—again with no entry fees—win another $10,000. The odds are phenomenal to win such great money in the WCRA.

"The crowd in Green Bay was phenomenal—it was sold out—and the production was great. This big, new money is catching on with the cowboys, and there's nothing not to like about it. So much of what guys are winning in the WCRA didn't come out of other cowboys' pockets. That's something we've all been hoping for for a long time."

There's plenty Luke could be complaining about right at the moment. But the fact of the matter is that Branquinho limped to his truck Sunday, drove straight back to the ranch and worked on a tractor. Hey, it's haying season here.

"Getting upset and mad has never really been me, even when it comes down to not getting a flag in the 10th round (at the NFR) for a gold buckle (in 2009)," Luke said. "You can sit there, be bitter and dwell on it. Or you can move forward and get better from it."

"Between having three kids (Luke and Lindsay have three boys, Cade, Jameson and Bear) and the ranch, I'm plenty busy. I'm in the field baling hay today, and I'm trying to get it all stacked before surgery on the 19th. There's no time to sit around and sulk. This hay's not going to put itself up." 🐾

ting better and keep a positive attitude. And that's not just the case with injuries, but with life."

Branquinho's been busy on the Professional Rodeo Cowboys Association trail, and is ranked in the top 30 in the world. He's been making some rodeos count twice by way of the WCRA's Virtual Rodeo Qualifier system.

"I paid $400 to nominate two (PRCA) rodeos, which is how I got qualified for the ($500,000) WCRA Semi Finals at the Lazy E last month (and that's how he got qualified for last Saturday night's $1 million Title Town Stampede in Green Bay)," Luke said. "We get to the Semi Finals in Guthrie, don't have to pay any entry fees and don't have to beat very many people to—in my case—win $7,000 right there

Meet the Member Fisher Trowbridge

story by Lily Weinacht

Fisher Trowbridge of Dyersburg, Tennessee, teamed up with Allen Morse on a lark for ribbon roping last season, and the friends went home the 2018 NLBRA Senior Ribbon Roping World Champions. “Allen and I just picked it up about three quarters of the way through the year—he needed the all-around points and we were doing it for fun, and we ended up winning the title!” says Fisher, 16. The title is his first in the NLBRA, while Allen also won the senior boy world all-around. “I struggle sometimes with my mental game, but I believe if you take a deep breath and don’t go at it like it’s a world champion title, that helps a lot.”

Visualizing himself in his practice pen at home helped Fisher last year as well when he roped at Fired Up Production’s USTRC roping in Tunica, Mississippi, and won a saddle. “I ended up roping in my tennis shoes—I forgot my boots—and I thought it was going to be a bad day, but I ended up bringing the saddle home.” Both his saddles are in his room where he can enjoy them, and Fisher is working hard to add to his collection. He’s qualified for the 2019 NLBFR in tie-down roping, team roping with Miller Bartlett, and ribbon roping with Kolby Krieger. “I’m kind of a competitive junky. I really like the titles a lot too, and it’s coming back home and getting to ride and rope with your friends. A lot of my friends are at the rodeos, and that’s what keeps me going.”

hard core competitors at the goat ropings and jackpots in between performances. They also enjoy going to the Oklahoma’s Stockyards City and the National Cowboy and Western Heritage Museum. “The Lazy E is awesome,” says Fisher, who joined the association in 2017 after Allen Morse told him about the NLBRA. He then settled in to the Central Arkansas NLBRA. “I think I’ve made every rodeo but one of theirs this year. I just like the atmosphere, and the people are much more helpful and the judges are so nice.”

Often, Fisher travels to rodeos with his mom, Emily, while his dad, Todd, goes with Fisher’s 13-year-old brother, John Morris, to his basketball and baseball tournaments. Fisher reintroduced horses into his family when he was 11 and started riding at a neighbor’s house. He was gifted his first horse for Christmas, and eventually found a mare named Lena who carried him to his first rodeos when he was 13. “My dad brought home a rope one day, and I roped everything I walked by,” says Fisher. “I ended up going to a guy named Cliff Goodrich. He’s won the Southeastern Circuit Finals several times and is a big IPRA guy. Joe Beaver has helped me out a lot—I’ve gotten a couple of my horses from him—and he’s motivational and pretty straight up about things.”

Fisher taught his team roping horse, Yachty, to head and heel over a summer, and his calf horse, Ice Man, came from Joe Beaver. He earned his name when the Trowbridges went to pick him up in Texas during one of the worst ice storms the state has seen in several years.

If horses aren’t in tow, Fisher and his family spend time at their lake house in the summer, while he is also accumulating hours to get his private pilot’s license. Fisher started working for a crop duster loading planes, and found a love for aviation. He practices in his 1965 Cherokee 140 and is 30–40 hours away from his private license. His ultimate goal is to become a crop duster. “I’ve always wanted to go pro with rodeo, but that is kind of risky, so I want to have a backup plan, which is flying, but I would love to go pro. Even if that doesn’t work out, there’s team roping at USTRCs, and I’ve always planned on hitting the George Strait (Team Roping Classic) at least once.”

Resistol®

Official Hat of the NLBRA

As of May 1, 2019, the NLBRA is proud to announce that Resistol is the Official Hat of the National Little Britches Rodeo Association.

When you visit the Resistol website, the first thing you see is this text- Ask any cowboy what brand of cowboy hat he wears and chances are you will hear the name Resistol. Resistol has been the preferred choice for working cowboys, ranch hands and rodeo cowboys for over 90 years. From the passionate hatters that started the company to the hardworking team working daily to produce the best quality hat a cowboy can wear, the folks at Resistol live and love the western way of life. Not only do we make hats, we wear them. Not only do we respect cowboys and the western way of life, we all live it too. That's why we say "We Live It Every Day".

The National Little Britches families are cut from the same cloth. The partnership between the two brands is a natural and we're so excited to work with the team at Resistol on the next level. Be on the look out for all the latest hat styles during the National Little Britches finals in the Resistol booth on the North end of the arena under the flag.

Queen Farewell

Could you imagine a piece of Montana Silversmiths art work being the ticket to so many incredible opportunities? Can you imagine traveling all around the United States promoting the sport and association you love? Well for the past 365 days I have been doing exactly that. Being blessed enough to do what it is that I love, for the association I love.

Since August 1, 2018 I have been hitting the rodeo road traveling from Nevada, Colorado, Texas, Oklahoma, and Wyoming. From Denver, to Dallas; running flags to meeting with sponsors, with my princesses by my side we made 2019 the best year ever!

This year, I have represented the NLBRA at countless events and rodeos such as; Pro Rodeo Hall of Fame Introductions, WESA Scholarship Golf Tournament, Miss Rodeo America Pageant, Wrangler National Finals Rodeo, WESA Denver Market, Denver Childrens Hospital Rodeo Day, Elbert CO Little Britches, The American and Jr American, Cinch Timed Event Championships, NRS Little Britches, Torrington Little Britches,

2019 NLBRA Queen,
Catherine Odgers
- HK Designs & Photography

Wild West Little Britches, Las Vegas Days Rodeo, Helldorado Parade, NSH-SRA Special Kids Rodeo, Reno Rodeo, and the daddy of 'em all Cheyenne Frontier Days!

Throughout this year I have pushed calves, set up arenas, held goats, carried Old Glory, signed autographs, talked with sponsors and so much more, all while wearing the beautiful Montana Silversmiths crown on my American Hat.

But this year would not have been as special if it wasn't for all the contestants, parents, NLBRA board members, sponsors, and people I have met along the way. No matter where I went, no matter the weather, I was surrounded by the best people with the best hearts. Being a first-year college student and a rodeo queen at once made things difficult at times, but due to the amazing people God put into my life, it made my year as the 2019 NL-

BRA Queen, just that much better. This year I had the pleasure of swinging my leg over multiple AQHA horses that took the best of care of me no matter how scary the spotlights or pyrotechnics were.

As my year comes to a close, I can't help but smile as I recall all of the priceless moments from this year. Being your 2019 NLBRA Queen was truly a dream come true. To the next girl who will be carrying the NLBRA crown on your hat, make the best out of every moment. Take a moment to reflect and look back on your year because, it does go by too fast. But always remember to represent the NLBRA and our sponsors to the very best of your abilities.

The 2019 National Little Britches Finals Rodeo is underway and new champions will be crowned soon here at the Lazy E. I want to wish all the contestants the best of luck not just this week but at every rodeo they step foot in.

Signing off for the last time,

Meet the Member Joe Autry

story by Lily Weinacht

Joe Autry of Branson, Colorado, led the team roping with heeler Colby Runner all season, and the friends held on to their momentum through state finals to win the year end. The 14-year-old rookie joined the CJHSRA last year with his sister, Aspen, who is a sixth-grader, and the brother and sister qualified for Nationals together in the ribbon roping. Joe also finished second in the breakaway roping and fourth in the chute dogging, sending him to Huron, South Dakota, in four events. "Team roping is my favorite," says Joe. "It's a lot more fun, and you just go out there and do your job."

The siblings are the fourth generation of their family to rodeo, and Aspen made her mark at state finals as well, winning the year-end in barrel racing and finishing second in pole bending.

Along with the CJHSRA, Joe competes in the CJRA, and in 2018, he was the NLBRA Reserve World Champion Flag Racer. He also went out to The Patriot in Fort Worth this winter for the first time. "I went down there and entered the side pots, and I entered some jackpots with my dad. I also did calf roping and breakaway roping. The dummy roping was really fun, because you can take your mind off the competition and hang out with friends and have a good time," says Joe. "Once you win, all that hard work pays off. It's just that feeling of happiness that all that hard work paid off in the end, but you just have to keep working hard to strive for that end goal. My mom and dad (JJ and Crystal Autry) have really pushed me to do the best that I can, and another person is my great-grandpa, Bud Autry. He was in the PRCA. There's a lot of people who have helped me, and everybody helps everybody."

While Joe takes a short break from rodeo to focus on basketball season in the winter, he rides and practices as often as possible throughout the year. "My gray head horse is Azol. He had West Nile when he was pretty young and my grandpa helped him along and got him healthy again. I started riding him and roping off of him, and now he's 18. We're borrowing a horse right now, Tucson, and I ride him in breakaway and the ribbon roping, Tom Guardamondo is letting me use him," says Joe.

He finished eighth grade at Kim Middle School, where he and his sister, Aspen, are two of several students who rodeo. Joe enjoys his health class and is an avid athlete, playing football and basketball, and running track. His football team only lost one game this season, and his basketball team won their tournament. He also enjoys playing golf when he's not rodeoing. "Sometimes it's nice to sit there and relax and play a little golf. I do that with my family and we have bragging rights about who's better. It's probably my dad, but I come in a close second."

Joe anticipates high school rodeoing this fall, but first he's working hard to win the national team roping title at the NJHFR, and plans to spend his summer break going to rodeos and ropings. "In school, I want to graduate and get a good job. I want to run a fish hatchery when I get older, so school is a pretty big priority. In sports, I'm going in to high school next year knowing I've got to get better, and stronger and faster."

Meet the Member Jordan Miner

story by Lily Weinacht

“My motivation is really the connection that you get when you rodeo with a horse. It’s one of the things I’ve found to be very freeing, and it’s one of the places I find myself at my happiest,” says Jordan Miner. The 16-year-old from Mesa, Colorado, found her niche in rodeo by competing in gymkhanas as a child, then advancing to junior high and high school rodeos. She’s also an avid Nordic skier, and encouraging athletes to pursue rodeo alongside their other sports is one of her chief goals while serving as the 2018/2019 CSHSRA Rodeo Queen. “I do a lot of other activities other than rodeo, and I like letting people know that even though you do other sports, you can participate in rodeo while you’re doing them,” she explains.

Along with rodeo, Jordan is an FFA member, showing sheep and goats at fair and serving as a junior officer, as well as competing on the vet science team. She also enjoys running track, and is applying to the National Honor Society. That, alongside competing in the CSHSRA in barrel racing, pole bending, and breakaway roping, has made Jordan adept at managing her time. “I enjoy them all equally, and I also do shooting sports, which is my best event. It’s the only event I've been to Nationals in—I went in 2018,” says Jordan. “Sometimes I'll be doing queen grand entry and then they'll be doing barrels in another arena, so I have to switch horses and make sure my horse Buggy is warmed up ahead of time, but we can usually get through it pretty easily. My mom and dad, Theresa and Jeff Miner, have helped me out a considerable amount with traveling and helping me keep up with homework, and giving me the animals I need to compete.”

She rides her gelding Buggy in the pole bending and barrel racing, and her mare Holly in breakaway roping and her queen activities. Jordan also has three other horses she rides at barrel races, and a filly she's training. Her dad owns a guiding business, and they also have 27 head of horses and mules for riding and packing. “I'll take trail rides out occasionally, and sometimes I help with the advanced horsemanship in the arena,” Jordan adds. “I help some of the local kids if they're down practicing—we have an arena in Collbran—and we're looking to get an arena built in the next month or two at my house.” Jordan also looks forward to her home CSHSRA rodeo in Grand Junction each fall, which she helps set up and run. “During that rodeo we usually have a roping fundraiser and a barrel race fundraiser, so we'll be moving cattle and setting up barrels, and doing that while also competing and helping with the rodeo itself.”

A junior at Plateau Valley High School, Jordan does much of her studying on the road to maintain her 3.6 GPA, and particularly enjoys science and history. “I'm kind of a history dork when it comes to ancient civilizations,” she says with a laugh. “I really like anthropology.” Since her school doesn't have a ski team, Jordan skis for Aspen Valley High School, and also competes nationally in the Rocky Mountain Nordic Association. She competed at Nationals in Anchorage, Alaska, in March and placed in several races. Jordan also hopes to rodeo in college. “And I am also looking at skiing collegiately and hopefully making the All-American.”

Schedule & Results

Heidi's Notes

by Heidi Geesen

Happy Fourth of July!! My favorite Holiday of the year. I know it sounds crazy with all the other holidays we have that I would like the Fourth of July over them all.

Getting to celebrate our Country's Independence by watching fireworks, and singing songs written about the greatest nation brings tears to my eyes every year. I also find it as a time to reflect on all the great men and women who have served our country for our freedom and those STVILL serving to help us keep that freedom.

As we move further into our rodeo season please look to our website often for any updates to the schedule that may happen in between issues of the Rodeo News. Especially our co-approved rodeos as they can change often.

Also remember if you enter a co-approved rodeo and need to turn out you need to call that association not our state office. You can find their association information on our website.

We have entry tutorial videos available on our website as well as our Facebook page. All non-members must call the State Office to get a non-member number prior to entering a rodeo. A credit card number must be on file to secure your entry. Please note that the credit card will not be charged.

Until Next Time,

Heidi Geesen

Meet the Member Cooper Phillipps

story by Ruth Nicolaus

If Cooper Phillipps says he's going to do something, get out of his way.

The Nebraska Junior High School Rodeo Association member is determined and focused, and if he sets a goal, he usually attains it.

A couple of years ago, his mom reports, he told her he wanted to tie a goat in under ten seconds, and at the next rodeo, he did.

And in seventh grade, at Burwell Junior-Senior High School last year, he said he wanted to break the junior high high-jump record, and he did, twice. A thirty-year record, he broke it in seventh grade and again as an eighth grader. Now, Cooper's name is on the board with the new record: a five feet nine inch jump.

In rodeo, the fifteen-year-old competes in the chute dogging, team roping, tie-down roping, goat tying, ribbon roping and light rifle shooting. He heels for Garrett Harms and in the ribbon roping, he ropes for Sabrina Schemper.

For the heeling, ribbon roping and tie-down roping, Cooper rides a gelding named Leo. For the goat tying, he rides a mare named Leslie. Of the two, Leslie is his favorite, although she has a lot of character. "She gets pretty cranky and I have to warm her up a lot before I compete," he said. Leslie isn't a fan of pigs, either. At the Fourth of July junior rodeo in Erickson, Neb., a few years ago, they did a pig scramble and she did not appreciate it. So Erickson is not her favorite arena anymore.

In school, Cooper plays football and basketball, wrestles, and in track, does the 100 meter dash, the high jump, long jump, and the four by 100 meter relay. He is on the quiz bowl team, is in FFA, and the school rodeo club, and is on the all-A honor roll. In FFA, he went to state in the seventh grade in range judging.

He enjoys school and has two favorite teachers. Mr. Gideon is his history teacher and the high school football coach. Mr. Gideon "understands kids," Cooper said, "and can get (information) across to us. He relates history to how people think and how things are today."

The art teacher, Miss Heerten, is also special, because "she's enthusiastic and wants us to learn."

Cooper's favorite meal is his mom's enchiladas, and the best dessert she makes is brownies. His favorite vegetable is corn, especially corn on the cob, and his favorite fruit is oranges and grapefruit with a little sugar on top. He loves to wash it all down with a Dr. Pepper or root beer, depending on the day.

In his spare time, he likes to hunt for grouse, doves and deer, and he likes to fish in the pond in the back yard, which is full of catfish, perch, bluegill, and crappie.

Cooper isn't sure what he'd like to be when he grows up, but he knows he has plenty of time to think about it. "I like a lot of different things," he said.

He has competed at state finals his sixth and seventh grade years and is headed there this year. Last year, he qualified for the National Junior High School Finals Rodeo in the goat tying and the light rifle.

His mom loves the determination her son shows. "When he puts his mind to something, it's going to happen, it doesn't matter what," she said. He hopes to go six feet in the high jump some day, "and I don't doubt that he will," his mom said.

He is the son of Steve and Holly Phillipps. 🐾

Meet the Member Blaine Bumguardner

story by Lindsay King

The day after high school graduation (2005), Blaine Bumguardner got a phone call from his uncle (Harold Bumguardner). Blaine had spent the previous summer with Harold up in Wyoming, but had little contact until that call. "I packed my things and moved up here. He roped steers and rodeoed. I was just following along behind him and figured I should do what he was doing," said the Torrington, Wyoming, cowboy. Until then, Blaine had mostly just team roped throughout junior high and high school. "I had never even seen steer roping until I came up here and watched my uncle who was competing as a professional at the time." Blaine roped his first steer in Laramie, Wyoming, back when the Jubilee Days still featured the event.

"My uncle always likes to have a student. I remember when I was younger that he always had a guy with him. At the time, I was the easy choice." Blaine has since moved out of this student role, but still gleans any and all wisdom he can from his uncle about roping and life. Harold taught Blaine to truly appreciate the event and to carry the torch for the gritty steer ropers. "The hardest part about it is the stigma that every animal we run is crippled afterward. That political aspect is tough." The steers Blaine practices on at home have been in the string for two years, proving that steer roping is safe when done correctly. "Surprisingly, the other hard part about the event is catching the steer around the horns. I get to thinking about other things and then forget about what is supposed to be the easiest part. It isn't easy when you forget about it." Blaine is thankful

the NSRA produces so many rodeos with steer roping and the caliber at which they are ran.

Back when Blaine first got started as a steer roper, the event was just getting started again in the NSRA. "I was still young then, so I didn't care about the politics of it. I also didn't realize how hard it is to get steer roping at a rodeo." When Blaine was just 18 years old, he was spending most of his time with the "old timers" of rodeo who steer roped back in the day. He credits the years spent with them for the man he is today.

As a professional steer roper, Harold was never short of good horse flesh. Blaine had his pick of the pen when he was first learning. "Last year when I started back up again, I just looked at my pen of horses and picked the best one I had to start in the steer roping. We tied three steers on him and then started going to jackpots." Blaine doesn't have a special mount for the event, he just gets by with what he has at the time.

Up until last May, Blaine had not tied a steer for twelve years. "I got married and didn't have much time or money to go rodeo until last year. Chris Ledoux said it best with the lyrics 'I would rather spend ten seconds in the saddle than a lifetime in the stands.'" Blaine didn't come back quietly, he went to every NSRA and WSRA rodeo he possibly could last year. The plan is the same for 2019. He hopes to compete at some PRCA rodeos and see how they go. With his wife, Shannon, and their two kids – Bransen and Lulu – as his support system, Blaine is bound for greatness in the steer roping pen. 🐾

Meet the Member Bailey Hurlburt

story by Lindsay King

Freshman year rodeo is a big step up for anyone coming out of junior high, it's even bigger when it's your first official year of competitive roping. That was the case for Bailey Hurlburt three years ago. "My brother (Austin, now 19) always roped in the junior high and high school rodeos growing up. I usually just rode the horses around while he competed, but I thought it looked fun and decided I would start," said the 17-year-old. Bailey wasn't far behind her competition, she learned how to rope at five years old. The big learning curve was coming out of the box to be fast. "My dad (Brent) and I have spent a lot of time getting the start down so I come out of the box sharp and am ready to throw. My dad rides colts and gives me pointers while I am practicing. My mom (Twyla) spends a lot of time in the arena helping me also."

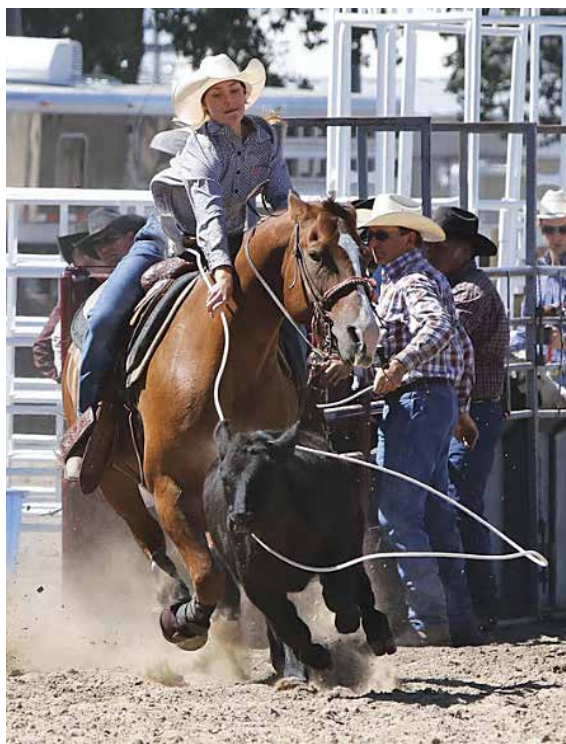

This Norfolk, Nebraska, resident is an avid breakaway roper mostly, but can also head a steer with the best of them in the tough M-SRA pool. "I only breakaway rope in high school rodeo right now. It is fun to come out of the box and throw a loop for a two-second run. I like that it is just me and my horse out there." This will be Bailey's third year in the M-SRA. Between her, Austin and Brent, the trio competes in at least eight of the sanctioned rodeos a year. "I like getting out to see more than just the high schoolers. Roping against the big dogs makes it harder but it also makes it more fun."

In a matter of 2.4 seconds, Bailey clinched her first big win as a roper in Broken Bow, Nebraska. "That was one of my fastest time I ever had. It was exciting to see everything come together."

She has taken second at that same rodeo while placing at a couple others throughout the last three years. "The M-SRA rodeo in Madison is one of my favorites. They always have a good crowd that gets me hyped up and I really enjoy their pink night." As far as a high school favorite, that goes to Burwell. "My dad grew up there, so we always get to spend time with grandparents. And it is one of the biggest arenas out there."

Many hours have been spent with the roping dummy, both in the past and recently. "I am working hard at getting more aggressive and consistent by really focusing on what I am doing so I can make sure I do everything just right." This Battle Creek High School junior is looking forward to college rodeo one day while pursuing a career as an occupational therapist. "Both my brother and I have had a lot of injuries, so we have spent a lot of time going to therapy. It looks like a fun job. I like to help people, so that might be a good way to do that."

Bailey spends a lot of time in Burwell with her grandparents, helping them put in irrigation systems and fencing on the farm. When Bailey isn't practicing for rodeo, she is working on one of her three high school sports: cross country, basketball and track. "I really like basketball because I like hanging out with my teammates before, during and after games and practice." Cross country won out over volleyball because the latter took up too many Saturdays and those are saved for rodeo. Bailey qualified for state both her freshman and sophomore year in cross country. 🏆

MONTANA SILVERSMITHS DILLON HAHNKAMP

story by Michele Toberer

Third-generation cowboy, Dillon Hahnkamp, is no stranger to the rodeo lifestyle. Although his little hometown of Melrose, Montana only has 75 residents, he had a father, Jay, and grandfather, Charlie Hahnkamp, who set the example in front of him his entire life. Now 20 years old, Dillon still carries on that rodeo tradition in his own life and is grateful to have a wonderful support system making it possible for him to compete at the college level in the National Intercollegiate Rodeo Association, as he secures an education for his future. Dillon was a recipient of the Montana Silversmiths Pursuit of Excellence scholarship this past spring, and he is looking forward to putting the scholarship to use in the fall as he continues his education.

Dillon attended school at Beaverhead County High School in the nearby town of Dillon, which is home to approximately 5,000 Montanans. He competed in the Montana High School Rodeo Association as a calf roper and team roper while in high school. After graduating in 2017, he went on to Ranger, Texas to attend Ranger Community College where he competed in the NIRA and studied welding technology. "The Southwest region of the NIRA is one of the toughest regions there is. It's just a melting pot of fantastic ropers and the competition there is outstanding. I think if you want to rope, that's where you need to be for at least a little while." Dillon appreciates all that he learned while in the region and is proud to have made it to several short-gos at region rodeos during his time there.

Dillon's dad competed as a calf roper, and he and Charlie also worked as pick-up men at pro rodeos in Montana for nearly 30 years. Charlie also worked for many years as a stock contractor. "My grandpa went with the more reliable paycheck when it came to rodeo. He's 88 and still rides and shuttles cattle around, he's a true cowboy. He's the real deal." Dillon's mom, Denise, is from Minnesota and rodeo was not a huge part of her life before moving to Montana. However, she is now immersed in the lifestyle with Dillon, and his younger brother, Cord, 15, who competes as a bareback rider and roper.

Dillon is still making the decision between attending school in Laramie, Wyoming at the University of Wyoming, or Miles Community College in Miles City, Montana next fall. He's considering focusing on business to complement his welding skills he's gained so far and turn his associate degree into a bachelor's degree while continuing to compete in the NIRA. Dillon appreciates the support of Montana Silversmiths and is honored to carry the scholarship with him as he continues to prepare for his future. "Being a college student that rodeos is very expensive. When you have to be at school with horses and trailers and have the extra expenses that rodeoing in college entails, every little bit of help makes a huge difference. I am so grateful to Montana Silversmiths for recognizing me with this honor."

Implemented in 2005, the Pursuit of Excellence Scholarship program was created to give back as an investment in candidates who have a history of self-improvement and a desire to better themselves and their communities. Montana Silversmiths' vice president of marketing, Judy Wagner, explained, "Montana Silversmiths is grateful for this opportunity we have to give back. The most rewarding part is reading the applications and stories the applicants send in. It gives me hope and pride in the future to see the talent and stories these young people share with us. Of course, it's a great asset to have straight A's, but the whole premise of this scholarship is not just academic, it's more about applicants that have improved themselves no matter what, and the effort they have put in to get where they are." The trophy hat feathers that Montana Silversmiths unveiled this year seemed like the perfect product to pair with this scholarship program, and a portion of the sales of the trophy hat feathers will be used to support the Pursuit of Excellence Scholarship program. 🐾

Sponsor Spotlight

J Bar D Canvas & Leather

by Naomi Loomis,
WSRRA Association Representative

You know, the Western States Ranch Rodeo Association was formed in 2010 to promote and preserve these traditions through a sanctioned ranch rodeo association. Full time, part time/dayworking ranch cowboys and cowgirls, or anyone else who enjoys competing in ranch rodeo events are welcome! The American cowboy has been a worldwide icon since the early 1800s. Today the heritage, values, and traditions of the working ranch are still alive and well. Ranch cowboys are out there living the lifestyle – calving, branding, gathering and doctoring cattle keeping our ranching traditions alive.

One business is keeping traditions alive today and one that is one of our national sponsors; J Bar D Canvas and Leather works everyday for those who wish to continue western traditions. I sat down with Shane and Amy Riley the owners of J Bar D Canvas & Leather to talk about their business.

Their story:

“Shane originally had a Bedroll that his father gave to him many years ago, but in 2007 our shop burnt down, and we lost nearly everything including that Bedroll. Thereafter, he never got around to getting a new one either because he was too busy working on the mountain or shoeing horses for clients.

Fall of 2014, he was Buckarooing for a local ranch. It was October and all that was left on the hill were stray pairs that didn't come down with the rest of the herd. They had come to a creek crossing that was not very often travelled, the willow branches were hanging low and narrow but there was a large pointed tree branch that had

thousands of bedrolls and hundreds of gear bags and tips.” ]

fallen to belly height. Stepping out of the saddle, Shane went to move it out of the way. As he did so, Judge side stepped landing directly on Shane's foot.

The weight of Judge sent a wave of pain surging through Shane so intense that he passed out. When Shane came to, he was staring up at the shoofty of the cinch. In all the excitement Shane's ankle had gotten broke in at least 3 to 5 places.

Wearing boots was excruciatingly painful so getting back in the saddle was gonna take some time. Being laid up in the house drove him crazy restless and the worry of making it through the winter was increasing. After finishing all the odds and ends projects he kept telling me he was gonna do, he then started tapping into his creative side. One evening after the chores were all finished, and the fire was stoked he asked me if I would help him build a Bedroll just like the one, he had lost in the fire 7 years ago.

The next morning, we got in the pickup and drove the 67 miles to town to get 18 feet of canvas. When we got home, I got out my little Singer sewing machine and began building the Bedroll that started it all. Once it was finished, I said to Shane, “I bet we could sell this thing on Facebook”. Eleven minutes later it was sold. Then we did it again the next night. On the third night Shane said, “Why don't we go buy enough canvas for 3 Bedrolls. I think we will be able to sell 'em and it'll save on gas.” There in the kitchen our family brand J-D became J bar D Canvas and Leather.”

Shane and Amy live in Oreana, Idaho where they build their bed rolls, gear bags, tips and much more.

“We have built thousands of bedrolls and hundreds of gear bags and tips,” Amy says. Shane and Amy's business is built around their way to make those around them feel like a million bucks. They are fun-loving people, always smiling and having a good time.

Meet the Member Matt Cumbie

I've always just loved it," says team roper Matt Cumbie. "It's challenging for me and it's something that I look forward to every day. It relieves stress and gives me something to work at all the time, because I'll never be good enough for me." His efforts have put him fourth in the RMPRA heeler standings, however, while the 37-year-old from Tremonton, Utah, also competes on the PRCA Wilderness Circuit.

He started roping when he was 12, following after his dad and older brother in the sport. Matt grew up in the team roping capital of the world in Wickenburg, Arizona, heading and went to the NHSFR twice in the team roping. He then switched to heeling while college rodeoing for Cochise Community College in Arizona, and qualified twice for the CNFR. An all-around timed event cowboy through college, Matt also steer wrestled and tie-down roped, but focused solely on team roping after that.

"There was a guy named Vern Goodman who was very influential when I was a younger kid and kind of took me under his wing," says Matt. "I met him in Arizona when I was about 15, and every winter he would come back and we would rope together. About four years later when I graduated from high school, he asked if I would come up to Utah and work for him in the summer. I met my wife, Traci, and we started a family."

As a family man at 21, Matt didn't want to rodeo too far from home. He joined the Wilderness Circuit, having previously competed on the Turquoise Circuit, and he's qualified for both circuit finals over the years. Team roping header Thad Ward competes with Matt in all of the pro rodeos, as well as the RMPRA. "I've competed with the RMPRA on and off for the last six or seven years and gone to the finals," says Matt. "I like that they're enter twice rodeos, and they're a great affordable rodeo to go to. I can season horses at them and rope with more than one guy, and have a little fun there. The Ogden Winter Series is only 20 minutes from the house, and in the summer while we're going to pro rodeos, we can hit some RM rodeos along the way." His work as the general manager of an industrial cleaning company also requires some traveling, but gives him flexibility to rodeo as well. "I have an outstanding group of guys and they take good care of me."

Until recently, Matt roped off a sorrel gelding named Chile, but after his kids took Chile over as a calf horse, he started heeling off a former reining horse named Pendleton. "He knew very little team roping, and I just picked him up a year ago and he's already good. I've never been one to buy made roping horses." Matt's four sons, Keegan (14), Logan (13), Brannam (12), and Kasen (4), all love to ride, and the oldest three are rodeoing. Keegan junior high rodeos for Utah and qualified for the 2019 NJHFR in tie-down roping, ribbon roping, and team roping. "I'll have to sit out of about three or four rodeos while we're gone for Nationals, but my main priority is being a dad right now," says Matt. "There's no price I wouldn't pay to keep my family going in it. They just love it that much. It teaches my boys responsibility, and how to work hard and set goals."

One of Matt's personal rodeo goals is to maintain his rank as a #9 heeler. "But more importantly, I want to keep my kids going, and help them achieve their goals and provide good horses for them." 🐾

Meet the Member

Kade & Cole Dubois

stories by Riata Cummings

Cole and Kade Dubois are 14-year-old twins from Lehi, Utah. They just finished their eighth-grade year at Willow Creek Middle School, where they both enjoyed their exploring technology class which gave them the opportunity to explore some of the fun and interesting aspects of computer science. They have two older sisters, Emmalee and Amanda, and their parents are Justin and Ann Dubois. Together they enjoy traveling the state for high school and junior high school rodeos, as well as playing football.

Kade and Cole started rodeoing when they were 4 or 5-years-old, following in the footsteps of their parents, who rodeoed when they were in high school. Kade is a breakaway roper and Cole enjoys tie down roping. They also team rope together, Cole turning the steers and Kade picking up the heels. The boys practice whenever they can, usually alternating between team roping and roping calves.

Kade uses a sorrel horse named 'Lil' Man for the breakaway roping, and he heels on Buck, a smooth and consistent buckskin. Kade has qualified for the state finals every year of his Jr High career, and this year he is headed to state in the top 4 for breakaway roping. He set a goal to win the average in the team roping and to qualify for nationals in the breakaway roping. Cole uses a horse named Rocky, who they acquired early this year, to head for his brother, and his calf horse is Rocket, who stops hard and can be trusted to do his job. Cole has qualified for the National Little Britches Rodeo 3 different times, as well as qualifying for the Jr High state finals every year he has competed. This year he is in the top 4 of the tiedown roping standings, and set a goal to catch all his calves, take the average in the team roping, and make it to nationals.

Rodeo has taught Kade that, "Life is tough. You are always going to have rough moments, but you've got to keep going." Cole similarly remarked that, "Nothing is very easy. If you mess up you have to try again and again until you do it right." Kade's hero is Larry Fitzgerald, the wide receiver for the Arizona Cardinals' football team. Kade looks up to him for his talent on the field and his dedication to helping the less fortunate. Cole's hero is their father, Justin, whom he looks up to for being a hard worker, dedicated to his family. His dad taught him how to rope, and he is grateful for his father's example.

Kade lives by the saying, "If you get bucked off, you get right back on." The quote reminds him that, "You can't just give up when things get challenging, you have to keep doing it until it works out." His greatest strength is his ability to drive for the things he wants. Rodeo pushed him to develop that strength because bad runs are discouraging but, "you can never give up. I've learned that things will go better if you try harder." Cole's experience with rodeo has helped him develop his determination to succeed. After his first two seasons didn't go as well as he had hoped, he came back with tenacity and a goal. He lives by the Star Wars quote, "Do or do not—there is no try." The saying reminds him that, "If you are going to do something, you give it your all or not at all. There really should be no in-between."

Kade and Cole would like to thank their parents and family for giving them the opportunity to rodeo and the support to go after their goals. 🤠

Meet the Member Oaklee Giles

Oaklee Giles is a 14-year-old rodeo athlete from the quiet little town of Lakeshore, Utah. She is the daughter of Brandy and Shane Giles and has an older sister named Laynee. Together they enjoy going roping or competing at barrel races. Oaklee is an eighth grader at Spanish Fork Junior High School and her favorite classes include animal science, math and physical education.

"When I was 2-years-old I was riding on my own. I wouldn't let my mom get on with me, I had to do it myself." That independence is still a part of Oaklee's nature. After playing competitive softball for a few years, she decided that wasn't where her heart was. This year she became a member of the Utah Junior High School Rodeo Association and started competing in the barrel racing, team roping, goat tying, and breakaway roping. Oaklee favors the fast-paced barrel racing because she learned the craft from her mother and sister, and she has gained a love for the adrenaline-inducing event. She runs barrels on two horses; Road Runner and Loretta. She reminisced, "I had kind of lost all hope when both of them fell in my lap." Oaklee breakaways on an 8-year-old horse named Hilly. She uses Hank to head for Brett Milner in the team roping, and she uses him for the goat tying. Her favorite of the four would "have to be Hank. He has taught me more than I could have ever imagined, and he will do absolutely anything I ask him."

Oaklee qualified for the Utah Junior High

State Finals Rodeo in each of her events and has set a goal to qualify for the National High School Finals Rodeo during her high school rodeo career. Rodeo has allowed Oaklee to develop her sense of humor and helped her to come out of her shell. Since she started competing, she has made great friends and experienced many growing opportunities. Rodeo has also taught her to be patient with herself and humble in every circumstance. Oaklee has a quick-witted, sometimes sassy personality that keeps everyone around her on their toes. She loves making people laugh, and would like to be remembered as a kind, down to earth person with a good attitude. She would advise rodeo rookies to remember that, "It isn't going to be easy the first time, but if you keep moving forward and tying hard it will eventually come together for you."

Her heroes are her sister and her mother, who cheer her on and show her how to succeed. She looks up to her older sister who is always there to support her and keep her happy. She is thankful to her parents for giving her the opportunity to rodeo and would like to thank them for all their support. Finally, she would like to thank her Heavenly Father, who makes it all possible. 📖

Meet the Member Rylee Russell

14-year-old rodeo athlete from Avon, Utah, Rylee Russell has been competing in rodeo for almost five years. Rylee is the daughter of Ty and Celeste Russell and has two brothers, Ty and Kody. As a young girl, Rylee competed in the horse 4-H and in other horse shows. After some encouragement from some of their friends, her and her brothers decided to try something new by stepping into the world of rodeo.

Rylee just finished her 8th grade year of online schooling with the Connections Academy. She enjoyed her Utah History class because it taught her about the many cultures that shaped her home, and it challenged her to learn something every day. When Rylee isn't rodeoing, she enjoys spending time with her friends and delighting in the great outdoors.

Rylee competes in the breakaway roping, goat tying, team roping, pole bending, and ribbon roping. She team ropes as a header for Cooper Jacobs, but her favorite events are breakaway roping and goat tying when the pressure is all on her. The horse that she uses for goat tying and breakaway roping is named Soda Pop, her head horse is Jack, and she borrows Lexi, a friend's horse, for the pole bending. During Rylee's 6th grade year, she finished 11th in the breakaway roping and competed at the Silver State International Rodeo. Last year she finished 4th and went on to compete at the National Junior High School Finals Rodeo. This year she is hoping to make it back to nationals, this time in more than one event.

Rodeo has taught Rylee that, "You cannot just show up and do well. It takes practice, hard work, and dedication." She has learned the value of persistence and the importance of patience. When she began to prepare to compete, she was frustrated with her lack of knowledge and skill. After friends and family helped her learn the ropes and acquire the right horses, she gained an immense love for the sport. She said, "Most people don't know this, but before they meet me, I am super shy. Rodeo helps me because there are so many good people and interacting with them has helped me come out of my shy zone and meet friends." Rylee lives by the saying, "Perfect practice brings perfect results," because, "You must practice it the right way for it to end up the right way." She knows that it takes accurate and consistent effort to make progress towards a goal.

Rylee's friends and family would describe her as a kind, loving girl who is willing to help those around her. One day, she would like to be remembered as a humble, hardworking person who went out of her way to be kind and helpful. Rylee's parents are her heroes, and she is grateful for their efforts to teach her how to push for success. She would like to thank her parents, grandparents, and other family for their constant support as she travels down the rodeo road. 📖

WHO'S GOT YOUR POWER?

article by Crystal Lyons

Humans are created by God with an extreme amount of power resident on the inside of them. In all reality, we are more "super human" than we think. We are the ONLY creature on the planet that possesses the "fingerprint" of God within our being. It is written of our genesis, that God said "let US make man in OUR image and in OUR likeness". And then to top that off, it's recorded that He BREATHED of Himself into our frame!

So, what exactly does this mean? God is the Creator, therefore WE are creative. We are little creators going through life framing our existence and leaving a wake of effects (good or bad) behind us, in everything we do. It goes far deeper and greater than this but let me just say that from the very beginning of time, mankind has been in the crosshairs of Satan and the curiosity of every angelic being. Believe this to be true or not, hear me out.

God warned Adam, that an enemy was lurking, looking for an open door into this planet to disrupt it's perfection. The responsibility of the total direction of earth was laid on mankind's shoulders. How's that for authority? Satan was clever enough not to try pulling off a frontal assault on Adam, but in Adam's presence, he started messing with Eve's mind. He began twisting truth, implanting doubts & slandering God's character. Why Adam stood there and allowed this charade to continue is beyond me but sadly, he did. As a result, Adam and Eve both committed high treason & opened wide the door for the invasion of everything hellish into the earth. THAT'S how much authority you and I have!

But God was NOT surprised by this treasonous act. Before He ever created the earth and mankind, He saw this coming and prepared for it. The Bible tells us that Jesus was "the Lamb slain BEFORE the foundation of the earth". And we as believers in Jesus think that the price Jesus paid was simply to get our sins forgiven and allow us to go to heaven when we die? That would actually be a HUGE FAILURE by God if that was true! Before Jesus ascended into heaven He made this incredible statement: "ALL power has been given unto Me." If Jesus has

ALL power, then obviously Satan has been stripped of his and therefore has NONE. Sooooo.....where is Satan getting his power to continue wrecking havoc in the earth? From humans! We have GREAT POWER. The issue is.....who's accessing it?

Just as Satan siphoned off of Eve's authority in the earth by twisting her thoughts to align with his, so he continues to do so with every human on the planet, saved or unsaved, if he's allowed to. Amos 3:3 says basically, "how can two walk together except they be agreed". Who are you agreeing with? THAT'S THE ISSUE. If I meditate on fear, I am giving Satan my power. If I hold bitterness in my heart, Satan is empowered by MY WILL, to not let it go and forgive. Who's got your power? By harboring negative thoughts and emotions, I am agreeing with Satan and allowing him to steal power from me making me weak. If I submit my thoughts, emotions and actions to the will of the Lord, He multiplies my strength. All through the Word of God it states how God GIVES POWER. Satan has NONE so he must steal off of ours! Who's got your power? Answer that correctly and you'll know the direction that your creative force in life is heading! 🏇

Kadin Babb

story by Lindsay King

“It’s a winner takes all sport, which definitely makes you humble,” said Kadin Babb. “Every rodeo solidifies that, win or lose. The glory always goes to God and the thanks goes to everybody that helped you. Without all the support, this sport would not be possible.” This wise-beyond his 16 years Hobbs, New Mexico, cowboy spent many summers in Texas with his grandparents on his mom’s side. “They took me to all the team roping jackpots they would rope in and I was hooked instantly. Watching them compete really drew me in. Every summer I would rope and ride with my grandparents, until the sport meant enough to me that I wanted to really get started.”

At 9 years old, Kadin got the first horse he ever kept at the family home in Hobbs. “I started roping calves because the people we hung around were big into it. They helped me find a horse I would be competitive on when I first started.” Kadin’s mom Sheila grew up in rodeo, but his dad Kody did not. “My parents have always kept me mounted well and driven me wherever I needed to go to practice or compete. They are a huge support system and I would not be able to do this without them.” The last part of that support comes from Kadin’s 13-year-old brother Kutter.

Both Kadin and Kutter got into rodeo the same way. Kutter heads for Kadin at some rodeos. “It’s a bonding experience for sure. Winning together makes us close, but losing together makes us even closer. Not many people can work as a team of two to stop the clock and then go home with that person and be a family.” The stiff competition of the NMHSRA has established a work ethic comparable to none in Kadin. “I like competing against the toughest kids in the state. It shows you what you are capable of. Everybody is there for each other at the rodeos and I like to be there for them too. Everybody in rodeo is basically family, there is no other sport with such good-hearted people as there are in rodeo.”

One member of that extended family sticks out when Kadin thinks of how he got to where he is in rodeo today – Kelsey Able. “When we first started, he was one of the guys that helped me find a competitive horse. He lets me come practice and taught me most of what I know about calf roping. He makes me work hard at it and is always there when I need him.” Kadin also heels, but easily chooses chasing a calf over reaching for two feet. “Calf roping is all about you and your horse. You don’t have to rely on anybody else to stop the clock. Although, it isn’t just a one-man event, you have to work well with your horse too.”

After leading the state in calf roping, Kadin took a few bad shots and acquired no times at the last few rodeos. He finished the year fifth in the state in the calf roping after going back to the basics. “I just wanted to get a rope around a neck every time and stop the clock. I didn’t want to just show up at a rodeo, I wanted to be competitive.” As an eighth grader, Kadin took fourth in the breakaway roping at state for a trip to nationals. “Even though I did not do well at nationals, I held my head up just knowing that I competed against some of the best kids in the country. That is what is so unique about this sport, you have to be humble to be successful.” In that spirit of humility, the homeschooled junior gives all the credit for his past success to everyone that has had a hand in molding him as a competitor. “This sport is a blessing and not many people can comprehend the things rodeo will do for you. You pour yourself into the sport and it teaches you life lessons. I think that is one of the main reasons why people compete.”

Meet the Member Jordyn Wamel

story by Lindsay King

Blazing through the poles at a blistering 21.3 seconds is Jordyn Wamel in her favorite rodeo event. The seventh grade NMJHSRA competitor from Las Cruces, New Mexico, also runs barrels, ties goats and snatches ribbons. As soon as Jordyn starts weaving through the poles, she is at home. "I get kind of nervous barreling down the arena because I am worried about hitting a pole. As soon as I make the first turn I feel great though," said the 12-year-old. She is disappointed that her pole career will end after high school, but is looking forward to competing in college rodeo one day like her 18-year-old sister Jayde.

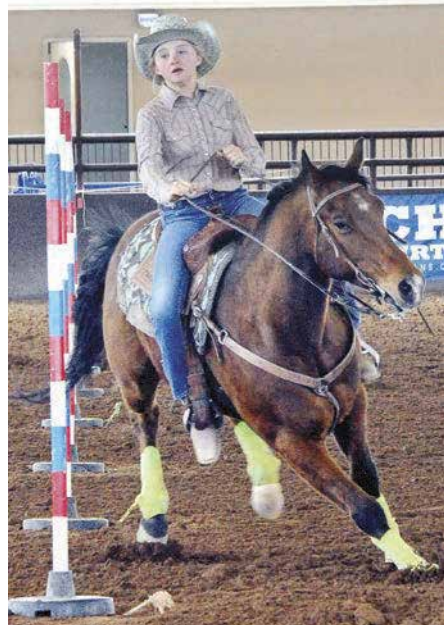

"My sister runs barrels in college. She used to help me practice a lot before she started college last fall. We used to spend a lot of time together, but she is really busy with school now. My parents (Susan and Van) give me a lot of tips when I practice though." It wasn't until Jayde got into high school rodeo that the Wamel family found out about junior high rodeo. Jordyn is the first in her family to compete in the NMJHSRA. Previously, they competed almost exclusively in 4-H. It's how they got their start in rodeo essentially. "I am considered a novice in 4-H rodeo, so I get to do an extra event: flags. Basically, there is a barrel in the middle of the arena with a flag on it that I have to grab." Since the junior high season doesn't start until the spring, Jordyn keeps her skills sharp by going to as many 4-H rodeos as she can in the summer and fall. Last year, Jordyn won the all-around title at the Las Cruces 4-H rodeo.

To keep her horses in shape, Jordyn

long trots them on the sand dunes near her house. The conditioning paid off when Jordyn took fourth in the poles in the year-end standing, sending her to nationals. Her goal was to make it in the barrels, but fell short this year. Jordyn really enjoys the team aspect of ribbon roping with her partner, Grayden Johnson. "I am not so good at the roping, so I am the runner. I am actually pretty fast. I like getting to work together with someone." This is Jordyn's first year competing in the event. Both Jordyn and her horse Forest are fast runners and rightfully so. "Forest is the only horse I have to compete on, so I am still working with him on some of the events. I named him Forest after the movie Forest Gump because he is pretty fast."

Jordyn competes in 4-H rodeo and exhibits various animals through her 4-H club called The Hillbillies. "I am showing dairy cattle this year for the first time, but I showed goats last year. I am also taking chickens and turkeys to the fair this summer." If Jordyn wasn't busy enough, she is going to play volleyball at Zia Middle School next fall for the first time. "I have played before, but I just ended up practicing with the team during school hours this year. I think it is fun and challenging. I am looking forward to hanging out with my friends that are also in it."

As Jordyn fulfills her goal of competing at junior high nationals, she is also looking forward to one day competing at the college finals. While Jordyn is in college rodeo, she wants to work towards a nursing degree. "It is interesting to me to learn about all that your body can do." The idea to become a nurse came from a friend of Jayde's who is currently working towards that career. The love and support Jordyn receives from her sister, parents and grandparents keeps her working hard towards these lofty goals each and every day. 📺

Meet the Member Lance Tolbert

story by Lindsay King

For the last thirty years, steer wrestling has been an extension of the person that Lance Tolbert is and ever wanted to be. As he approaches half a century, his knees are protesting his passion. "I have avoided injury for most of my career until now. The hardest part of rodeo is staying healthy, but as I have gotten older it gets so much harder. Especially in the steer wrestling. Now that I might have to retire from it, I feel like I am losing a piece of my life. It has taken a lot of soul searching to come to this decision, it is probably one of the hardest things I have had to do in my life," said the Belen, New Mexico, native.

Lance's dad rode bucking horses and was a steer wrestler while his mom team roped and ran barrels. When Lance was only eight years old, he started riding steers and then transitioned to junior bulls at 12. The very next year, Lance began steer wrestling. "I roped in high school a little and on the ranch some, but not very competitively. I am getting back into heading now, I tried calf roping but never got a craving for it." As an all-around competitor, Lance also rode bulls and saddle broncs. That is until he broke his leg. "I was about 19 when I broke my leg pretty bad. I got on about four more bulls after that until I decided I didn't want to do it anymore. I rode bucking horses until I was about 28 though."

With two older sisters, Lance's life has always revolved round New Mexico rodeo. Both of his parents (Gary and Sharon) served on the NMHSRA board while he was growing up. The tradition of rodeo and giving back continued with Lance. "Once I was an adult I got on the NMRA board. I have never really known anything else. It is very time consuming, but it is also rewarding." Lance first served as the steer wrestling director for six years before becoming president of the NMRA for four years. He is now back as the steer wrestling director for the next two years.

After several successful years of high school rodeo that took Lance to nationals, he ventured onto the PRCA circuit. "I did that for a few years, but then I got a family and focused on the amateur rodeos." He's actually managed to win some of the biggest rodeos the NMRA has to offer: Durango and Gallup. "Winning Durango in 2015 was a big deal for me. There were 52 steer wrestlers there and I beat all of them in just 4.1 seconds. It was amazing to go to a rodeo like that and beat that many guys." Even though Lance knows his knees aren't what they used to be, he is hoping to finish out the season and maybe even compete again next year in the steer wrestling. "I am planning to go to a lot of the bigger rodeos this year. I just want to do a good job as a director to keep my contestants happy and make sure I can get through one more year before I have to give steer wrestling up completely."

At a NMRA event it is not uncommon to see a 12-year-old competing against their grandparents. "I have grown up with these people and rodeoed with them and now their kids and grandkids are in it. This is what I have always loved about the NMRA, it is a very diverse and family-oriented organization." Back in the 60s, the NMRA was the Southwest Rodeo Association. Lance's dad was on the board when they changed the name. "My mom still shows horses and my dad has rodeoed his entire life. They have both been a huge inspiration for me and my sisters. My wife (Donna) has been excellent support as well. She runs barrels and hazes for me but also runs a therapeutic riding center, so she is an amazing person." 🐾

Meet the Member Hegan Burton

Hegan Burton is the third generation of his family to compete in the AJRA. A native of Sweetwater, Texas—home of the AJRA NFR—Hegan finished his fourth season in the AJRA last summer by winning the all-around and pole bending in the 8 and Under division. He was also reserve champion in the calf riding, and finished in the top five in the goat tying and breakaway roping. “I won two saddles, four or five buckles, and two halters,” says Hegan. “I keep the saddles nice in the house, and we have a big buckle case and we switch them around a lot.”

Now 9 years old, Hegan is competing in the 9–12 division in tie-down roping, breakaway roping, double mugging, and ribbon roping. He also hopes to continue riding roughstock as he gets older. “My family helps me out a lot and they really inspire me to do it,” says Hegan. “I have good friends in it, and I like getting better and working at it.” Hegan’s 11-year-old brother, Hondo, also competes in the AJRA in the same events as Hegan. “They get competitive with each other, but they’re also each other’s number one fan,” says their mom, Ashley Burton.

The brothers practice together often, and their 4-year-old sister, Hattie Jo, also enjoys riding. “Hondo helps me with my swing in calf roping, and we practice together in team roping,” says Hegan, whose main goal is to improve in heading, while Hondo loves to heel. Their dad, William Burton, rode bareback horses in the AJRA and is a team roper now, and their grandparents also support them and come watch many of their rodeos. Hegan’s grandpa Leonard Neatherlin rode bulls in the AJRA and continues to team rope, and he came to every one of Hegan’s rodeos last summer to help him with the calf riding. “We’d like to thank all the people who help us and are positive role models for Hegan and his brother and sister,” says Ashley.

Along with the AJRA, Hegan competes in the West Texas Rodeo Association, High Plains Rodeo Association, and the Texas Junior High Rodeo Association in the Region 2 Youth Division. Last year, Hegan also won his district in the beginner roping of the Original Team Roping Finals, while he won several saddles in pole bending and barrel racing on his horse Shorty. He also heads off of a gelding named Louie and ribbon ropes off of Lil Ears. “He has a big personality for a little horse. He’ll eat anything you give him,” Hegan explains. “The strangest thing he’s eaten is probably Lays potato chips or Fruit Loops.” Hegan also rides his horses to work on his family’s ranch. They raise Corriente, and Hegan particularly enjoys checking cattle and branding season.

He will be a fourth-grader this fall at Blackwell Elementary this fall, and along with rodeo, Hegan enjoys playing basketball and flag football. “He’s always smiling and ready to go with the flow,” says Ashley. “He always finds something positive.” Hegan plans to spend his summer break rodeoing, going to jackpots, and fishing at the lake with his grandparents. “We have catfish and carp. My grandparents save all their fish from the summer and at the end of the summer we have a big fish fry.

[ “My family helps me out a lot and they really inspire me to do it,” ]

His goal is to improve in all his events this season, particularly team roping. This year, Hegan finished in the top five in the TJHRA Region 2 Youth Division of team roping, and he has his eye on winning an AJRA team roping saddle in the future. 🏆

THE FUN IS BACK

Meet the Member Trey Blackmore

story by Lily Weinacht

Trey Blackmore of Hillside, Arizona, took home his first GCPRA title last year when he won the heading in the open team roping. His scoring also gave his friend and team roping partner Tom Bill Johnson the chance to win the open in the heeling. “I switch around partners quite a bit, but Tom Bill lives ten minutes from us, and if there’s ever a chance to enter twice, we rope together,” says Trey, 24. “His partner had a hunting trip the week of the Grand Canyon Finals, and that’s how I got to rope with him. I made the Finals the year before and went second in the average, and this last year we actually went in leading it and it worked out good.”

The third generation of his family to team rope, Trey looks up to his dad, David Blackmore, and grandpa, Terry Blackmore, as well as Tom Bill Johnson. “My dad and grandpa have always been willing to work with me, and we have a great horse program at the ranch. I’ve hardly had to buy a horse and that’s helped me a bunch. Tom Bill took me under his wing, and he’s one of my best friends. He’s helped my roping so much and been there from the beginning, so that was neat to win it with him,” says Trey. “My grandparents, Shelly and Terry, own the ranch and I work for them. They’re awesome. And if I was going to thank somebody, it would be my mom, Crystal. She takes a little too good care of me.”

Trey college rodeoed for three years, competing for Mesalands Community College, then transferring to Central Arizona College. He grew up primarily roping in jackpots, then high school rodeoed his junior and senior year of high school, adding tie-down roping and bronc riding to his resume, and qualifying for the NHS-FR twice in team roping. “Team roping is my main priority. I’ve always been a little bit better at it, and it’s an event I can do with my little sisters and the whole family can be more involved,” says Trey, who has also competed in the World Series Finale the last four years. “It’s become a part of my life, and the other part is that I’m super competitive. It’s a great industry to be in, and after traveling around so much, I’ve learned that you just find good people in the industry everywhere.”

Trey also competes in the PRCA on both the Turquoise Circuit and farther afield. He and heeler Wyatt Hansen made The American Semi-Finals this winter and also made the April run together in California. “I didn’t score very good and I missed a couple, but that’s part of the fun of it. If you won all the time it would be boring.” Trey won Rookie of the Year on the Turquoise Circuit in 2017, while he’s in the top 10 of the GCPRA open team roping heading standings. “They’re my favorite amateur association—there’s always good steers and they’re really good to work with,” says Trey. “My girlfriend, Cheyenne Sherwood, breakaway ropes in the GCPRA and heels for me in the incentive, and in the pro rodeos we don’t get to do that.”

Cheyenne also helps Trey with his family’s horse program, which Trey wants to build on performance horses. She starts them on barrels and breakaway, and Trey rides colts and starts them on team roping. His main rope horse, Homer, is out of the Blackmore’s stud, who was a Dash To Cash-bred horse out of a Driftwood mare. “The biggest key to my success is having him. He’s the very first horse I started as a 2-year-old and now he’s 13.” Trey’s other rope horse is Little Joe, a tough little bay horse Trey took over for his uncle several years ago. Little Joe carried Trey through the 2018 GCPRA Finals—his first big rodeo—when Homer got sick that weekend.

“I’m going to make the (NFR) finals, and I want to try and get the horse program going,” Trey finishes. “I feel like with the horses we’ve got, we can turn it into something pretty dang successful.”

Meet the Member Brenda Martin

story by Lindsay King

Brenda Martin's first rodeo back as an adult was in 2004 and she hauled a barrel horse in a feed truck hooked to a stock trailer. "I married Johnie in 1980 and we started a family soon after that. Both of my girls rodeoed for a bit so I still got to ride and help them. When they quit competing, it was about six years before I got on a horse again," said the long-time Hartshorne, Oklahoma, native. When Brenda was in the third grade, her family moved to the small Oklahoma town and that first horse was purchased. "My cousin was riding, so when we lived at a place where we could keep one I got a horse too." It wasn't until junior high when Brenda got a "good horse" that she was able to compete in the IPRA (known as the IRA at the time). In the late 70s and early 80s, Brenda qualified for the IRA finals five times in barrels.

An older mare left over from high school rodeo carried Brenda through her first year of amateur rodeo and to the CRRA finals in the 21st century. A colt out of that mare kept Brenda busy with futurities for a few years before finding her long-time barrel partner. "My oldest daughter bought a horse and bred her and I bought the colt (Disco). We just click, he makes it easy. I have taken my time with him over the years." An injury three rodeos into the 2016 season sidelined Brenda and Disco. "My vet didn't think he would ever come back from it, but we have taken things slow." Thanks to Brenda's patience with Disco's recovery, they had a quick rise to the top in the 2018 season. Brenda qualified for both the CRRA and ACRA finals. If it wasn't for a tipped barrel in the first round, Brenda would have taken home the average at the ACRA finals last year.

She still managed to win one round and take second in another.

Since the very beginning, Brenda has been a self-made barrel racer. "The first horse I got was an off-the-track four-year-old that didn't know anything. I did all the riding, but my dad gave me pointers. He knew a lot of trainers that could give us tips and from there it was all trial and error." That was the horse Brenda made several trips to the IFR on. "I have tried to ride one someone else has trained and I have not had a lot of luck with that." Sadly, Brenda's dad passed away her senior year of high school. "He got me into it and helped me. My parents sacrificed everything for me to rodeo." Brenda's husband has provided the same strong support system for her and their daughters over the years.

It started with a love for horses, but has continued because of an unyielding competitive spirit. "It has always been barrels for me. When I first started we did poles and other things. I have always wished I would have learned to breakaway rope, but I think it is too late to start now." There is a calf roper in the family though: Brenda's oldest grandson. "He has started roping calves, so it (rodeo) is something we can do together. He is here a lot to ride and rope, we exercise horses together. I am really enjoying spending time with him every day after school."

A teacher for the last 31 years, Brenda has spent the last 14 of those at Jones Academy. She teaches the fourth grade at the Native American boarding school in her hometown. Most ACRA rodeos are close to the house Brenda grew up in and now resides at with Johnie. With the bar set high from last year, Brenda is looking to make another trip to the ACRA finals and end a little higher in the average. "I have to take care of my horse first, so I won't push him too hard or go to many rodeos. We will just try to qualify for finals and the rest usually kind of takes care of itself." 🐾

Meet the Member Saylor Smethers

Saylor Smethers of Henryetta, Oklahoma, and her horse Breeze won the senior barrel racing at the KK Run for Vegas qualifier in Topeka, Kansas, this April. A 15.8 secured her second trip to the Junior World Finals, while the qualifier was the 16-year-old's first big race since a barrel racing accident sidelined her in September of 2018. Two days before her birthday, she and Breeze were running barrels at a local race and Breeze stumbled around the third barrel, falling head first. When he stood up, Saylor's foot caught in the stirrup and Breeze accidentally stepped on her head, breaking her jaw in two places. Two plates and eight screws helped repair the damage, and Saylor went home from the hospital five days later. "I had my jaw wired shut for six weeks, and as soon as I got my wires off I went back to riding again and eased back into it," says Saylor. "The first time I ran I was a little nervous, but I just gave it all to God and He's got it."

Her win in Topeka made the comeback trail all the sweeter, and Saylor is already working on her game plan for the Junior World Finals. "We'll definitely take a lot of breaks while traveling there and I use MVP Gastro-Plex because he goes off his feed when he travels. I work for a vet, and he gets Breeze all ready before we go. Last time he got a little bit hot, and he's not used to warming up in the arena, so I might try warming him up before I go down to the arena. It's nerve wracking, and there are so many tough girls there, but I have the mindset that I've done this before and it's fun," says Saylor. "Kelly (Kaminski) does so good and makes sure everything is going smoothly, especially at Vegas. When I went last time we were treated like royalty."

Along with KKP, Saylor is a member of the Oklahoma High School Rodeo Association. She used to do goat tying and pole bending as well, but prefers focusing on barrel racing these days. "Barrels have always been my favorite. It's challenging overall and good competition." Since she missed the majority of the 2018/2019 season recovering from her accident, she's excited to start a new high school season this fall. Saylor started riding when she was 6 after her step-dad, Jerrod Blanchett, introduced her to horses, and she began rodeoing a year later. "My step-dad and my mom (Stacey Blanchett) take me everywhere, and I'm so thankful for them, and the vet that I work with, Shan Collett at Collett Veterinary Services, helps me a lot too." Her dad and stepmom, Jimmy and Kristin Smethers, come to some of her rodeos as well.

Along with Breeze, Saylor's 10-year-old barrel horse, she owns his brother, a yearling she simply calls Brother and plans to train on barrels. She's owned Breeze for four years now. "He's by Smart Little Traveler and I've known him since he was a baby—I know the person that raised him, Stephanie Rolland, and the girl that trained him, Eden Ward."

Switching to online school several years ago gave Saylor more flexibility in her schedule for her horses and rodeo, while she earns school credits for working with her vet. She's helped with everything from surgery to breeding, and plans to pursue veterinary school. Saylor also enjoys serving in her church, along with oil painting, and playing guitar and ukulele for her family.

"Hopefully when I turn 18 I can try to go to the NFR, and I mostly want to get Brother going because I feel like he's going to be something," she finishes. "I'd like to qualify for High School Nationals, and hopefully do good in Vegas this year." 🐾

Meet the Member Sydney Bottom

story by Lindsay King

The best advice I have been given is rodeo does not define you, it is just something that you do," said Sydney Bottom from Cheyenne, Oklahoma. This advice has advanced Sydney's mental game considerably. However, rodeo is still what Sydney spends a majority of her time doing. "I got involved with rodeo when I was probably four, but what I remember most is always riding in the front of the saddle with my dad (Brad) wherever we went." Also occupying Sydney's time is livestock judging with the Cheyenne High School FFA, church activities and playing the tuba in band at school. As a recent graduate, Sydney is bound for Western Oklahoma State College to continue her rodeo career while majoring in agricultural communications this fall.

"My goal in college is to make the CNFR in the barrels. I will also tie goats, it is the event I spend the most time perfecting. It is the event that challenges me." Coming into her senior year, Sydney decided to focus on "keeping every goat down" and making each run the best it could be. Her barrel goals on the other hand, were a bit loftier. "My short-term goal for each rodeo was to place and be consistent. I have managed to place deep in nearly every rodeo this year." If Sydney keeps up the consistency going into state finals, nationals could be a reality for the second time.

"Winning reserve at nationals as an eighth grader in the goat tying was incredible. I worked so hard for that and it wasn't something I expected going into the week." Philli Black changed the game for Sydney and her goat tying. She gets a majority of the credit for the big win at nationals. Sydney's parents (Brad and Kara Bottom) and family friend Lana Merick get the rest of the credit for their role in the making of this rodeo career. "I would not have accomplished anything without all of their help." Twenty eighteen was a big year for Sydney, she finished third in the barrels at state for another shot at nationals while also taking fourth at both the Patriot and the AQHA world show.

About two years ago Sydney had switch up both of her mounts because of injuries. "I bought Ricochet from Kelsey Knight and we have a bond that I have never had with any other horse. He has a great attitude and we have accomplished a lot together." At the same time, Sydney was searching for a goat horse. "Getting off is one thing I struggle with the most and finding a horse I could do that confidently on was tough. I went through a lot of horses and the first time I stepped off Hollywood, I knew he was it." Luckily, Sydney's sister Sealey, 14, is really good at the goat tying dismount. "She helps me with that and I help her with the ground work. Watching my sister compete is so much fun. We are very competitive and want the best for each other."

Heading into the summer run, Sydnee is excited for her last state finals rodeo. "The atmosphere around that rodeo is what makes it fun. I really like the pressure of it too, I always know what I have to do to place well." She's especially thankful for the lifelong friends the OHSRA has provided. "I love the people that I compete against. Most of my best friends have come from competing in rodeo." Friends and life lessons are just a couple of things Sydnee will walk away with at the end of the season. "Rodeo taught me to never give up. I have gotten in slumps where I thought I would never bounce back. A lot of it was my mental game. Now my mental game is everything to me. I just try to focus on what I can do and not what everyone else has already done in the arena." 📷

Meet the Committee Fairview Wrangler Rodeo

story by Michele Toberer

On July 27 and 28, The Fairview Wranglers will host a rodeo in the L.L. Morrison Arena for the 55th consecutive year. Several of the families involved in the Fairview Wrangler Rodeo Club have not only grown up as active participants in the club and rodeo, but also have parents and grandparents that were founding members. Brad Morrison is the grandson of Lester Lonzo Morrison, whom the Fairview Wranglers named the arena in honor of his memory. "My grandpa was a rancher and was one of the men that started the rodeo 55 years ago to promote the sport of rodeo in our hometown." The small farming community of Fairview sits between Enid and Woodward, Oklahoma, and the approximately 5,000 residents are still just as proud of the annual event that brings rodeo action to approximately 2,500 spectators on the last weekend of each July.

The rodeo has been sanctioned by other rodeo associations, as well as being an open rodeo for several years, but the Fairview Wranglers are excited about their collaboration with the Kansas Professional Rodeo Association for the first time this year. "Everyone with the KPRA has been extremely helpful and they have great contractors to work with. We are excited about the number and quality of contestants the KPRA is going to bring to our rodeo this year. We are using KPRA stock contractor, Justin Russell, and he has been fantastic to work with, he's a super helpful, super nice guy." Brad is appreciative of Justin and the fact that he handles all aspects of the rodeo, as over the years the numbers of the Fairview Wranglers fluctuates, so their resources for staffing important areas of the rodeo are often small.

Being Lonnie Morrison's grandson, participating in the rodeo each year was, and still is a regular occurrence. Brad and his sister Jessica Walker both helped along with their dad, Jim Morrison, stepmom, Kathie Morrison, and Jessica's son, Forest Beall. Currently, Forest is the acting president of the Wranglers. Brad and his wife Sandra are also carrying on the family tradition. Sandra helps with production of the rodeos and competes as a barrel racer; and their two daughters, Emma, 15, and Stormi, 10, are being raised as a part of the rodeo their great-grandparents Lonnie and Georgia, envisioned so many years ago. Emma was the Fairview Wrangler Rodeo Princess in 2011, and Stormi was the 2018 Fairview Wrangler Rodeo princess and will be passing on her crown at this year's rodeo. "The Thursday before the rodeo starts, we kick things off in the morning with a pet parade for the kids, and they love parading their pets and riding their decorated bicycles and tricycles down Main Street. Then, we start the rodeo queen contest Thursday evening. The rodeo starts at 8 p.m. on Friday, and we crown the new queen and princess during the rodeo. On Saturday morning we have a parade starting at 10 a.m., and we usually have local round-up clubs and many community members ride in the parade, as well as motorcycle clubs riding through town."

Another family that has had the same longstanding commitment to the Fairview Wranglers and the rodeo is the Hubble family; Wayne and Tammy Hubble are both very involved in putting the rodeo on every year. Wayne's parents, Claire and Ella Rena, worked alongside Lonnie and Georgia to get the town tradition started. Wayne competed as bulldogger for many years. Their daughters, Brittany Goodin and Danielle Hubble are also members of the Fairview Wranglers and are a part of the next generation of rodeo supporters.

Brad and Sandra work in the oil industry with their business, Morrison Pumping, and they also raise cattle and horses. Brad and his dad Jim would frequently compete at the Fairview Wrangler rodeos as team ropers before Jim retired, and Brad still does team rope occasionally. "Our whole family has been involved in this, and I'm glad to have my kids as a part of it now. There's not a lot that goes on around here, so looking forward to the Fairview Wrangler Rodeo each year is a pretty big deal." 🍷

Meet the Member Caitlyn Comfort

Elwood, Nebraska, native Caitlyn Comfort achieved her goal of competing in the short go in breakaway roping at state finals this spring. The 18-year-old also competed in team roping with heeler Avery Brown. “I think the competitiveness of it all plays a big part in it,” she says of her drive to rodeo. “I’m a competitive person. And I like being able to see all the friends that you make throughout the rodeo season, and wanting to see them because you don’t get to on a regular basis.”

Caitlyn’s friends encourage her, as well as her brother, Chandler, 21, who competed in the KHSRA, and now team ropes for Black Hills State University and in several rodeo associations. “He’s helped me push myself,” says Caitlyn. She enters rodeos with Chandler, including the NSRA and KPRA. In 2017, they won the year-end saddle in the Nebraska Team Roping Association. Caitlyn also does the Young Guns Timed Event Rodeos in the winter, and she and her dad and brother enter USTRC and WSTR ropings throughout the summer. Her dad, Greg Comfort, team roped through college, and her mom, Danita Comfort, is the family videographer. They all haul to rodeos together, and Caitlyn always enjoys the KHSRA state finals. “I like the extra competitiveness and the venue. They have a good arena.”

She enjoys both her events equally, but chose to focus more on breakaway this year. “I like the adrenaline rush, and how tough it is and how competitive everybody is. In team roping, it’s kind of challenging to get a good start and go out and make a smooth run every weekend.” Weather permitting, she rides every day and ropes the dummy, then hauls to a nearby arena when she wants to rope live cattle.

Her horsepower includes her 14-year-old breakaway horse, Bugs, and her 20-year-old head horse, Chex. “They’re fun to ride,” says Caitlyn. “My brother comes out and ropes with me, and my dad does too.” The Comfort family makes their home several miles outside of Elwood, and Caitlyn likes having quiet roads to ride her horses on when they need a change of scenery.

A recent graduate from Elwood Public School, she enjoyed her weights and conditioning class, which carried over to rodeo. “It’s helped me with my upper body and being able to have power behind my swing,” she explains. “It was pretty busy, but I stayed on top of my schoolwork and everything really well this year.” Caitlyn also played basketball for the Elwood Pirates and was the manager of the track team. “I wrote down times and made sure kids do what the coaches ask of them and got in full workouts. I also wrote down their goals and times for meets and traveled with them.”

and relaxing before the next rodeo. She’s rodeoing throughout Kansas and Nebraska this summer, and attending Mid-Plains Community College in McCook, Nebraska, this fall on a rodeo scholarship. “I’m going to get my Associate of Science, and I hope to go to vet school. I’ve worked with several vets when my own horses were hurt, and being able to help them makes me feel better,” she says. “My goal for the next years to come will be competing to my best ability throughout the college season, making the college finals, and staying on top of my grades and school work.”

Meet the Member Kent Berkenmeier

Kent Berkenmeier qualified for the 2019 NJHFR in three of his five events at the KJHSRA state finals in May. The 14-year-old is representing his home town of Maple Hill, Kansas, in Huron, South Dakota, competing in chute dogging, steer riding, and team roping with Lily Henderson. “I like the pressure,” Kent says of state finals, where he also competed in ribbon roping and tie-down roping. “I just like the push you have to have to get through, and being mentally tough and staying focused and out of your head. We have good competition in Kansas.” He finds the steer riding an easy event, but says team roping is the most fun. “I’ve got a good partner. She’s really good and we always make a nice run to go out there (to Nationals). Last year we were ranked top ten in the nation, and that makes it nice to go through the year knowing you’re ranked in the nation.”

Kent followed in his dad, Jason Berkenmeier’s, bootprints. Jason ranched and rodeoed, then introduced Kent to sheep riding, followed by steer riding until Kent started roping. “I needed the all-around points so I got back into steer riding. It’s just fun going around, and I like the competitive edge of it. I like to be around livestock, and practicing, because I get to ride my colts and train them. And I like to be in that practice pen environment with my dad and step-dad (Troy Callaway), or my roping partner,” says Kent. “I definitely look up to my dad and step-dad for getting me started, and my roping partner’s dad (Dirk Henderson) for letting me come over and practice with them all the time.”

He also travels with Lily Henderson’s

family occasionally, but hauls to most rodeos with his step-dad and mom, Karen Callaway, and his 16-year-old brother, Lane Berkenmeier. Lane rides bulls and steer wrestles in the KHSRA. They also have a step-brother, Cadon Callaway, who just graduated high school, and a younger brother and sister, Cody and Bennett.

“After junior high I’ll definitely do high school rodeo, and I go to the URAs in the summer,” says Kent. “We have about 30 rodeos this summer, mostly URAs, and I do US ropings and jackpots. This fall I’ll start steer wrestling and I’ll calf rope.” He’s also training his colts for rodeo. “What I’d really like them to do is be heel horses because we have some cowy horses that can sit real deep. But I like to have a horse that I can do everything on. Jecca is my main horse—she’s the all-around horse and I can do seven events off of her. Boo is my colt, and I heel off of her and started breakaway roping on her.”

Kent will be a freshman this fall at Wabaunsee High School, and enjoys playing football, basketball, and running track. He also likes math and science, but is enjoying summer break. “Our family goes around to rodeos, and if we have free time, we’re probably out riding horses or roping. My mom doesn’t compete but she trains horses. She’s trained a lot of my horses and she has way more patience than all of us,” says Kent. “This summer I want to try to make it to the URA Finals, and then hopefully make it to High School Nationals. And I’d like to try and go pro after I get out of high school or college.” 🐾

JOSEY RANCH CLINIC

story by Josey Staff

For over 50 years the Josey Ranch has been bringing friends and family together from all across the world for their annual summer calf roping and barrel racing schools and clinics. Since 1967 Martha and RE Josey have been teaching generations of cowboys and cowgirls their legendary techniques of how to win in both the arena and in life. Whether you continue to ride or not you will learn how to be a more confident,

responsible person. RE and Martha over the years have taught many students that have gone on to compete at the National Finals Rodeo including, Lynn McKenzie, Fallon Taylor, and James Zant.

This past June students attending the Josey Ranch schools and clinics have represented more than 20 different states and Canada. The first summer event was the week long Calf Roping and Barrel Racing School which had 54 roping students and 85 barrel racers in attendance. The next event was the 3 day Barrel Racing Clinic which had 80 barrel racers at the ranch, ready to learn. The third and final summer event is a one week barrel racing school that has 65 barrel racers ready to cut their time and learn new skills. Barrel racers and ropers leave the ranch with many life long memories and friends that are made during their time at the ranch.

If you are interested in coming to learn with RE and Martha Josey in a fun, exciting environment visit us at: www.barrelracers.com

"Never Give Up... Not on your horse, not on your dreams and never on yourself!"

Intimidating! That was the first word that came to mind when I pulled up to the Josey Ranch gate. I had spent the last two weeks excited to finally get the chance to attend and meet the woman who gave me the courage to try reaching for my dreams. Being there in that moment however, seeing all the "able bodied" students, I felt like I was on the wrong side of the glass, an outsider who didn't belong there.

After the first day of the Josey Ranch Clinic I went back to the hotel thinking "There is no way I am going to be able to do this two more days in a row!" The next morning I set out with the mindset of "I can and I will do this!" I'm not going to lie, there were times when I thought I was going to cave and pack my things up quietly to head back to the comfort of my own home. Then in those moments someone would ride up beside me and tell me what they needed help on, or how they too were sore and hot.

A photograph of two women. On the right is Brenda Harris, wearing a blue and white Josey Ranch long-sleeved shirt and a black cowboy hat. She is smiling and looking towards the camera. On the left is another woman with long dark hair, also smiling. They appear to be at a table with some items on it.

They unknowingly pulled me out of my own self doubt and helped me to keep pushing forward. The instructors and other students are so kind, helpful, and understanding yet they push you to strive to be better. They didn't look at me as someone "handicapped" and didn't treat me differently, which was a huge relief! I have learned so much about my horse and myself in those 3 short days that there isn't enough room to write it all down. However the biggest thing I took from the experience was, NEVER GIVE UP, not on your horse, not on your dreams and never on yourself! Anything is possible if you strive for it! No it isn't going to be easy, there are going to be days when you want to "pull your legs off" and toss in the towel because you're tired, sore and hurting but that is only temporary, as where striving for your dreams is a permanent happiness. I may be an amputee but I am handicappable, not handicapped!

NIRAA 2019 Attendees

story by Siri Stevens

1: Cotton Rosser 2: Jim Easley 3: Roy W Lilley
4: Jack Roddy 5: Larry O'Neal 6: Jack Burkholder
7: Dr. Don Mitchell 8: Roger Walters & Sonny Sikes - Rodeo News

The National Intercollegiate Rodeo Association Alumni celebrated its 28th anniversary by honoring all the NIRA National Champions, Championship Teams, top finishers, Faculty and Student Presidents for the years ending in "9" Friday, June 14, at the Ramkota Hotel in Casper, Wyoming. The NIRA Alumni gave $30,000 in scholarships this year at the CNFR. The honorees included:

Cotton Rosser who rodeoed at Cal Poly, and attended the first CNFR held at the Cow Palace in 1949. He was the NIRA All Around Runner-up, and he was in the top four in calf roping, saddle bronc riding, bull riding, and the wild cow milking. "If it wasn't for rodeo, I wouldn't be in college," said Cotton. "Harley May and myself, went to the rodeos. Back then there were no districts, we had to go to Sul Ross, Ft. Worth, Roseburg, Oregon; I never heard of the NIRA at the Cow Palace, it was just coming into focus." Cotton remembers that there were no coaches in college rodeo and the cowboys didn't get much money to compete on. "We had to get someone on campus to sponsor us. We sure put them on the map. Thanks to rodeo, I'm the richest man in the world with friends and memories."

Jim Easley competed for Texas Tech and was also at the first CNFR in 1949 in bareback riding and wild cow milking. "They brought big old Angus cows – they were roping their calves. These cows had been on green grass and it was a pretty nasty event." Jim was raised on a ranch in New Mexico that hadn't seen rain in three years. "We went to California for rodeo and it looked so good I moved there. The college rodeo athlete now has a different mindset than we did. We weren't as serious minded and rodeoed mostly for fun. Several of those boys had been in the service and came back so they were older."

Roy W Lilley, from Colorado A&M (now Colorado State University) was a member of 1952 NIRA Champion Men's Team and reserve all around champion.

Jack Roddy attended Cal Poly, and was the 1959 NIRA Champion Steer Wrestler and the 1959 NIRA All Around Cowboy.

Larry O'Neal competed for the University of Texas and was the only NIRA Champion from Utah, he was the 1959 Co-Champion Bareback Rider. Jack Burkholder competed for Texas A&I University. He was the 1959 NIRA Champion Calf Roper. Jack won four consecutive NIRA Calf Roping Championships. Jack is deceased and was represented by his sister Mary Hill. Ken Lensegrav was the 1989 NIRA Champion Bareback Rider competing for Montana State University.

Clark Dees, a member of Southwestern Oklahoma State University, was part of the 1999 NIRA Champion Men's Team. Dr. Don Mitchell-Southwestern Oklahoma State University, was the rodeo coach of the 1999 NIRA Champion Men's Team. Rachel Tiedeman-2009 NIRA Barrel Racing Champion, South Dakota State University.

Roger Walters, NIRA Commissioner, thanked the alumni for supporting college rodeo. "Anything that I know about college rodeo was through the mentor I had at Sam Houston, Sonny Sikes. Everything about me came through that man right there. I can't thank him enough."

Meet the Member Becky Rus

story by Lindsay King

Living just 25 miles east of where she grew up in South Dakota, is self-made barrel racer Becky Rus. “I did not come from a rodeo family, not even a horse family. My dad bought $50 horses for my two younger sisters and I to get us started showing in 4-H and gymkhanas. We learned everything from scratch,” said the now semi-retired entrepreneur of Rock Valley, Iowa. As a student at Iowa State University, Becky found her way back to horses by way of the rodeo team. “There was only one calf roper there and me, we were the entire team at the time,” she chuckles. “We didn’t really go anywhere for rodeos. I was a pre-vet and ag business student at the time and loving horses got me into rodeo.”

Fresh out of college, Becky found herself managing a handful of veterinary clinics in northwest Iowa. “I started out in MSRA out of college and it just seemed like they were close enough that I did not have to travel too far. It was a nice step up and the people were really nice.” Rodeo and jackpots were and are Becky’s enjoyment for the weekends. Twenty-five years ago, Becky built a veterinary supply company (Livestock Concepts) from the ground up. “I had mostly just women working for me until I sold it four years ago.” Now Becky is an independent contractor building internet marketing campaigns part time. “I like to stay busy, so I work in the morning and then ride in the afternoon.”

Running the clover leaf on ex-race horses for the last few years, Becky is now retiring that fleet and starting to season her colts. “I am not looking forward to riding colts because of my age, but I am hoping to get back into the NSPRA this year and run them in it.” A couple years ago, the NSPRA adopted the 3D format for their barrel payout. “This gives someone like me on a colt the chance to pull a check instead of just donating my entry fees. I am just hoping to have something that is competitive so I can rodeo.”

Becky Rus
- Boaz Elkes Photography

After the purchase of a winter home in Arizona, Becky found her way to the NSPRA circuit thanks to Jill Hins. “I had never heard of it before, but there are a lot of senior pros out there so I run them in the winter. I just love the people involved with it.” It doesn’t matter what association Becky finds herself in, the people of rodeo are like none other. “They are all very genuine and hard working. It amazes me how competitive the senior pros get the older the competition is. It gives us all a chance to continue to rodeo and compete. The 60 and over events are tougher than the 40s it seems, but they are still not easy to compete against by any means.” Becky enjoys that nobody gets into a huge hurry and everyone always has time to help each other. “They welcome ‘newbies’ with open arms and I think it is all very enjoyable.”

It isn’t surprising that Becky married a cattleman, but it is interesting that he isn’t really a horse person. Married for the last 25 years, Marion (Becky’s husband) has always been in the feedlot and livestock auction businesses. “We feed about 3,500 head here at home and Marion owns two livestock auction barns in South Dakota. That is his thing, but horses definitely are not. We don’t even use horses on the feedlot.” It’s no matter for Becky though, she is used to making something out of nothing. 🐾

ENCOURAGEMENT FROM THE BOX!

By Jerry Martin
Cowboy Connection Ministries!

If you continue to live the way you do will Heaven be your final destination? You may say I don't believe there is a Heaven. Listen, don't believe the lies of Satan. Because the Bible is truth and tells us in 2nd Corinthians 5:10, For we must (all) appear before the judgement seat of Christ that each one may receive the things done in the body according to what he has done whether good or bad. So what will be the outcome when you stand before God when your life is over on this earth? If you continue living your life in the same manor, do you have the assurance that you are Heaven bound? If there needs to be a change make it today this decision is eternal. The Bible tells us in Romans 10:9, That if you confess with your mouth the Lord Jesus and believe in your heart that God has raised Him from the dead you will be saved. Let me assure you, there is no better place to be.

Team Roping Champs

courtesy of Kenny Zamora

Dear Ropers,
As I write this, we have only had two Qualifiers so far. Both were good events and we are starting to gain momentum. We have an upcoming schedule that will take us to several locations and is going to keep us busy as we bring qualifiers to your area. This will give all ropers a great opportunity to come to one of our events and get qualified for the finals. The finals will be held in Clovis New Mexico on September 20-22 and we will be guaranteeing over $30,000 in cash and prizes with an estimated payoff of over $100,000. It's a short window of opportunity in 2019 but we have already put plans in the place for a Super Finals in September 2020. The good news is that any permits or memberships purchased in 2019 will be valid until September 2020. We appreciate those that have supported our mission with this new organization thus far. We are just into our second year and things are looking great. Come rope with us and experience firsthand what Team Roping Champs is about.

Good Luck and Go Get the Money. 🍀

Kenny Zamora

Regular Feature | Let's Talk it Over

CARTS

article by Dale Woodard

Ever since I can remember I have had a fascination with animals pulling me around in a cart. My earliest memory of this was when I was four years old. My cousin (who is one year older) and I hooked a big Airedale ranch dog to our little red wagon and got in. Things didn't turn out so good. The dog got spooked, ran away and the wagon tipped over. My cousin and I got skinned up a little but we were fine. Over the years I have gotten better at hooking animals to carts and actually getting a safe and enjoyable ride. I have had some wrecks yes, but all and all it's been a lot of fun.

One of my most successful hookups was a three-hundred-and-fifty-pound pig named Gorgeous George. George was a pig that I trained to do dog tricks back in my rodeo clown days. At the end of the act I would hook George up to a little cart and he would pull me out of the arena at a dead run. I entertained rodeo crowds with that act for over twenty-five years. It took seven different pigs over that time span but it was a very successful act.

I have driven lots of different animals to carts. Animals that included pigs, cattle, horses, a buffalo, mules and donkeys. This last winter I decided to build a cart and break my roping donkey to pull me around the neighborhood. I built the cart and bought some wheelbarrow wheels to go under it. A chair purchased from Goodwill and then bolted down to the cart floor and I was ready to go. My donkey was a little skittish to say the least, so I made up a running W for her front legs just in case she decided to have a runaway. I drove my donkey around the yard and in my arena for about a week before I headed over to my neighbor's house one day for a visit and to show off my new donkey cart.

Like I said, my donkey was a little skittish and when I started down my neighbor's driveway fear overtook him. Just as I got in speaking range and said hello, my donkey spun around and headed home at a high lope. My running W was somehow fouled and had little or no effect on helping to slow us down. To say the least, we got home in a hurry. The next day my neighbor who is a good cowboy and horseman asked me why I hadn't stayed longer the other day before to visit. I told him I couldn't think of anything else to say after hello, so I just decided to go back home. We both had a good laugh.

But one of my best cart stories happened just recently. Back in 1982 I was still living in California and my rodeo clown career was going strong. I had developed a new act where my mini mule pulled a cart. During my clowning career I wrote my own acts and trained the animals that I worked in those carts. Most of the acts were entertaining and served me well but this act with the little mule pulling the cart was a flop. I worked a rodeo in Sonora, California and I stayed with a friend of mine in this town named Denny Dacoust. Denny is a cowboy and runs cattle in the Sonora area and has for many years. During this particular stay I kept my animals in a set of corrals on a ranch that Denny had rented. Once my animals were settled I unloaded the mule cart and leaned it against the corral fence. When the rodeo was over somehow I had forgotten the cart at the corrals. Denny called to tell me that I had left my cart. I told him that the act was a bust and that I would pick the cart up on my next trip through his area. About six months later Denny called to say that my cart had disappeared. I told him that it was no big deal and we both forgot about it. The other day I was talking to Denny on the phone. He said, "Man, you will never believe what happened." It seems that someone else now has that piece of ground rented for his cattle and the corrals are still there. Denny said this new tenant called and said there was an old cart leaning against the corral fence with a note attached to it. Denny went over to retrieve the cart and this is what the note said: "I was young (16 years) and foolish when I took this cart thirty-six years ago from these corrals. I'm a duck hunter and I have used this cart to transport my decoys from my pickup to the water but it has always bothered me so I am finally returning the cart." The note was unsigned.

Denny said, "I have your cart in my barn and I can't wait to show you the note, it's still in the plastic baggie that was taped to the cart." Now is that a story or what? God works in mysterious ways and there are still a lot of good people in the world. 🐾

COMPETITION & INJURIES

story by Speed Williams

Throughout my career as I prepared for big events I tried not to run as many on my good horses. When you practice a lot before a big event sometimes things happen. You burn your hand, jerk a shoe off your horse, etc. Quality over quantity is the best practice.

This year, before going to the state finals, Hali was running barrels and a horse tripped and fell with her running to the barrel. She hurt her right knee and shoulder. So, she didn't get to practice team roping, breakaway, barrels, poles, or goat tying because both her knee and shoulder were a little loose.

We discussed it and she wanted to get up at 4:30 a.m. the day we were leaving to practice all her events. I said, "You haven't been on a horse in four days and it won't be smart to practice. You're still sore and just starting to feel good." Her answer was, "Dad you've always taught me to prepare before an event."

I said, "Honey, sometimes you have to prepare your mind when your body is not able." She didn't agree but took my advice and didn't rope that morning. She packed all her stuff and got everything ready to be at the finals early. About two hours into the trip she said, "Dad you were right, I only packed and loaded my stuff and I'm sore."

The last year Rich and I roped together at the NFR I had a horse fall with me at the Dallas Stampede cracking a bone in my knee. Then, while practicing three weeks before the NFR, another horse stumbled and fell on top of me. It pinched two nerves in my back and popped two ribs out. My chiropractor would not touch me until I had an MRI done. When he did adjust my back, it sounded like a 22 went off. The problem was it had loosened up the ligaments in my back and when we got ready to go to the NFR in 2005, I could not drink a glass of water with my right hand. I was hurt. Rich and I had won eight titles in a row and I told him he needed to get another partner, that I didn't need to go to the finals. He wouldn't do it. I didn't rope very good for the first seven rounds. I ended up getting on Viper the last three rounds. We were 3.9, 4.0, and 4.1 and won or placed in those rounds.

During the drive to Gonzales, I told my daughter sometimes things happen that you can't overcome and you have to deal with it. She didn't do very well in barrel racing, poles or goats. She was a little out of sync. But she spun three good steers in the team roping and won the breakaway.

We talked about it afterwards and I told her there comes a time when you have to take care of yourself and your body. As I got older I would practice less as we got closer to big events. That's when quality over quantity is very important. The same goes for your horse. It's not smart to make run over run on him. But keep him exercised and have him healthy. There's a lot you can do to mentally prepare yourself. When I was competing all the time I tried to stay fit both mentally and physically.

Speed with son Gabe and daughter Hali
- Top Hand Ropes

I took the Speed Trainer down to Gonzales so Hali could do her drills for team roping and breakaway. Each day she roped about five of each to stay sharp. She couldn't really ride very much without getting sore. That really hindered her in the barrels and poles because they are fast and physical sports. I'm not an expert in either, but when you're wounded, the level of difficulty is off the charts.

Hali and Gabe ran into a little trouble in the team roping. Gabe lost a leg on one and fumbled his dally on another. They made the short go and made a nice run. During Hali's entire Junior High rodeo career, she has spun all her steers but two. She ropes right to left, roping the right horn first, and not both horns at the same time. A lot of parents teach their kids to rope both horns at the same time and I think it's a disservice to them because it's actually harder and a lower percentage catch. It's only a better shot when reaching.

Hali did prevail in the breakaway. She was 2.8, 3.0, and 3.1, and won the average and state championship. We will be headed to Huron, SD, soon for her last year at Junior High Nationals. I'm incredibly proud of both my kids and the hard work they put into their events. 🐾

RAIN

article by Lacey Stevens

One of my favorite pastimes is to watch a storm come through. I will bundle up and sit out under the porch for hours if it lasts that long, watching the lightening, listening to the thunder, and wondering where it's headed next. I realize this spring has been full of these storms, some very destructive and scary at times. There's nothing better than the smell of rain after the sun has been beating down on the ground and it brings such a sense of peace and regrowth. In Colorado we've been in a drought since I was born, not even kidding, since 1983 until this year. We've received so much rain it's really been an issue trying to practice, but I won't complain about it because it's usually so dry and while the hay is tough to get baled and the ropers can't rope, it's sure been a blessing to so many places that haven't seen green pastures in decades.

I remember growing up and coming home from school each day in hopes I could ride before the afternoon rain would come through. While we didn't receive the kind of rain we are getting now, it was like clockwork to see the thunder heads roll in. I've forgotten until this year how much everyone's schedule revolved around these storms. Sometimes it would rain, sometimes it wouldn't but we also didn't have these handy radar apps on our phones either, now that I think of it, we didn't even have phones then!

Utah contemplates taking a mud bath
- courtesy of Lacey

I've only roped a handful of times and I know my horses have loved every minute of being turned out and enjoying the green cocaine that grows faster than they can eat it. So for now, I'll embrace it because I know it won't be long and it'll be hot and dry and we'll all be complaining and wishing it would rain. I have spent any time when the sun is shining mowing and weed whacking, mowing and weed whacking, you get the point. As for today, I'm sitting here watching it rain telling myself it too shall pass and roping will happen again. 🐾

BUTTERMILK FRIED CHICKEN WITH GRAVY

recipe courtesy of Wall Drug Cookbook Second Edition - Gretta Rensch

INGREDIENTS:

Yield 4-6 servings

1 broiler-fryer chicken (2 1/2 to 3 lbs) cut up
1 c buttermilk
1 c all-purpose flour
1 1/2 tsp. salt

1/2 tsp. pepper

Canola oil for frying

COY RAHLMANN

article by Michele Toberer

Coy Rahlmann of Elsinoire, Missouri will be heading west and stepping into the college rodeo ranks this fall as he begins his freshman year as a team roper for Cisco College in Texas. The homeschooled high school graduate will feel right at home, as he's already spent several weeks at a time roping in Texas and Arizona during the cold Missouri winters. At Cisco College, Coy looks forward to heading for sophomore heeler, Clay Futrell, who he recently placed third with at the Lonestar Shoot-out in February. "I've been fortunate to have such good partners and a great support system. Smarty has backed me for several years and I've been on the Smarty Young Pro team for two years now. It's such a great program that puts kids with talent in front of the right people. Not all kids have opportunities to rope with the pros, and Smarty gives the kids a great platform to really step up their games."

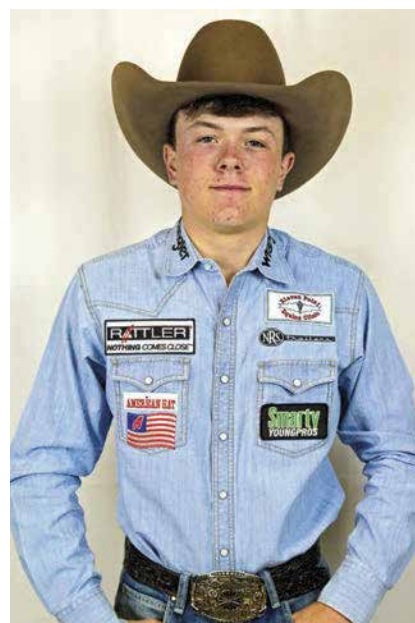

Roping started early for Coy, who is the only child of Chris and Susie Rahlmann. Chris was a PRCA team roper for multiple years and was a Great Lakes circuit qualifier several times. He and Susie took Coy to many amateur rodeos while he was young, where Chris team roped, Susie barrel raced, and Coy competed in the 14 & under breakaway roping. "I believe competing at those rodeos got me started pretty good." Coy went on to compete in Missouri junior high and high school rodeos, qualifying for national finals every year since he started in 8th grade. "My freshman year, I placed in the second round at the national high school finals and I won the second round heading for Blaine Maxwell as a sophomore. My junior year I didn't do any good there, so I'm hoping that my senior year will be the year I do well in the average. I'll also be going to the IFYR in Shawnee with a vengeance, I've been going there since I was able to and have done well in some rounds, but this year I want to win." Coy will be heading at both competitions this summer for Cooper Freeman, "Cooper heels phenomenally, I honestly believe he heels good enough to win anywhere, I'm pretty fortunate to head for him."

Coy is grateful to many ropers who have helped him grow as a competitor over the years. "I've headed for Jake Pianalto and Chad Evans the past couple years in IPRA and ACRA rodeos, and they taught me how to win, I owe a lot to them. I decided to do something a little different this year and I'm entering some circuit rodeos with Ryan Von Ahn." Coy's dad trained and sold rope horses when he was younger which led him to a connection with Paul Eaves, who hailed from St. Louis, Missouri. "Paul invited me to stay with him in Millsap, Texas during the winter, and it worked out perfectly because I was able to head more steers than you can imagine while I was there. Paul not only helped me with roping but has taught me so much about the sport and horsemanship. He's taught me where you need to be and when, and how to really win. All Paul thinks about is roping and I honestly think that's why he's so good."

Coy refers to the 9-year-old sorrel gelding, Charlie, that he bought from Eric Myers and Tim Glasgow, as one of the greatest blessings he's ever had. "Words can't describe what Charlie means to me and my family. I've had him for three years and he's been awesome no matter where I have used him. I wouldn't be where I am, without him." Coy appreciates some of his greatest achievements on Charlie as being the 2018 ACRA Champion Rookie and qualifying for the IFR49. "Next year I'd like to buy my PRCA card and go at it hard. If everything goes perfectly, I'll make the WNFR; but I'd like to at least win the PRCA champion rookie title."

Coy is very grateful to his parents and sponsors for their help along his way: Smarty, Classic, American Hat Company, Joplin Stockyards, Magee Farm Equipment, Equatic Fitness and Rehabilitation, and Rahlmann Valuation. 🐾

Meet the Member Judd & Hadley Morrison

by Michele Toberer

Third-generation cowboys, brothers Judd and Hadley Morrison are proud to be carrying on the tradition of rodeo in their family. Living in Longville, Louisiana with their parents, Crystal and Joe Morrison, they are surrounded by family, and the history they carry on started back with their grandfather, AJ Clayton, Crystal's dad, who was a bull rider in his younger years. The family still misses AJ, who passed away last year. Joe was also a bull rider and he spent his high school years competing in the Louisiana High School Rodeo Association, the same association he is bringing his sons up in. Crystal, a stay at home mom, rodeoed some growing up and although she grew up with a roughie for a dad and had a bull-riding husband, she was determined to see her boys on the timed event side of the arena. "Both boys have been riding horses with us since they could sit up, and they were riding by themselves at three years old. They both won their first buckles in lead line classes at a local riders' club when they were just two. Joe, a pipeline superintendent and welder, also team ropes and he and several family members were happy to share their knowledge with the boys, who both love roping.

LJHSRA member, Judd, is a 13-year-old eighth-grader at South Beauregard Junior High School where his favorite class is Algebra 1. As a 16-year-old South Beauregard High School sophomore, Hadley, doesn't have one class that stands out from the others, and is mostly looking forward to the final bell each day so that he and Judd can get to the practice pen. Crystal shared, "The first time Hadley really smiled for us was when he was three months old and we put him on his first horse. Before that it was just a little grin here and there, but when he was on that horse it was a full-on smile. Both the boys are extremely passionate about rodeo and their hearts are in it 110%. Our family doesn't do anything half-way, it's either all or nothing, and we are proud that both boys always give it their all."

Hadley competed for two years in LJHSRA before moving into the LHSRA ranks, and in his eighth-grade year he finished as the state's 2017 fourth-place goat tyer, qualifying to national finals in Lebanon, Tennessee. He gives credit for that success to his goat tying coach, Stacey Martin of Next Level Goat Tying. Since moving on to the high school division last year, he has been team roping with Cale Jacobsen; Cale as the header and Hadley heeling. Hadley's heel horse is a 13-year-old bay mare named Kudo that he has had for the past four years. "Heeling is a lot more intense for me than heading. You can't fish for a shot like you can sometimes in heading, you have to be more exact with your shot and rope it right or you won't catch. I guess I like the pressure that puts on me as a heeler." Hadley appreciates the fundamentals he learned at Ricky Green clinics that he was fortunate enough to go to. He also watches his favorite professional heelers, Jade Corkill and Paul Eaves, “They are so consistent and can rope really fast.” Hadley tries to focus on thinking positively before his rodeos and makes sure to pray before every run.

During Judd’s junior high years, he was the alternate for goat tying in sixth-grade, and the 2018 LJHSRA Boys Goat Tying Champion last year, leaving the last junior high national finals as the 2018 National Reserve Champion Boys Goat Tyer. “This year I am in first place for the state in goat tying, 2nd place in chute dogging and I’m doing pretty good in team roping, heading for Huel Willis. My main goal is to win the champion title in goat tying this year at nationals, I was so close last year, this year I want to win it all.” Judd also earned the 2018 Cajun Little Britches Champion Boys Goat Tyer title and just recently was named the 2019 Cajun Little Britches Champion Boys Goat Tyer and Champion Header. Judd has been riding a big white horse named Smoky for the past 5 years for team roping, and he rides a little sorrel gelding named Gus for goat tying. “I really like all the events, but team roping and chute dogging are probably my favorites. I look forward to moving into steer wrestling next year. I’ve been able to work with the legendary steer wrestling coach, Tom Carney at Steer Wrestling 101, and my favorite professional steer wrestler, Tyler Waguespack, and they’ve helped me a lot. Derek Begay is my favorite header, he throws fast, and chunks line a lot, and that’s what I like to do.” Positive thoughts are important to Judd also, and he tries to only visualize good runs that are about to happen as he takes big breaths before each run and prays before every rodeo.

Hadley aspires to attend McNeese State University in Lake Charles, Louisiana so that he can compete on the college rodeo team once he graduates from high school. But for now, his typical days include feeding horses before school, and he gets right to the roping dummy after he gets home. Most days he also works with his two-year-old colt, Stran, hangs out with cousins, or goes to the gym to work out. Judd loves to hang out with his cousins, fish, and spend time with his red merle Miniature Australian Shepherd, Cactus, when he is home from school. Although he still has time to narrow down colleges, Judd does plan to college rodeo once he graduates from high school, and at this point thinks he’d like to be a welder like his dad. Both Hadley and Judd have the ultimate goal of competing as professional ropers one day and have their sights set on backing into the boxes at the WNFR in Las Vegas, Nevada as a future goal.

Family time is one of the things the Morrisons’ love the most about rodeo, and they are glad to be carrying on the family’s tradition with the LHSRA while they share quality family time along the way. They like to hang out with all their family and friends at rodeos and the practice pen. Judd also appreciates the LJHSRA judges, “They are all so nice and have become my friends. After I’m done with a run, it’s cool because I’ll be walking out of the arena and talking to the judges at the same time.” The boys also enjoy all the time the family spends in friendly competition as they have matches on the roping dummies. The Morrison family looks forward to cheering on the Morrison dream team next season when Judd moves into high school and he can spin steers for Hadley to heel at the LHSRA rodeos.

Judd appreciates the help he is given by goat tying coach, Stacey Martin, along with Quintin and Janice Reeves, and Trey and Margaret Fogleman in team roping. The boys are grateful for the help they get to improve in roping and that they can rope in the Fogleman’s covered pen when wet weather prevents them from roping in their own arena. Hadley mentioned, “I really want to thank my mom and dad for helping us both and supporting us in everything we want to do. And, I’m also very grateful to my sponsors.”

Judd and Hadley are both sponsored by Equine Catalyst and are honored to have been selected for the Hot Heels Hot Shot Team for the company’s first year with the program. Hadley is also sponsored by Lone Star Ropes. 🐾

Meet the Member Patience Neal

Her name may be Patience, but she doesn't sit back and wait for things to happen in life and is a prime example of having dedication towards goals. Making a move to Buchanan, Georgia 4 years ago to start an equine business on the 40 acres her mom, Melissa Culver, and stepdad, Joe Culver, purchased, has proven to be a positive choice for the now 26-year-old Southeastern Professional Rodeo Association barrel racer. Melissa, a pharmacy technician at WellStar Hospital, and Joe, a retired Cobb County police officer, gave Patience the opportunity to start Heart Ranch, where Patience manages the barn, giving lessons, taking in horses for training, and rehabilitating rescue horses. "I stay busy at the barn and do what I can to cover the expenses of rodeo."

Besides Heart Ranch, she also manages Tactical Martial Arts, where they teach Tae Kwon Do, and Krav Maga. "I started martial arts in 2003, when I was 9 years old and it's been great. I've taken this year off from competition because I'm focusing on barrel racing, but I won two American Tae Kwon Do Association Southeastern district titles in 2016 and 2018 and was third in the world competition last year. Obviously with rodeo there is a lot of responsibility, but Tae Kwon Do has taught me to have a good work ethic and has helped me carry myself the way I do. I would recommend it for anyone, especially for women."

Patience's mom barrel raced before marriage and kids and was the driving force behind her interest in running barrels. In 2007, Melissa had decided to get back to barrel racing, after she'd raised her children, and once Patience rode Melissa's new horse Buggy, she decided that she wanted to run barrels as well. "My mom took me to look at three or four barrel horses and the first one we looked at was Willie, he plowed into all three barrels, was barn-sour, popped up with me, and I thought he was awful. After we looked at the rest of the horses my mom said she thought he was the one I needed, and I cried." Melissa was right about the now 24-year-old tobiano paint gelding, and Willie has been Patience's barrel horse for 12 years now. "Willie is semi-retired, but he still loves to run so I take him to run barrels a couple times a month, and I use him for my beginner lessons."

Patience made the determination to step back from martial arts to see how far she and her gelding, Kelso (Frenchies High Socks), could go in the SPRA this year. Although she's competed on permits in SPRA rodeos for 10 years, this is the first season she's bought her card. Kelso is a 10-year-old sorrel that she's owned for 3 years. "I'm a sucker for redheads, and we call him Kelso because he has the personality of Kelso from That 70's show on television." Her main goal this year is to keep her sucker out of the dirt, and push through tough times to make it to the end. "I still get in my own head sometimes, so I'm working on getting out of my own way and trusting Kelso so he can work."

"Between lessons, the barn, a full-time job, and rodeo, I'm kind of like a lone wolf, so most of my friends are at the SPRA rodeos. That's what I love about the SPRA, everyone is so friendly, the secretaries are nice, and they take care of their contestants. You don't see a lot of clicks or cattiness like other associations I've been in. Everyone is always welcoming and willing to give advice when you need it."

Patience appreciates her support team that fuels her towards her goal of making the finals this year; her vet, farrier, chiropractor, friends, and family. She's also grateful for Alex Lanier of Phoenix Performance Horses for keeping Kelso feeling good, and the support of Cowgirl Cactus Company. "I really want to make finals this year, but if I don't, I'll try again next year. I'm just happy to be going at a slow and steady pace, it's a marathon not a sprint." 🐾

"Nothin' but Rodeo"

Meet the Member Ky Kreder

story by Michele Toberer

Last year was Ky Kreder's rookie year with the Mid-States Rodeo Association, and the fourth-generation cowboy from Ochelata, Oklahoma made quite an entrance. At just 18 years old, he looks forward to a lifetime of rodeo competition, and is grateful for every step he's made along the way so far. Ky ended the 2018 MSRA season as the champion header and champion rookie of the year. "I really enjoyed last season with the Mid-States Rodeo Association. They are a great organization that feels like a little family. Everyone is fun, and always has a smile on their face."

Ky's parents, Freddy and Cheryl Kreder, raised Ky on his great-grandfather's (Buddy May) ranch in Ochelata, Oklahoma. Buddy, Cheryl's grandpa, competed back in the Turtle Association days as a calf roper, and won some prestigious rodeos, such as Madison Square Garden, and Salinas, California. Freddy's dad, Bob Kreder, had a long rodeo career as well, and competed as a bull rider, team roper and calf roper, spending many years as an IFR rodeo judge. Ky spent his youth traveling the roads with his parents as they competed in PRCA and IPRA rodeos and doesn't remember a day that he didn't carry a rope in his hands. Freddy competed as a heeler, qualifying once for the Great Lakes circuit, and worked as a pick-man at the Great Lakes circuit 3 years, and at the IFR 9 times. Cheryl still continues to compete as a barrel racer. "My family has quite a rodeo story, and I am proud to be a part of that story, I've been competing since I was about 8 or 9 years old."

Ky recently graduated from Caney Valley High School in Ramona, Oklahoma, where he played basketball on the school's team, but most days tried to get home as quickly as possible to get on his horse to rope. He skipped his own graduation ceremony because he was entered at a rodeo in Athens, Alabama that day, and went on to compete in 3 rodeos his graduation weekend. Ky spent quite a bit of time last season on the roads with his cousin Shawn and his wife Kara, and the trio of Kreders competed at 67 rodeos in the three summer months leading up to his senior year of high school.

Ky not only had success in the MSRA last season, but also won the rookie of the year title in the International Professional Rodeo Association as well as the 2018 IPRA Reserve World Champion Header title, and the rookie of the year title in the American Professional Rodeo Association. Although Ky did compete at the IFYR his freshman year of high school, he bypassed the typical high school rodeo competition, focusing on amateur rodeos and USTRC jackpots over the years. "I always had to go where it paid something."

All of last year's wins were made possible by a 13-year-old sorrel gelding named

Zero, "He is the best horse I've had so far. My dad bought him from a guy that was roping at one of the jackpots we have every Sunday at our arena, Ky's Arena. He was like a diamond in the rough, and my dad bought him and told me to take him and go. Zero has done so well for me, I couldn't have done it all without him. I also appreciate my dad for helping me so much with roping, and some great friends, Casey Hicks, Jesse and Casey Stipes, and Benny Jordan. I've learned a lot about horsemanship from Casey, and Benny is just a true cowboy all the way." For his future, Ky sees nothing but rodeo, and looks forward to competing in PRCA circuit rodeos, hoping to one day compete at the WNFR.

Ky is grateful to his parents and family for getting him where he is today and appreciates his sponsors for helping keep him on the road to the top; Classic Ropes and American Bank of Oklahoma. 🐾

Meet the Members Braasch Family

The Braasch family, of Rensselaer, Indiana, was excited to learn about the International Miniature Rodeo Association when they met Gus Haley of Rafter H Mini Broncos at a youth rodeo last season. Evan and Kossette Braasch started entering their 8-year-old son, Landon, in the IMRA events, and couldn't have had a better experience at the IMRA finals in Oklahoma City, Oklahoma in January. "Landon rides mini bulls and mini broncs, and the experience we had at the finals was amazing. We didn't know a lot of people, but we got out there and it was like a great big family. One of the main things we noticed was that when you come to these events it almost feels like you're coming to a family reunion, and everyone is there to help, even if it's their competitors."

Landon has been competing at rodeos since he was 4, beginning with mutton busting and moving up to calf riding when he was 6 years old. He has already won a Reserve Champion Calf Rider title with the Indiana Junior Rodeo Association and was the 2018 Midwest Youth Rodeo Association Champion Bareback Mini Bronc Rider. Although he loves P.E. and reading anything about rodeo and horses, as a rising third grader at Rensselaer Elementary, his main thoughts revolve around riding rough stock. "Landon is a little bit of a daredevil, and he loves to be challenged, so he has found something that he really loves when it comes to riding at rodeos," explained Kossette.

Besides Landon, Evan and Kossette have a 7-year-old daughter, Tenleigh, and

1-year-old son, Kelton. Kossette grew up surrounded by horses and has been riding since she was 2 years old. Evan began riding when he and Kossette married 10 years ago. The couple has had all the children riding on horses with them from the time they were very young, and even Kelton is already loving being led around on his little paint pony while Landon and Tenleigh are practicing. "Between my parents and my brother's family, we have about 15 horses and we all love to go trail riding and camping with the horses when we have time."

Tenleigh, a second grader at Rensselaer Elementary, was bitten by the rodeo bug herself, and she also loves getting on the mini broncs when she can. She's already ridden several on exhibition at youth rodeos and plans to join in on the IMRA competition this coming season. "As a mom, it's nerve-wracking to watch either of my kids ride at rodeos. But they're not afraid at all, which is great. If they ever show a sign of not wanting to ride, we won't. Tenleigh likes being behind the chutes with all the riders, and they all think it's awesome that she's riding. She's a girly-girl who also loves to barrel race, but I think this is kind of the rebel side of her dad coming out in her." Tenleigh plans to also enter barrel racing in the IMRA this season.

When the family heard a stock contractor was selling Landon's favorite miniature bull, they decided to make him a part of the Braasch family. "Herf, is a Miniature Hereford bull and he's like a big pet. He stays in the pasture with the horses and you can walk up and pet him, but Landon can still practice riding on him, which is nice."

Kossette works for Markstone Trucking as a dispatcher, and Evan farms corn, beans, popcorn, and seed corn for the Hageman Group in Remington, Indiana. Landon already envisions making his living as a PBR bull rider one day. "We went to Las Vegas last year, and it sparked a dream in Landon's mind. We love that he has these dreams, and the IMRA gives him a way to work towards his goals. I love the lessons that are instilled in our kids through rodeo."

The Braasch family is very appreciative of Mike Latting and Keith Wooten for making everything possible, as well as their sponsors: Hall Trucking, AKH Trucking, Fishburn Trucking, Fishburn Service & Repair, and Windy Ridge Ag. 🐾

Meet the Member Tye Elgin

Tye Eglin of Broadalbin, New York, has numerous irons in the fire in the livestock business, chief among them running his stock contracting company, Lucky E Productions. The 26-year-old and his girlfriend, Paige Reynolds, started the company three years ago, and as of last year, provided stock for 25 open rodeos.

Tye grew up riding horses and buying and selling livestock. While he enjoys competing, qualifying for the APRA and First Frontier Circuit Finals several times each in team roping, he enjoys producing competitions just as much. A pickup man for Shawn Graham of Painted Pony Championship Rodeo, Tye worked 40 performances last year between the APRA, IPRA, and PRCA. He also started working bull ridings and decided to produce his own jackpots at his home arena several years ago. "We were trying to help the kids and grow the sport a little bit. One thing went to the next and we bought our own arena and now we're going on the road," says Tye. "This year we purchased our APRA stock contracting card, and the biggest one we'll be doing this year is the Utica Stampede July 11 and 12. It's one of the biggest APRAs we'll have on the circuit added money wise, and the committee is absolutely outstanding to work with. Why I like the APRA so much is that it gives an opportunity for all the young kids to come out even if they're still in high school. It's about growing the sport, and on the East Coast we don't have a lot of roughstock riders."

Lucky E Productions provides all roughstock and timed event livestock for rodeos, along with an arena, which they provide for 90 percent of the rodeos

they produce. "For Double M Rodeo in Ballston Spa, New York, we contract all their bucking horses, steers and calves, and we have a few hired guys who help run the trucks and livestock. Most everywhere we go we have to set up, and most of the time we can be set up in about three hours," Tye explains.

"My friends and family have always pushed me. Shawn and Shana Graham with Painted Pony have been absolutely phenomenal, and Sonny Williams with Bar W Ranch. Wayne and Cindy Martin with Double M got us started with where we were sending our stock. As far going out this year and getting rodeos, I couldn't have done that without my girlfriend, Paige. She does all the bookwork. She's mainly barrel racing but she also started breakaway roping, and she flanks all the bucking bulls and broncs."

Tye and Paige have purchased all their livestock rather than going into the breeding side of the business. "We have a few young horses coming on that are really good, and a bunch of bulls that are exceptionally good. I'm hoping three or four of them will at least make the ARA finals this year," says Tye. He also hauls seven horses with him for picking up and team roping off of. "Most all of them are horses that we bought as young ranch horses, and then throughout the winter months when we didn't have much going on we concentrated on them and made them all. It takes a special, tough breed of horse to not be scared and go do their job so I can do my job."

Ty Elgin picking up at the First Frontier Circuit Finals,

In addition to producing rodeos and picking up, Tye helps his family run their auction company, doing horse sales and small-animal sales twice a month, and he continues to produce jackpots at his arena through the winter. "I have the same goal as anybody," he finishes. "I want to build this up slowly and steadily, and maybe one day buck at the NFR." 🐾

REACHING FOR

LEXEE JO BARVIAN

story by Lily Weinacht

Lexee Jo Barvian started riding horses before she could stand on her own two feet, but these days the 18-year-old from Attica, New York, does both as a professional trick rider. While the graceful drama of a death drag is one of Lexee Jo's favorites, the liberty stand is where she literally stands her tallest, feet planted on her trusty palomino while the stars and stripes of the American flag in her hands streams out behind them.

She takes her talents to APRA, IPRA, and SEBRA rodeos on the East Coast, performing for Rawhide Rodeo Company and Painted Pony Championship Rodeo, and competing in the barrel racing as well. "I know most of the contractors pretty well, and they help me out with where my performances go so I can barrel race," says Lexee Jo. Her hometown rodeo is the Attica Rodeo, voted number one in the APRA, and Lexee Jo performed there in 2018 for the first time alongside one of her trick riding idols, Dusti Dickerson. "I've always watched her ride, and she's been on the Dixie Stampede, and just to perform with her was a dream come true. I was smiling from ear to ear."

Lexee Jo grew up trail riding, though after a horse ran off with her during a ride when she was 3, it took her a year before she wanted to saddle up again. However, Lexee Jo spent her summers with a family friend who owned a trail riding business, and her courage grew as she rode everything from ponies to Percherons. When she turned 10, Lexee Jo was given a 2-year-old gelding for Christmas, Kutter, and she trained him with the help of friends. Kutter carried her through both English and Western disciplines, as well as high school barrel racing, before becoming her trick riding horse.

When Lexee Jo started trick riding

Lexee Jo Barvian in Ellicottville, NY in 2018
- Emily Gethke

seven years ago, she and a friend read an article online, cinched up their trail riding saddles, and started experimenting. "We started looking up YouTube videos on how to do tricks right, and our parents said if we were really serious about it, they would take us somewhere to teach us the right way to do it. Later that year we went to Tennessee to train with Loretta Pemberton, and we learned the basics of trick riding there," says Lexee Jo. "For the last six years I've been learning from my mistakes and trick riding with other trick riders." Her trick riding career took off soon after when family friend Sam Swearingen, the owner of Rawhide Rodeo Company, hired her to perform at one of his rodeos. "I liked it so much that I've been trick riding since."

Lexee Jo's background as a base for cheerleading—helping lift the flyers—has helped her with the strength and flexibility needed for trick riding. She's also strong in the support of her family, particularly her parents, Todd and Suzette, and her older brother and sister, Brock and Laura. "Me and my mom are together all the time. Before rodeos she helps me wash my horse and get my costumes and saddle ready, and put glitter on my horse. It's a lot of work to get done before a performance, and it's definitely a lot of fun. My brother and sister are always pushing me to do my best."

A new member of the 5 Star Equine team through the Reaching for the Stars competition, Lexee Jo also appreciates the support of quality tools for her horses. Several years ago, her trick riding horse developed a rearing problem, and Lexee Jo discovered his back was sore from an inadequate pad. "A friend of mine let me use his 5 Star pad and I got Kutter adjusted, and he quit lunging forward. Ever since then I've been using a 5 Star pad for my trick riding horse and my barrel horse. I use the thickest pad possible for my trick riding horse because his saddle is so big. Trick riding saddles are very heavy, and they're not really built to fit a horse that well—they're built to stay in place and not shift around, so I needed a quality pad because of that," Lexee Jo explains. "I use their sport boots and bell boots as well, and they fit really close to the legs. I like that a lot because no dirt can get in. When you're going fast around the arena, you don't want anything getting in there."

[ Her trick riding career took off soon after when family friend Sam Swearingen, the owner of Rawhide Rodeo Company, hired her to perform at one of his rodeos. "I liked it so much that I've been trick riding since." ]

A recent graduate from Attica Central School, Lexee Jo plans to move to Oklahoma and work with a barrel horse futurity trainer this fall. A four-time NHSFR qualifier, she's also making her first trip to Nationals this July in honor of her senior year, and plans to attend several college fairs while she's out West. "If I'm going to college, it will definitely be a rodeo college. For my trick riding goals, I would really like to do the IFR Specialty Act Contest. And for barrel racing, I really want to make it to The American because I know my horse has the ability, so that's one of my ultimate goals." 🐾

Meet the Member Dennis Morris

story by Michele Toberer

The Rafter M Rodeo Company began in the mind of Dennis Morris when he was just a child watching the NFR on Channel 5, as he sat in his living room floor. He watched an interview with world champion bull rider, Donny Gay, and Dale Hall, discussing the world champion bull of the year owned by Rafter H Rodeo Company, "I looked over at my cousin, Buster Morris, and said 'when you and I get big, we're going to be the Rafter M Rodeo Company.' That's all I've ever wanted to do was be a cowboy."

Born and raised in Robertson County, Tennessee, Dennis was raised in a cowboy lifestyle as the youngest of 5 children belonging to Sammie and Alford Morris. Alford and his brother worked cows for a living, and from a young age, Dennis was obsessed with the idea of being a cowboy and making a living through rodeo. He had his first pony when he was three years old and rode calves and steers as he grew in size. "I rode all the time, I was obsessed with anything that would buck, the cat, dog, chair arm, anything that would buck a little is what I craved and thrived on." At 15, he went to an amateur rodeo near his home and got on a bull and bucking horse which only fueled his desire for the adrenaline and rodeo lifestyle. The following year, 1985, he joined the International Professional Rodeo Association and started competing as a rodeo cowboy, entering between 150-160 IPRA rodeos each year. "I qualified for the IFR 8 times between 1988 and 1995 and won the world champion bull rider title in 1990, 1992, 1993, and 1994, and won the reserve world champion title in 1991."

In 1994, the dream of Rafter M Rodeo Company became a reality and Dennis began producing IPRA rodeos himself. "I've never done anything but IPRA rodeos, I love the IPRA and it is a great family group to me. I have stuck with the IPRA over the years and have never wanted to be anywhere else." Dennis, who operates the company with his wife, Jill, also manages a commercial herd of approximately 500 Black Angus brood cows for S & T Farms. Besides Jill's job with Steve Arts Surveying, she helps with Rafter M Rodeo Company, coordinating the grand entry and carrying the American flag during rodeo opening ceremonies. Currently, Dennis produces about 5 IPRA rodeos each season, and takes bulls and his portable rodeo arena to help other IPRA contractors produce their rodeos. He has been producing his hometown rodeo, Gupton's Ram Tough Rodeo, at the Robertson County Fairgrounds since 1991.

The IPRA has been a major part of Dennis Morris and his family's life. Three consecutive years, while he was competing as a bull rider, the association awarded his grandmother, Granny Morris, with the Fan of the Year award during the IFR. "They'd call her up and award her plaques, and they even gave her a crown for being the best Rodeo Granny. She was a loud and proud fan when I was riding, and she was so proud that they recognized her. I come from a great and supportive family."

During the past two decades, Dennis has been a pickup man, and has been chosen to work as a pickup man at 6 IFRs. He takes pride in raising and training the horses he rides for the job and has trained 5 of them that he has used. He spends many hours using them for ranch work and gaining their trust until he believes they are ready for the important job. "Once they're ready and you have their trust, you could run them into a building if you asked them to, and you can for sure run them into the side of a bronc to pick up the cowboy. It's been a bigger honor to ride as a pickup man than when I was competing as a bull rider because I've had so much respect for the pickup men I've known. To me, they weren't just rodeo hands, they were true cowboys, and that has been my lifelong dream." 🐾

Gupton's Ram Tough Rodeo

On July 26 and 27, Gupton's Ram Tough Rodeo will be held at the Robertson County Fairgrounds in Springfield, Tennessee, for the 26th consecutive year. The local Gupton's Motors Dodge dealership has been a supportive presenting sponsor throughout its run. "I can't thank Gupton's enough for their support over the years, they have helped to make this rodeo into a wonderful annual event for Robertson County." Dennis Morris began producing the rodeo in 1991, hiring stock contractors those first few years until the conception of his Rafter M Rodeo Company in 1994, and he's been the producer and stock contractor ever since. "It's my hometown rodeo and one I look forward to every year. The rodeo has always been sanctioned with the International Professional Rodeo Association, so because of the great talent we bring for the crowd, the rodeo has grown in size over the years and the community really looks forward to it as well."

Each year, Dennis schedules some of the best announcers and specialty acts to compliment the rodeo action. This year, Dennis is glad to have Mark Northall handling the announcing of the rodeo. Mark has been announcing IPRA rodeos across the country for nearly 20 years and brings the crowd on an enjoyable ride through the rodeo performance. Working alongside Mark will be professional rodeo clown and funny man, "Mighty Mike" Wentworth, who has been keeping rodeo spectators in stitches since he was top IPRA competitors from all across the country. There are plenty of activities for families attending, and besides the great food and craft vendors, they will have a mechanical bull and pony rides to bring out the cowboy or cowgirl in everyone. In the arena during the rodeo, they offer a calf scramble competition for the children watching the rodeo to come down and enjoy some good wild west fun.

Dodge annually holds a Ram Rodeo Sweepstakes where the public can sign up for a free chance at a brand-new Dodge truck. The tickets are distributed at over 500 rodeos across the United States, and 150 rodeos in Canada. Last year, one of the spectators at the Gupton's Ram Rough Rodeo had her ticket drawn out of over 350,000 tickets collected and the lucky lady, Rose Mary Webb, just received her custom designed 2019 Dodge Ram truck.

Dennis has been a cowboy his entire life, competing as a bull rider for 18 years in the IPRA, and it's been a mission of his to share the western lifestyle and professionalism displayed throughout the rodeo industry. "It always bothered me that some people thought of rodeo folks as gypsies that traveled with a carnie lifestyle. One of my main objectives has been for people to see that rodeo is professional and these are professional athletes competing. All I've ever wanted to be was a cowboy, and I have so much respect for cowboys and the cowboy life." 🤠 just 15. Mike's wife, Lindsey Wentworth, will also be performing at the Gupton's Ram Tough Rodeo, as an IPRA specialty act that thrills the crowds with her trick roping, whip popping, and pistol spinning performances.

The rodeo will start at 8:00 p.m. on both Friday, July 26th and Saturday, July 27th, and admission charges are $15 for adults 12-and-up, $10 for children ages 4 to 11, and children 3-and-under are free. The rodeo action generally draws between 5,000 to 6,000 spectators to the rodeo grounds for the weekend. Dennis offers $4,000 in added money to sweeten the pot for the IPRA contestants competing, and the rodeo brings 150 to 200 of the
